HONORED BY ENEMY

Dalhousians are to be found in all corners of the world in many a theatre of war. One, at least, is serving with the indomitable partisans of Yugoslavia, William Morris Jones, Arts 1919-23. Major Jones, as he now is, a native of Digby, but previous to the war residing in Toronto, was in peace-time a civil engineer.

In the war of 1914-1918 he lost an eye and, incidentally, brought home a decoration. When the present war broke out, after three times trying to enlist and three times being rejected (having but one eye), he gave up in disgust and set his face towards Britain crossing the Atlantic in a freighter as a seaman. There, during the 1941 blitz, he was attached to a demolition squad, and there, eventually, he fell in with Air Commodore A. C. Critchley, his old commander, through whose good offices he was accepted in the Royal Air Force and took the rank of pilot officer.

He was offered the rank of Flight Lieutenant if he would remain in England but made his way to Egypt and was through the fighting in the western desert. Then, when Malta was in sore straits and anything might happen, he was placed in charge of certain defences in the island of Cyprus. Another turn of the wheel, and he sent his wife word that as a major in the army he was being sent on a special mission.

That was last April, it now appears that he was dropped by parachute into Yugoslavia, where as British liaison officer he is now attached to the staff of General Tito. The Germans have done him the high honor of setting a price on his head.

HONORED BY KING

We are fortunate in having the Citation of one of the Dalhousians honored by the King.

CAPTAIN ROWAN C. COLEMAN (LL.B. '39) Montreal, Princess Patricia's Light Infantry—Military Cross.

"During the morning of July 21, 1943, Captain Coleman was in command of a detachment consisting of a rifle company of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry and supporting arms, which was ordered to force an entry into Leonforte through heavy enemy fire, to establish contact with the detachment of the Edmonton Regiment under Lt.-Col. Jefferson who had been clearing the town during the night against heavy odds. Captain Coleman launched the attack against stubborn opposition with great determination and with complete disregard for his own safety in the face of enemy fire. He displayed leadership and skill of a high order in the employment of supporting arms, destroying large numbers of the enemy, including two tanks and successfully carrying out his mission."

(Captain Coleman was later promoted, in the field, to the rank of Major.)

The Alumni Association aims through the NEWS to keep the growing Dalhousie family in touch with what goes on in the university, and at the same time to keep the scattered alumni in touch with one another.

Dalhousie is now passing through a period akin to that in the war of 1914-1918. While numbers have been inevitably reduced through enlistments in the armed Services, many additional duties of pressing importance to the war effort have fallen upon the various faculties. The complete story cannot be told until the war is over.

While victory is still to be won, Dalhousie, along with other forward-looking bodies, is laying plans for the future, when, we anticipate, the experience of the last war will be repeated and the return of undergraduates together with the influx of new students will strain facilities to their utmost.

The universities have played no small part in the present gigantic struggle. They will have an even greater part to play in the coming days of peace. Second to none, relative to her strength, will be the contribution of our own university. Each one counts. With our united strength Dalhousie will accomplish much. Ora et labora.

HONOR ROLL (Additional)

- Bullock, Reginal Warren (Arts 1938-39, King's), Lieutenant, W.N.S.R., died of wounds received in action in Italy, December 30th. He was twice wounded in this campaign. An only son of Lieutenant-Colonel Rev. G. W. Bullock, padre of World War I and for sixteen years rector of Holy Trinity Anglican Church, Bridgewater, N.S., Lieutenant Bullock went overseas in his father's regiment with the First Canadian Contingent in December, 1939. He was recently described in an overseas press dispatch as the "Wonder man" of his regiment, and during the Sicilian campaign was commended for bravery. His body was buried in Italy; his father assisted the chaplain at the burial.
- Cook, Albert (Science 1934-36), Pilot Officer, R.C.A.F., New Waterford, N.S. Previously reported missing on war service, and now presumed dead—September 14, 1943.
- Good, Edgar Andrew (Science 1932-33), Squadron Leader, R.C.A.F., Quebec, P.Q., was killed on active service, November 13th, and buried on November 18th in Bircham, Newton, Norfolk, England. Educated at McGill and Dalhousie Universities, he went to England with a commission in the R.A.F. and rose steadily in rank. He had seven years with the R.A.F., transferring to the R.C.A.F. last October. At the time of his death he was leader of an air sea rescue squadron.
- Johnson, Winston Case (LL.B. 1937), Major, Army, former Saint John lawyer, was killed in action in Italy, January.
- Jost, Burton Norris, D.F.C. (Diploma of Engineering 1931; B.Sc. 1931), Flight-Lieutenant, R.C.A.F., son of Dr. Arthur Cranswick Jost (Medicine 1893-94) of Dover, Delaware, U.S.A. previously reported missing on active service, on December 26th, was, for official purposes, presumed dead.
- MacDonald, Alfred Whitten (B.A. 1935), Flight-Sergeant, R.C.A.F., of Stellarton, N.S. was killed in action overseas on January 23rd. He was a Navigator. He was married June 18th last to Edith Cavell Blair (B.A. 1936, M.A. 1941) of Ottawa, formerly of Halifax, prior to going overseas. He has two brothers in the Services: Thomas Daniel (B.A. 1931; LL.B. 1933) is with the R.C.A.F. in Ottawa, and Joseph Baxter (B.Sc. 1933) is with the R.C.A.M.C.
- MacKenzie, Daniel Murray (Science 1938-40), Flight Lieutenant, R.C.A.F. Stellarton, N.S., previously reported missing, now presumed dead, November 2, 1943.
- McKim, Charles Williston (Pre-Med. 1940-41), Sergeant, R.C.A.F. of Halifax, N.S., previously reported missing on active service, now for official purposes presumed dead, January 26, 1944.
- MacLean, Isaac Murray (Medicine 1914-15), Squadron Leader, R.C.A.F., native of North Sydney, N.S., died as a result of injuries received in a plane crash December 28th. His death occurred in a hospital in Edmonton, Alberta, January 2nd.
- MacLeod, Malcolm George (Special Arts 1937-38, King's), Squadron Leader, R.C.A.F., Pictou, N.S., previously reported missing now presumed dead, November 2, 1943.
- Rae, Hugh MacKay (B.Sc. 1935), Flight Lieutenant, R.C.A.F., West Branch, Pictou County, N.S. Word was received of his death in Newfoundland, December 8th. He was killed while on duty there, having been stationed in Newfoundland a month. He enlisted for duty the first day war was declared and received his wings November 6, 1939, and was commissioned as Pilot Officer. He received his training at the Toronto Flying Club, Borden and Trenton, Ont. He was flying instructor at Saskatoon No. 4 Training School. He served as navigator instructor and later as officer commanding navigation at Claresholm, Alberta, and later took a reconnaissance course at Charlottetown.
- Missing
- Haines, Victor Yelverton (Science 1936-39), Flight Lieutenant, R.C.A.F., Halifax, N.S. Reported missing overseas after air operations with the R.C.A.F. on November 26th it was learned November 29th. Air Force Headquarters at Ottawa wired notification to his wife, who, before her marriage, was Margaret Saunders (B.A. 1936).

