Administrative history / Biographical sketch

Note

On March 24, 2003 Fisheries and Oceans Canada received a proposal from Bilcon of Nova Scotia for the construction of a 152-hectare basalt quarry, processing facility and marine shipping terminal at White's Point, approximately 35 km southwest of Digby, Nova Scotia, along the shores of the Bay of Fundy. A joint federal-provincial review panel for the Whites Point Quarry and Marine Terminal Project was announced on November 5, 2004. The three-member panel consisted of Dr. Bob Fournier, Dr. Jill Grant, and Dr. Gunter Muecke. On March 31, 2005 the panel released final guidelines for the preparation of the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS), which would provide direction to Bilcon in preparing a statement of the project's anticipated environmental impact.

The joint panel review provided the report to the Ministers on October 22, 2007. The Ministers released the report on October 23, 2007.

After consideration of the report, the Minister of Environment and Labour announced on November 20, 2007 that the project posed unacceptable risk to the environment and to the community. The application to establish Whites Point Quarry and Marine Terminal was not approved.

Custodial history

Materials were donated to the Dalhousie University Archives by Dr. Jill Grant of Halifax, Nova Scotia on September 18, 2008. Prior to that, the records were in the custody of Dr. Grant.

Scope and content

Collection contains Jill Grant's records from the Joint Review Panel for the Whites Point Quarry and Marine Terminal Project. Materials include the project's environmental impact statement, transcripts from scoping meetings and public hearings, records of the Joint Review Panel, reference and research materials, correspondence, maps and photographs, and other records. The collection provides a comprehensive record of the activities of the Joint Review Panel.

File: MS-2-88, Box 12, Folder 2 - Images of Whites Point, Digby Neck

Title: Images of Whites Point, Digby Neck

Reference code: MS-2-88, Box 12, Folder 2

Date: October 12, 2004 (date of creation)

Scope and content:

File contains 36 digital photographs of Whites Point, Digby Neck, Nova Scotia. The photographs show different views of the point.

Physical description: 36 photographs (jpeg)

Location of originals:

The digital files were donated to the Archives on a compact disc. The disc was processed with the textual records and formerly found in MS-2-88, Box 12, Folder 2. The disc was discarded after the files were transferred to the Archives' storage system on July 23, 2015. The label on the disc sleeve indicated the photographs were taken in December 2004 but the photograph metadata indicates the photographs were taken on October 12, 2004.
