Administrative history / Biographical sketch

Note

Guy Henson (1910-1978) was a prominent figure in education in Nova Scotia for nearly 40 years. He served as a school principal (1933); Secretary (1935-1940) and Director of Visual Education (1938-1940), Nova Scotia Department of Education; Director, Atlantic Region (1941-1943) and Assistant Director Overseas (1943-1945), Canadian Legion Educational Services; Director of Adult Education, Nova Scotia Department of Education (1945-1956); and Director of the Institute of Public Affairs, Dalhousie University (1957-1976).

Born in Paris, France on July 21, 1910, Guy Henson was the son of Herbert A. and Elizabeth B. (née Campbell) Henson of Great Britain. The family moved to Annapolis County, Nova Scotia when Henson was a year old, and he graduated from Bridgetown High School in 1926. He spent the next three years at Acadia University in Wolfville, Nova Scotia graduating with a Bachelor of Arts (magna cum laude). Henson married Elizabeth J. Groom of Glace Bay, Nova Scotia on October 17, 1934. Following his university studies, Henson worked as a newspaper proofreader, reporter and junior news editor (1929-1930); an assistant commissioner for the Maritime Provinces Trade Commission to Ontario (1930-1932); and Secretary to Nova Scotia Premier Angus L. MacDonald (1933-1935) before embarking on his distinguished career in education.

Guy Henson was a very active member of his community. He was the first President of the Province House Credit Union Limited; Chairman of the Halifax Cooperative Council; President of the Halifax Cooperative Society Limited; first President of the Halifax Opera Association; President of the Halifax Branch, United Nations Association as well as a National Vice-President of that association; first President of the Halifax Music Festival Association; Chairman of the Nova Scotia Committee for UNICEF; and President of the Nova Scotia Festival of the Arts. Henson received honours and distinctions from the Royal Canadian Legion, the Nova Scotia Association for the Advancement of Coloured People; the Nova Scotia Federation of Home and School Associations; the Halifax and District Federal Local 273; Canadian Labour Congress; and the Nova Scotia chapter, Canadian Institute of Assessors.

In recognition of his widespread contribution to his society, Henson received a Doctor of Civil Laws (honoris causa) from Acadia University on May 6, 1974. Henson was nominated for a Vanier Award in 1976, and on April 19, 1978 he was made a Member of the Order of Canada. Guy Henson died on May 23, 1978.

Administrative history / Biographical sketch

Note

The Institute of Public Affairs (IPA) was founded in 1936 by Lothar Richter and Dalhousie University through a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation in recognition of the need for greater regional economic and social development. It began as an experimental organization, intended to make connections between Dalhousie University and the community and the social sciences and public policy. The IPA's primary areas of activity were government, business, labour and community, with a focus on public administration.

Guy Henson was appointed director in 1957 with a mandate to reorganize the IPA. Under his guidance, the institute broadened its socio-economic research programs, including the Africville Relocation Project and significant work in labour-management relations.

In 1977 Kell Antoft succeeded Henson and in 1980 the institute moved into its own building, the Henson Centre, named in honour of the efforts of its former director. In 1984 the Henson Centre, the IPA and the Office of Part Time Studies of Extension were amalgamated to create the Henson College of Public Affairs and Continuing Education. Funding for Henson College was discontinued in 1993 by Dalhousie University, which led to a decrease in the college's activities. In 2003 Henson College was amalgamated with the College of Continuing Education (CCE).

The Institute of Public Affairs maintained its own library, with holdings of more than 18,000 items, which covered topics such as economic development, local government, industrial relations, management development and labour organization. Beginning in 1984 the institute's library was gradually integrated into Dalhousie University Libraries.

Custodial history

Following Guy Henson's death the fonds were in the custody of Don F. MacLean of the Institute of Public Affairs, Dalhousie University during the summer of 1978. The fonds was then transferred to the custody of Jane Henson, Henson's daughter, before the summer of 1979. The Henson family donated the fonds to the Dalhousie University Archives on August 31, 1979.

Scope and content

Fonds consists of correspondence (1943-1975), publications (1946-1970), addresses and forewords (1944-1977), unpublished documents (1952-1978), material collected for reference and other purposes, newspaper cuttings, memorabilia (1934-1977), and black and white photographs (1946-1975), written or collected by Guy Henson. Reference and other materials pertain to a wide variety of topics, including golf, education in Nova Scotia, political movements and current affairs, social causes, labour, management, and the activities of many local, provincial and national societies.