Wounded

Cameron, John Ralph (B.A. 1936; LL.B. 1938), Captain, Halifax, N.S., who was reported to be leading Canadians in Italy, was officially reported wounded in action, in October. Captain Cameron's company was the second company of the regiment to go ashore, and took a prominent part in the fighting around Reggio Calabria. He has been overseas for three years. Nature and extent of his injuries were not revealed.

Eisenhauer, Harry Macdonald (Science 1938-40), Captain, Lower LaHave, N.S., was wounded in Italy, according to word received by his parents in December. No information was available as to the nature and extent of his wounds.

Frazee, Rowland Cardwell (Arts 1938-39, King's), Lieutenant, New Brunswick Regiment, of St. Stephen, N.B., was listed as "wounded" in the casualty list issued by the Minister of National Defence, January 27th.

Jones, James Harvey (Engineering 1937-40), Lieutenant, of Dartmouth, N.S., was wounded in Italy according to word received from Ottawa December 23rd. He has been overseas since 1940.

MacKay, Archibald Francis (Medicine 1914-15), Captain, of Oshawa, Ont. was listed as wounded in a casualty list in October. Captain MacKay, who was the medical officer of his unit, is a native of Truro. He served in the First Great War as a Lieutenant in the 85th Battalion, Nova Scotia Highlanders, until invalided home.

Nickerson, William James Murdoch (Medicine 1940-41), Sergeant Navigator, R.C.A.F., Edmonton, Alberta. Was reported missing since the night of November 19th following air operations over Germany.

Decorations

Bigelow, Alan Eaton (Science and Engineering, 1936-39), Flight Lieutenant, R.C.A.F., son of Honourable Mr. Justice (B.A. 1894; M.A. 1898; LL.B. 1896) and Mrs. H. V. Bigelow of Regina, was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, October. He left college to enlist in the R.A.F. just a month before the war began. He returned from Overseas to instruct at a station in Western Canada, and for some time was stationed at Debort

N.S. before being sent overseas again. The citation which accompanied his award stated that his "keenness, consistency, reliability and skillful airmanship" in bombing in the Ruhr Valley had made the presentation possible.

Bethune, Clarence Melville (B.Sc. 1931; M.D., C.M. 1931), Major, R.C.A.M.C., Halifax, N.S., was made a Member, Order of the British Empire (Military Division) in the King's New Year's Honours List, January, 1944.

Coleman, Rowan Corry (LL.B. 1939), Major, Army, of Montreal. Defence Headquarters issued September 23rd a list of 52 awards for gallantry and distinguished conduct to Canadian troops who took part in the Sicilian Campaign. Included in the list was Major Coleman, who was awarded the Military Cross resulting from the Leonforte Battle.

Cumming, Alison Archibald (B.Sc. 1930), Master Sergeant, United States Army Air Forces, Air Transport Command. It was announced early in November that Master Sergeant Cumming was to be decorated by King Peter of Yugoslavia. The award was to be made "for meritorious service" performed in the interest of the pro-Allied Yugoslav government. Sergeant Cumming was a member of a United States Army Air Forces, Air Transport Command crew which flew a bomber from United States to the Yugoslav forces fighting for the liberation of their country. He is the son of Dr. Melville (B.A. 1897; LL.D. 1919) and Mrs. Cummings of Halifax. He joined the United States Army Air Force Ferry Command three years ago. Since that time he has helped deliver United States aircraft to all parts of the world.

Hanway, James Albert (St. F.X., Arts '36, Dal. LL.B. '38) Squadron Leader in the R.C.A.F., son of J. A. Hanway, K.C. (LL.B. 1908) Chairman of the Nova Scotia Board of Commissioners of Public Utilities, after two years overseas was home on a furlough of thirty days in January and February visiting his wife and wee son. "Ab" has been serving in the middle east and returned fit and seemingly none the worse for his contacts with the enemy along the Mediterranean coast.

He wears the Africa Cross, given for service in Africa prior to the Jerries being driven from the continent; and as well, the Air Force Cross, given for "meritorious service and devotion to duty". On his return to Britain he is to report at Buckingham Palace to be invested by His Majesty, the King.

James, Alan MacKenzie "Mack" James (Science and Engineering 1937-40), Flying Officer, R.C.A.F., son of Alan MacKenzie James (B.Sc. 1913) and Mrs. James (Clara Alice Crewe, B.A. 1914; M.A. 1925) of Halifax, was awarded the Air Force Cross "in recognition of valuable service in the air" as pilot, Air Force Headquarters announced November 26th. He enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in August 1940, received his "wings" at Calgary in the Spring of 1941, after which he was posted to patrol operations on the west coast for three months. Following a brief period on the east coast he was stationed at Gander, Newfoundland, where he has been flying as first pilot on a Liberator bomber. He was commissioned as flying officer, April 1942.

Smith, George Isaac (LL.B. 1932), Major, North Nova Scotia Highlanders, of Truro, N.S., was awarded the Canadian Efficiency Decoration, January, 1944.

