Administrative history / Biographical sketch

Note

The Shipping Reference Collection is a compilation of primary and secondary sources related to shipping and maritime history in Nova Scotia and beyond. The collection has been built by staff at the Dalhousie University Archives from materials acquired through a variety of sources over a number of years.

Custodial history

Materials in the Shipping Reference Collection have been acquired from a wide variety of sources. The reference files were compiled by Charles Armour, former Dalhousie University Archivist, and his various research associates. Other materials were added to the collection as they were accessioned. The microfilm was purchased by the University Archives or created from materials that were loaned for copying. Most of the published materials were purchased by the Dalhousie Libraries.

Scope and content

The Shipping Reference Collection incorporates virtually all miscellaneous shipping records and reference material that were accessioned as part of "MS-8-Ref." A large portion of the collection consists of reference files on various vessels and shipping lines. A card-catalogue index known as "Master and Mates" provides references to microfilmed vessel papers, trade records, registers, and other related materials. The collection also includes photographs, slides, and published materials such as the Lloyd's Register of Ships.

The collection contains four series:

Microfilm
Shipping Line reference files
Vessel reference files
Published materials
