When Gary Karr, the famous double bass player came for a year, HDH said he would like to see him. When he came, HDH spent the best part of an hour talking about himself and his career, with hardly a question about Karr's life and career. In due course HDH said, "Well, thanks very much Mr. Karr, for coming to see me."

Erik Perth heard of Pavarotti's trip to London, from NY. He knew P's agent personally, and daid that the agent owed him (Perth a favour). So Perth leaned on him a bit, got Pavarotti to change planes in Boston, catch a plane to Hx. He was paid $10,000 and an unknown quantityt of smoked salmon for a two hour concert in the afternoon .

Rock concerts, Perth claimed, brought in the money that paid for the losees on serious concerts.