NAVAL TRAINING DIVISION

The University Naval Training Division under Lt. Comdr. F. R. Hayes, with Lt. F. T. Flavelle as chief instructor, has an enrolment of thirty-eight, of which sixteen are from Dal. and the balance from the Technical College. The hours of training are the same as the O.T.C., six a week. Each Thursday evening the unit meets in the Munro Room of the Forrest building for lectures. On Saturday afternoon, the men are taken by Naval buses to H.M.C.S. Stadacona for field training. From there they march to the Dockyard, with its facilities for all types of seamanship and shore duty, where the remaining part of the afternoon is spent.

The U.N.T.D. differs from other services on the campus in that its members have actually joined the navy, and will go on active service on completion of their courses or on leaving the university. They wear the uniform of the ordinary seaman, and are classed either as stokers or ordinary seamen. All mechanical and electrical engineers are classed as stokers.

As each year of training ends, all seamen spend two weeks at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, Deep Brook, while the stokers spend the same time at H.M.C.S. Stadacona. When this training is complete they are free to go to sea for the summer months and return to college in the autumn. The U.N.T.D. is the only way for university men to join the Navy and earn the chance of a commission, otherwise they would have to enter the service in the ordinary way and work up through the ower deck.

ARTS AND SCIENCE

To those who must remain, the most surprising thing about Arts and Science is that on the surface there are so few changes to surprise us. The Navy has taken over King's, which retains only the office, the President's Lodge, and a part interest in the Chapel. It has built a semi-permanent and attractive building on the foundation of the old Gym. to feed and house some of its officers in training, and a less attractive structure for their handmaidens at the corner of Oxford Street and Coburg Road. But neither the streams of subbies with note books nor the flocks of wrens fluttering on the paths between the Arts Building and the Murray Homestead have appreciably changed the picture of the Campus. Nor are the uniforms of students—the C.O.T.C. and the more recent U.A.T.C. and U.N.T.D.—particularly conspicuous. Parades are held in early morning or in evening hours and after the frantic early adjustments the additional work has been taken in stride. Students are busier than ever before, but studies have not suffered. Indeed, with the general incentive to activity, and some practical encouragement from various war time regulations, students who remain for any length of time are on the whole an ambitious and intelligent group. Registration has kept up well, but naturally there is an increase in the proportion of science and pre-professional students, of girls, and of men under military age. More students leave with courses incomplete after one or two years, and the relative figures of many classes have changed. The number of forms and notices passing from Ottawa through the Registrar's office serves to familiarize students with the paper work to which they will need to accustom themselves on joining the services or in filing income tax returns and other votive offerings to democracy when they enter civilian business. Lodgings each year appear impossible to secure, but are always obtained; meals for men are served at Shirriff Hall, and snacks between are purchased, with or without text-books and stationery, at Roy's store. Life proceeds at higher tension and a quicker pace; the result being most evident perhaps in "student activities"—that is to say activities other than studies—of which the number remains with a smaller attendance but no lack of enthusiasm. The usual games are played; the Gazette is having a good year; Glee Club fulfils its usual function to smaller audiences and promises a musical entertainment of some pretensions for Munro Day; and Sodales has apparently taken a new lease of life.

Many familiar figures are missing from the staff—J. H. L. Johnstone and George Henderson are with the Navy and working with some of their advanced students at jobs which we shall have to wait to hear about until they have fulfilled their part in winning the war. R. E. D. Cattley has forsaken Classics for Link trainers with the R.C.A.F. at Dartmouth; Harold King is doing important work for Chemical Warfare in the States; Stewart Bates and R. A. MacKay are giving Ottawa the benefit of their knowledge and administrative skill. Some classes have been dropped for the present, others shared by colleagues who remain or taken over by additional members of the staff, of whom may be mentioned Dr. Roebuck in Classics, Dr. Chute in Chemistry, and Dr. W. J. Archibald (B. A. 1933 with Great Distinction, M.A., 1935, Ph.D. (Virginia)).

We regret the loss of the old familiar faces, and the all too sudden departure of so many freshmen and sophomores; but the general impression is one of stability and continuity. The war is taking a heavy toll and enforcing many changes. But on the surface, the old life seems to go on.

THE MEDICAL SCHOOL

To look at the Dalhousie Medical School of this year of 1944 gives a spur to the hopeful and the lie to the pessimist. Thirty years ago it was housed in the small building at the corner of College and Carleton Streets, with the Forrest Building as an inadequate background. Today, it takes in most of the Forrest Building, all of the Medical Science Building, and has its own Health Centre and Library. Clinically, it has expanded from the wards of the Victoria General Hospital, to include those of the Grace Maternity, Children's, Tuberculosis and Infectious Hospitals. From having none such, it has a pathological museum, excellent library facilities with a trained librarian, and an up-and-coming anatomical museum.

This is a great gain—a very great gain. But the years are relentless. You make a great stride ahead and almost immediately time and tide have caught up with you, are passing you while you pause for breath. Most of the expansion mentioned above occurred in the burgeoning Twenties, when the university was so alive with initiative and optimism. In the last fifteen years, only the new Library has been added to our physical assets and while it represents—despite some architectural stupidities—a great addition, the needs of an ever-expanding medical world already find us inadequate to meet them.

It goes without saying that we must expand to meet these needs, that we must make in the very near future an intensive effort to fit our medical school for the demands which will soon be made upon it by a changing society. We need urgently increased space and facilities for Anatomy and Pharmacology: in fact, for every pre-clinical department. The Medical Science Building is already bulging its walls; the Forrest Building is taxed to its utmost. The Victoria General Hospital, where our basic clinical training is given, is now hopelessly inadequate for the teaching of today—to say nothing of the teaching of tomorrow. The Grace Maternity Hospital, which was built entirely without considerations for teaching, requires structural additions to suit it for that purpose. We should have a residence on the medical campus—close to the library and hospitals—in which at least the students of the clinical years can be housed, so that these can be available for calls night and day to the neighboring hospitals. We need greater facilities for post-graduate teaching, not only to meet the requirements of our present Refresher Courses, but to deal with other aspects of this important problem.

These are our immediate needs. But beyond these challenge upon challenge hangs against the horizon. This is a time of change: its smell is in the very air. State Medicine, or some form of Health Insurance that will probably eventuate as such, is in the offing. It will entail perhaps revolutionary transformations in our medical schools—for which Dalhousie, among others, is still ill-prepared.

Then there is the very great possibility that before long all medical schools will have to put their clinical teachers on a full-time, salaried basis. In several large American schools this has already been done in part or wholly; it being recognized that clinical teaching is too important for anything less than a teacher's fullest attention.

We must therefore keep our eye open to these portents. We must begin to think about them so earnestly that when circumstances force them on us we will not be found unprepared. To those men who live only in the present—our realists—all these new buildings, new equipment, new hospitals, new residences, full-time clinical staffs on salary, are chimeræ, and those who advocate them wild-eyed (even cock-eyed) idealists. But so would they have seemed wild-eyed idealists who, thirty years ago, when I was a medical student, had dared to advocate that in the next quarter of a century Dalhousie must undertake the very expansion she has completed.

The past of the Dalhousie Medical School can therefore be our guide and our encouragement. We can begin again to emulate—we must begin to emulate—the golden Campbell-Pearson era of optimism and expansion. To do other is to admit “that there were giants in those days”—and none in these. Surely an impossible admission!

But one thing is as certain as tomorrow's sun: neither Dalhousie nor its Medical School can afford to mark time any longer. Tomorrow is calling. The voice may be a bit muffled at present by the drums of war, but it will soon take on a more imperative tone. It might not be so well for us in that day to be found wanting—or unresponsive.

KELLOGG FOUNDATION SCHOLARSHIPS

At the opening of the fall term the Dalhousie Medical School announced the award of eight scholarships, amounting in all to $3,000 to eight first year medical students. The awards were made on the basis of high academic standing and the need of financial assistance through the recommendations of the heads of Maritime colleges and a special committee of the Dalhousie Medical Faculty.

The eight scholarships, amounting to $375 each were awarded to J. I. McGillivray of Amherst (Dalhousie); Donald D. Drysdale, Halifax (Dalhousie); Angus J. Neary, St. Johns, Newfoundland (Memorial University College); J. A. S. Wilson, Berwick (Acadia); L. H. Burdette, Dundas, P.E.I. (Prince of Wales and Acadia); Donald C. Metcalf, Saint John (University of New Brunswick); Neil Kenneth MacLennan, New Glasgow (Mt. Allison); M. Allison Deacon, Freetown, P.E.I. (Prince of Wales.)

The W. K. Kellogg fund was given to the Dalhousie Medical School to help deserving medical students through their course during the war period. The original sum was $15,000 and by means of it, in two academic years, no less than fifty-one Maritime students have received direct benefit.

THE LAW SCHOOL

Nothing very exciting has happened in the Law School since the last issue of the Alumni News. The School continues to decline in numbers and this year there are eight in the first year, six in the second year and eight in the third year; twenty-two in all or less than one class in normal times. The second year is rather odd because it consists of four Newfoundlanders, a man from Prince Edward Island and a girl from British Columbia; Mr. Hanway was startled when he first heard that his class in Nova Scotia practice did not contain a single Nova Scotian. Old students in uniform continue to drop in at the school. Two weeks ago, for instance, we had a visit from Ab Hanway, now Squadron-Leader Hanway, back in Canada on a short furlough and we see quite a number of the more recent graduates who are in the Army but have not yet gone overseas.

Tentative plans have been drawn up by the Nova Scotia Barrister's Society and the Law School for the giving of a refresher course in law to returned men after the war. The aim of the course will be to reaccustom you fellows to the habit of sustained work with books, to refresh your memory of the basic principles of law and to retrain you in the carrying out of transactions recurring in the daily practice of law—in the case of that goodly company who graduated but never practised for "retrain" read "train." The course will consist in part of discussions of practical problems of importance in such subjects as Contract, Land Law, Estates, Criminal Law and Taxation and, in part, of instruction in carrying through common transactions such as probating a will, drafting agreements, evicting a tenant and the like. There will be as little lecturing as possible; the slogan will be "self-service" or "God helps those who help themselves."

This course will be put on for a minimum registration of twelve men, it will last about three months and it won't cost you a cent. If you decide to attend it, you will spend your day working in an office in Halifax and in the late afternoon or evening you will attend a lecture or discussion period conducted by a lawyer practising downtown. Why not by the professors at the Law School? Because there will be so many boys taking the law course at Dalhousie after the war, that the professors will be doing well if they can keep up with their ordinary work. You will even, we hope, get paid by the government for attending the course, probably at the rate of $10.00 a week unmarried and $14.00 a week married. Why not plan to attend the course?

These plans are still tentative. All that is definitely decided is that a refresher course will be given. What we should like to hear are your comments, criticisms and suggestions. The course is planned for you and we should like it to be the kind of thing you want. As law students you were vocal enough and it's not likely that the war has made you any different; but unfortunately we cannot, though we should like to, hear your voices at this distance. Drop George Curtis or John Willis a line at the Law School and tell them what you have been saying or thinking about the proposed refresher course.

THE DENTAL SCHOOL

The war has caused many changes and readjustments within the Dental Faculty. These started even before the formal declaration of war, when two members of the Staff joined their Militia Units. Four more members have since joined Active Service Units, or left to carry on special duties in connection with the war. Vacancies were taken care of by new appointments and some readjustments of courses. Most of these changes had been completed when we were requested to carry on courses during the Summer months so as to speed up the graduation of dental officers for the Forces. This called for very careful planning both because of the necessity of linking up with the Medical School in those courses taken jointly by students of both Faculties and, also that there would be no lowering of educational standards. While the plan has meant a lot of extra work for the staff it has resulted in a big saving of time for the students and has also given a much better type of patient's clinic. This clinic now runs throughout the year, with only short breaks for brief holidays, instead of closing down each summer for approximately five months and then rebuilding it each fall.

Dental students, who are physically fit, automatically join the army at the commencement of their third professional year. They are then given leave, with pay and living allowance, and permitted to continue their course provided their progress is satisfactory. This has been most helpful financially to the students.

The first dental class graduated in 1912 so that on the outbreak of war a large proportion of the graduates were still at an age when they could serve in some branch of the armed forces. The result has been that the percentage of graduates now serving is very high. All physically fit members of the war, and immediate pre-war, classes are on active service.

The generosity of the Kellogg Foundation has made it possible to offer eight scholarships each year to students entering the first professional year. These were first offered in 1942, when two students qualified; in 1943, three were awarded. These are the first dental scholarships to be offered here.

The present first year class has ten students, which is the maximum number that can be accommodated under present conditions. This means that there will be barely enough graduates to meet the replacement requirements of the area served by Dalhousie, and at the same time take up some of the slack caused by the small classes of the prewar decade.

The Faculty is at present concerned with post war conditions, since it is felt that the more pressing war problems have been taken care of. The Rehabilitation plans for discharged members of the Armed Forces make generous provision for the person who plans to continue his studies and, with the experience of the last war as a guide, it is likely that a number will plan to resume, or commence, dental courses. Where these people have the necessary qualifications it will be necessary to make provision for them. Then too, there are the varied implications of the projected Health Insurance plan. If this comes into force it will mean a sharp stepping up of the size of dental classes in order to supply the large increase in dentists that will be necessary. It is also very likely that other demands will be made on dental education, such as instruction for specially trained dental nurses and refresher courses for dentists employed under the scheme.

ALUMNI SMOKER

It has long been the custom for the Alumni Association at its annual spring banquet to have as guests the members of the graduating classes. This meant that the Association made touch with the student only when he was about to leave the college halls. It was felt that this should be cured and some effort made to bring the student and the Association together at the beginning, rather than at the end, of his course.

It was decided to hold a Smoker in the gymnasium on January 21st and this was done. Major "Ray" Smith acted as master of ceremonies and brief speeches were made by Col. Laurie, Chairman of the Board of Governors, Mr. Justice Archibald, President of the Association, and President Stanley. The whole was kept as bright and informal as possible and the general impression was that a good start had been made towards what the Association had in mind.

But let the students themselves speak. Under the title "Alumni Smoker Is Acclaimed" the Dalhousie Gazette said:

"Members of the Class '97 mixed freely with Class '47 at an informal smoker held in the Gym last Friday by the Alumni Association. The purpose of the event was to re-establish contacts between Dalhousians past and present, and the almost unanimous opinion of those who attended was that the meeting had done much to attaining that end.

"Entertainment for the evening was extremely varied. All joined in singing the traditional college and faculty songs, some of which present students had never heard before. Other songs rendered during the evening ranged from "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" to "Pistol Packin' Mama."

"Lengthy speeches were conspicuous by their absence at the affair, while the few talks that were heard were very short, informal and entertaining. Those who attended were offered a wealth of cigars and cigarettes, and refreshments were also served.

"Highlight of the evening was a tall story contest in which Mr. Justice Doull, Dr. Corston and J. A. Hanway, K.C. participated. The quality of the stories was judged by a sensational new discovery presented before the public for the first time which automatically indicated the merits of the story. The contest which was marked by extremely keen competition resulted in a victory for Dr. Corston, who was thereupon presented with the first prize of two cigars. The other participants received consolation prizes of a cigar and a cigarette respectively".

In other words a good beginning was made and plans are being considered for further efforts along this line. The object, of course, is not merely entertainment but that students may get a chance to know the alumni, who in turn may be able to help them in any way that offers.

AT THE CAPITAL

Old students and "Profs" of "the college by the sea" to the tune of a hundred and seventy met at the annual gathering of the Ottawa Dalhousie Association on December ninth. John E. Read (B.A. '09) formerly Dean of the Law School, now of the Department of External Affairs, president of the Association, presided. Captain "Joe" Connolly R.C.N.V.R., of navy show fame "fulfilled the duties of cheer leader and rabble rouser with a deft skill born of long and diligent experience". Speakers were greeted with not unmelodious introductions from the one hundred and seventy throats.

Dean Grant of the Medical school told of the part the university was playing in the war and playing so well. Dean Vincent Macdonald of the Law School, presently Deputy Minister of Labor, spoke of the atmosphere of Dalhousie "in which teachers and students could work together freely" and of just pride in the university "because Dalhousie went deeper than the outward embellishments and provided scope for the foundation of university education—good teaching".

Col. A. H. Anderson (LL.B. '93) was the oldest graduate present, and Fred Rogers ('43) the youngest. R. B. Farrell, "a graduate of the golden days of Dalhousie—1900 to 1910—recalled that four Canadian Prime Ministers, Sir John Thompson, Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Robert Borden, and Viscount Bennett, were ex-Dalhousians, and that five present Cabinet Ministers are former students or professors".

At the head table were the President John and Mrs. Read, Dean and Mrs. Grant, Navy Minister Angus L. and Mrs. Macdonald, and Captain "Joe" Connolly. Hugh Huggins (LL.B. '27) did duty at the piano. Dr. J. H. L. Johnstone and Prof. R. A. MacKay, both presently in Ottawa, spoke briefly. Regrets at inability to be present were received from three Cabinet Ministers. The Hon. J. E. Michaud (LL.B. '13) was made Honorary President and "Sam" Rettie (Arts '07) was unanimously chosen President.

Greetings were sent to the sister Association in New York to be presented personally by "Joe" Connolly, and the sum of twenty dollars was voted to the parent Association at Halifax. After three hours of genuine Dalhousie conviviality the gathering dispersed, its members whistling and humming as they went "Glory, Glory to Dalhousie".

CLASS OF '97

The twenty-first day of September, 1943, marked the fiftieth anniversary of the day on which the Arts and Science Class which graduated in the Spring of 1897 first attended lectures. That was in what is now the Forrest Building on the old campus. If it were not for the war the class would have celebrated the occasion by a general re-union, but instead members in Halifax at the time came together in the forenoon at the Studley campus. Such re-union as it was marked the tenth occasion on which the class came together to recall the old days. After a call on President Stanley they visited the graves of their professors who are buried in Camp Hill cemetery—President Forrest, Prof. Charles Macdonald and Prof. MacMechan. In the evening they gathered for dinner in a private dining room at the Lord Nelson Hotel, when letters from several of the classmates were read. The class list embraces the names of eighty-five men and women who were associated with the class either as undergraduates or general students during the four undergraduate years. The life President of the class, Charlie J. Burchell, K.C., has recently been appointed High Commissioner of Canada to South Africa, having previously served in the same capacity in Australia and Newfoundland.

KING'S

(King's buildings are occupied wholly by the Navy. King's has found a temporary war-time home at Pine Hill).

King's men continue to carry on their college life at Pine Hill where they have established a happy community. The largest freshman class of the war arrived in the autumn of 1943, and in consequence there has been a more varied and interesting round of activities. Hali-burton, under the Presidency of Professor Burns Martin, is still the most active society and is well attended both by students and alumni in the city. Quinctilian has happily been revived and King's is again represented in intercollegiate debating.

A number of first rate scholars are now at King's on Foundation and Entrance Scholarships. Eight of these were awarded this year. The Foundation Scholarships, which give the holder $600 over four years, were established in 1942. It is to be hoped that the day is coming when our Canadian colleges can offer scholarships covering all the expenses of deserving students. National Government scholarships on such a scale would be a splendid contribution to the future of this country and the world.

President Walker, in a brief presented to the Royal Commission now sitting in Nova Scotia, made a strong plea for the federation of all the colleges in the Maritime Colleges.

The Navy is doing well by the King's buildings which are kept as spic and span as any ship. They made a fine rink this winter on the football field in front of King's.

ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION

The first meeting of the season of the Dalhousie Alumnae Association was held on October 8 at Shirreff Hall. The chief business of the meeting was the planning of the Annual Tea. After the business meeting a very interesting talk on modern Greece was given by Professor Roebuck the new assistant professor of Classics. He has studied in Athens for three years and thus had much of interest to tell the members.

An unusually successful tea was held by the Dalhousie Alumnae Association at Shirreff Hall on November 19. Mrs. H. G. Grant acted as convenor of the tea committee, Mrs. N. B. Coward—pantry table, Mrs. H. L. Stewart—white elephant table, and Mrs. J. R. Longard—gift table. A feature of the pantry table was the sale of bananas, a fruit of which Haligonians see very little. During the afternoon vocal solos by Miss Dorothy Hamilton and Miss Louise Bishop were very much enjoyed. All the tables were well patronized and more money was raised than usual. The proceeds will be used for the expenses of the Alumnae Association and the Loyalty Fund.

A tea for the Freshettes was held by the Alumnae Association on October 8, at Shirreff Hall. Mrs. Earle Giffin and Miss McKean received the guests. The tea table was beautifully decorated with roses and green tapers. Tea was poured by Dr. Nichols and Miss G. Faulkner. Miss Forest, Hon. President, introduced Mrs. G. F. Pearson who spoke on the history of the furnishings of the Hall. Besides the Freshettes, the Executive and interested members of the Alumnae attended.

A delightful party was held by a large group of Dalhousie graduates on December 26, at the home of Dr. Roberta Nichols, in honor of Mrs. Murray Macneill, in appreciation of Mrs. Macneill's generosity and kindness to the women students of the University for many years. An illuminated address was read and presented to her by Dr. Mabel Morrison accompanied by a lovely black English leather purse with a Victory Bond which was presented by Miss Joyce Harris, and a bouquet of roses given her by Miss Mary Foley, on behalf of "Old Dalhousie Girls". It was a complete surprise to Mrs. Macneill who had been ill at her home with influenza and had just recovered, but she thanked the Alumnae members in a gracious manner. The table and rooms were decorated in accordance with the Christmas season and Miss Carol McInnes poured tea.

OUR LETTER BAG

The NEWS has received many letters from far and near expressing appreciation of its publication. As those who get the NEWS to the press are all busy people and can only snatch time as it offers from their other duties, it is impossible to write replies to each as we would like to do. However, we hope they will write again and that others still will join them, and send us on any information they may have, suggestions too, and, of course, the sinews of war as well. Here we give a few extracts from our Letter Bag.

Wollaston, Mass.—“I wish I could be a George Munro or a similar benefactor, however, I come from Nova Scotia and Pictou County to boot, and spring from a good sturdy Scotch stock. Good luck to the ALUMNI NEWS and those who foster it. I'll try and not be a delinquent”. Another—“I only attended Dalhousie College (on ye old Parade) for one term (1881-1882) but that appears to constitute me an alumnus. Your straight appeal on back cover of THE ALUMNI NEWS (Oct. 1943) challenges me (though I cannot afford luxuries now or pleasures)—sends cheque—am in my eighty-second year”.

New York—“I was interested in the last number of the NEWS and think that you all did a fine job in getting it out.” Ottawa—Congratulate you on the fine work you and the Alumni are doing for dear old Dalhousie.” Another—“Your concluding verse ‘when the Great Lord John goes down below’ indeed recalled old days. It is now just about forty years since I first heard Dalhousie students sing it with great enthusiasm, always of course when Lord John himself was within earshot. Wishing you every success.”

Another—“I was pleased to receive the ALUMNI NEWS and I hope you will continue publication. I took my B.A. at Dalhousie in 1893 and M.A. in 1897, so I am fairly well up in the alumni. I was especially interested in the article on George Munro, as I was enabled through his benefactions to take an Arts course winning a Munro Bursary in 1889 and an Exhibition in 1891.” Another—“The accounts of Dalhousie in the News make me proud to be a Dalhousian. Judging by this, I should say that Dalhousie is doing the full measure of what a University should according to its means. We owe a large debt to the Executive in Halifax for resuming publication. I trust they do not feel it is too troublesome a task.”

Minneapolis—“We were greatly pleased to receive the Alumni News for October and compliment the editors for their fine work.” Exeter, Ont.—“Please send me the next issue of the News and I trust there will be many more issues of the publication.” Edmonton—“I am enclosing a cheque for an additional $10.00. Your plea on the back of the last issue completely melted my heart. I have often been in a similar position which called for a lot of work on the part of a few with little result or sympathy from the majority.” Hawaii—“If you happen to contact any member of that wild and happy 1898 Graduating Class in Law, please say ‘Aloha Nui’ to them for me.”

Boston—“Thanks for a splendid edition of the ALUMNI NEWS”. Toronto—“I just read the October issue of the ALUMNI NEWS and want to say I found it most interesting and informative.” Ottawa—“THE NEWS. It is well worth while.” Ford City, Pennsylvania—“THE ALUMNI NEWS has been most welcome. Hope you can continue.” Brooklyn, N.Y.—“Dalhousie is always in the minds of its old graduates and every scrap of information or news is always more than welcome. The Alumni Association is doing a good job. I hope they keep it up.”

There are many more letters of like tenor, but space will not permit to quote further.

PERSONALS

Information received in Halifax September 29th, from England, announced that honours in the Order of St. John, the oldest Order of chivalry in the world, were conferred by His Majesty the King on a number of Nova Scotians for services to the Order and the St. John Ambulance Association and Brigade. The list of honours conferred on Canadians, included the following Dalhousians:—

To be Officers of the Order—Dr. Alan Reid Morton (M.D., C.M. 1925), Corps Surgeon, Officer (Brother). Dr. Morton is Commissioner of Health for the City of Halifax, and Director of the City's First Aid and Casualty work. He is president of the Halifax Centre of the St. John Ambulance Association and a member of the Council of the Nova Scotia Branch.

To be Serving Brothers (or Sisters)—Miss Dorothy Waites Duncan (Arts 1903-04), who rendered important services as a V.A.D. in England and in France in the First Great War.

—Dr. Saul Harold Keshen (M.D., C.M. 1920), who has acted for some years as an examiner in First Aid.

Maynard Brown Wyman (B.A. 1922) Manager of the District Engineering and Service Department of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., and a native of Yarmouth, N.S., received his company's highest award—the Order of Merit—in recognition of his work on the United States War Production Board, it was announced September 16th. Mr. Wyman, after serving with the Canadian Army Overseas in the First Great War, and later with the Merchant Marine, joined the Westinghouse Company in 1923.

At a Town Council meeting held in September, Raeburn Fraser McCunn (LL.B. 1931) well-known lawyer of Cumberland County, Nova Scotia, and a resident of River Phillip, was appointed as Stipendiary Magistrate for the Town of Springhill.

Ralph Sedley Morton (B.A. 1929, LL.B. 1931) a native of Halifax, is playing a prominent part in handling the world's wartime news as editor of the Associated Press of Great Britain. His newspaper career started when he was only 16, when he took a job as reporter with the Halifax Herald. In 1937 he was New England correspondent with The Canadian Press in Boston. Now he supervises the New York APGB desk, where Associated Press news from the fighting fronts and from the United States is assembled and cabled to London, then to be delivered to British newspapers.

William Henry Bowes, B.E. (Diploma of Engineering 1941) was appointed Assistant in the Engineering Department of Dalhousie University in September.

A recent announcement (October) by the President of the University of Toronto, stated that in the Ontario College of Education, Miss Winifred Glen Barnstead (B.A. 1906), a native of Halifax, Director of the Library School at Toronto, had been promoted to the rank of Professor of Library Science.

The United Church at Glenelg, N.S., has been named "The Kirk Memorial Church" in honor of Rev. Joseph Howe Kirk (Arts 1889-90, 93-95), East River, St. Mary's, pastor for 22 years, from 1913 to 1935, and since that time pastor-Emeritus. The congregation, in a special meeting September 26th, directed the session that a shield bearing the name of the church be made and placed at the entrance to the church building.

Carleton Matthew Chisholm (Arts 1939-40) of Kentville, was appointed in October to the teaching staff of the Morris Street Junior High School, Halifax.

Ivan Maxwell Gillis L.T.C.M., Organ, (Arts 1934-38) of Halifax, was among those receiving gold medals at the presentations to the graduating class of the Toronto Conservatory of Music which took place in Convocation Hall, Toronto, October 18th.

Dr. Chalmers Jack Mackenzie, C.M.G. (B.E. 1909, LL.D. 1941), Dean of Engineering at the University of Saskatchewan, and acting President of the National Research Council, Ottawa, was awarded the Sir John Kennedy medal by the Engineering Institute of Canada, it was announced October 20th, by the President of the organization. The medal is awarded "for outstanding merit in the profession and noteworthy contribution to the science of engineering."

Dr. William Earl Pollett, (B.A. 1930, M.D., C.M. 1934) who previously practised at New Germany, N.S., was successful in examinations written overseas for the degree of Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, in October. He is a member of the British Medical Service in Edinburgh.

The appointment of Joseph Patrick McIsaac, K.C. (LL.B. 1911) formerly of Antigonish, N.S., and now of Sexsmith, Alberta, as District Court Judge in the Northern district of Alberta was announced in November.

On the eve of his completion of thirty years of service in the office of town solicitor, Alexander John Campbell, K.C. (B.A. 1886, LL.B. 1889) on November 5th tendered his resignation to the Town Council of Truro, N.S.

Henry Craig Friel (LL.B. 1925) regional counsel for the Canadian National Railways at Moncton, N.B., was appointed a King's Counsel in November.

Arthur S. Barnstead (B.A. 1893; LL.B. 1895) Deputy Provincial Secretary for Nova Scotia, was presented with the Imperial Service Order for long civic service at an investiture held at Government House, Ottawa, November 24th. Mr. Barnstead has been for over thirty-seven years in the Nova Scotia government service.

Early in the New Year, Miss Edna Agnes Electa MacLennan (B.A. 1929) of Brookfield, N.S., took over her new duties as Assistant Secretary on the staff of the National Office of the Canadian Nurses' Association at Montreal.

J. Gerald Godsoe (B.A. 1926; LL.B. 1928) of Toronto, and formerly of Halifax, was appointed Chairman of the Wartime Industries Control Board and Co-ordinator of Controls of the Munitions Department, it was announced November 23rd. Mr. Godsoe for the past year associate co-ordinator of Controls, succeeds Henry Borden, K.C. (Law 1922-24) of Toronto, whose resignation was announced a few days before his appointment. Mr. Godsoe is a member of the Emergency Coal Production Board and as Chairman of the Industries Control Board has been appointed a member of the Prices Board and the Production Board of the Munitions Department, succeeding Mr. Borden in both capacities.

The Munitions Department, Ottawa, announced November 30th, the appointment of James Gordon Fogo (LL.B. 1924) of Halifax, Associate Co-ordinator of Controls, as Chairman of the Federal Housing Co-ordination Committee, succeeding Henry Borden of Toronto.

For the third time in five years, the Halifax Infirmary played host to triplets, when three daughters were born December 5th to Dr. Joseph Frederick (D.D.S. 1930) and Mrs. Griffin of 91 Inglis Street, Halifax. Mrs. Griffin is the former Catherine MacAskill of Halifax.

Word was received in December of the appointment of Dr. Willard Owen Thompson (B.A. 1919) of Chicago, as Professor of Medicine at the University of Illinois, College of Medicine, Chicago. His wife is the former Phebe K. Christianson (M.D., C.M. 1923) of Sydney Mines, N.S.

Claude Sartoris Richardson (LL.B. 1923), Montreal lawyer, formerly of Sydney, N.S., was appointed a King's Counsel for Quebec Province, in December.

Dr. Lewis Benjamin Woolner

(M.D., C.M. 1942) was chosen from a special group of Canadian and American doctors to study tropical diseases in field work in Costa Rica; he left for the South American port, December 31st. A special fund was set up for furtherance of this study, and last summer the Commission of Tropical Diseases, New York City, chose at least one man from each medical school in America to attend the Army Medical School of Tropical Diseases at Washington, or to study at Tulane University, Louisiana. Of this group certain of the most promising doctors were chosen to go to Central America to study tropical diseases in the field. Dr. Woolner attended the army Medical School at Washington.

Norval Ralph Waddington (B. A., King's, 1928), a former member of the K.C.S. teaching staff, was appointed in December as Headmaster of King's Collegiate School, Windsor, N.S., succeeding the Reverend Dr. Gerald White, who resigned to accept the position of Canon of the Cathedral at Hamilton, Bermuda. Since his graduation he has served as master in several of the great Canadian boarding schools, such as Upper Canada College, Toronto; Bishop's College School, Lennoxville, and St. Andrew's College, Toronto. Married in 1931 to the late Miss Helen L. Wickwire (B.A. 1927), they shortly afterwards founded the highly successful St. Paul's School for Boys, Toronto. Mrs. Waddington died in August 1935. Mr. Waddington continued as principal, until October 1941 when he enlisted in the R.C.A.F. serving as Link trainer-instructor on both training and operational stations in various parts of Canada.

Delmar Joseph Amire (B. Com. 1938; LL.B. 1942) of Lower East Pubnico, Yarmouth County, N.S., was appointed Rentals Officer with the Nova Scotia Regional Office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, January 14th.

Charles Jost Burchell, K.C. (B.A. 1907; M.A. 1899; LL.B. 1899), of Halifax, was appointed High Commissioner to the Union of South Africa, January. Mr. Burchell was a member of the Canadian delegation which met representatives of other parts of the British Commonwealth in 1929 to draft the Statute of Westminster. He was appointed to the post of Canadian High Commissioner to Newfoundland in September 1941, after serving in the trade commissioner service in Australia.

James McGregor Stewart, K.C. (B.A. 1909; LL.B. 1914), former Federal Coal Controller, was made a Commander, Order of the British Empire (Civil) in the King's New Year's Honours List, January, for distinguished wartime service.

Henry Gordon MacGregor Crawford (Arts 1909-10) was appointed in January to the post of Dominion Entomologist. He is a Master of Science of the University of Illinois, a Bachelor of Science in Agriculture of the Ontario Agricultural College, and studied also at the Nova Scotia Agricultural College. For a number of years he has been Chief, Division of Field Crop and Garden Insects in the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

J. Campbell MacDonald (B.A. 1904, B.E. 1906) veteran of the Boer war and the war of 1914-18 and an outstanding member of the first fifteen in the classic days of the early nineteen hundreds, when, with the select team from the British navy, rugby was at its height in Halifax, visited the city and his old home in Sydney in October of last year. "Cam" has brought honor to his alma mater in the practice of his chosen profession in the West, and on the creation of the Public Utilities Commission for the Province of British Columbia was selected as its engineering member.

Among the graphic pencil sketches, appearing currently in the Montreal Gazette, is that of the familiar features of J. P. Connelly of Halifax (LL.B. 1929), who, while at Dalhousie, lightened many an hour by his not inconsiderable dramatic talent. Under the Gazette portrayal appears the following:—"One of Canada's successful wartime armed services shows is Meet the Navy, now touring Canada and reportedly scheduled for production as a movie by Hollywood. At the head of the show is Capt. J. P. Connelly, R.C.N.V.R., director of special services, sketched here for the Gazette by Grant MacDonald, himself now a member of Canada's navy".

Dr. S. A. Morton (B.A. '22, M.D., C.M. '26) formerly of Rochester, Minn. has just completed twelve years practice in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Constance R. Spinner (B. Sc. '41) for the past two and a half years has been Medical Technician at Sherbrooke Hospital, Sherbrooke, Que. She is now awaiting call to the R.C.N.V.R.

Robert E. Archibald (M.D., C.M. '25) has been on the staff of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health since 1930. Presently located at Wakefield, Mass. as State District Health Officer he has oversight of forty-five towns and cities.

Dr. W. R. Scott, '38 and Mrs. Scott paid a visit to the school while on a visit here. Dr. Scott was on his way Overseas.

Dr. Milne Blanchard, '23 paid a visit to Halifax in February. He has been practising in Boston since graduation.

Our sincere sympathy goes to Dr. V. D. Crowe, '21 in the loss of his wife, February 4th, 1944.

Dr. R. R. Dalglish, '24, of Sydney, gave a lecture illustrated by coloured movies to the dental students on January 19th, 1944. Expressions of appreciation were heard on all sides.

On Active Service

At the height of an Atlantic gale, Sub-Lieutenant John Drake Misick (Science 1940-42) R.C. N.V.R., of Bermuda, and four ratings wrestled for 2½ hours to pin down "live" depth charges which broke loose and were crashing about the deck of the corvette Celandine, it was disclosed October 11th. He volunteered with the seamen to secure the charges, although they knew these, weighing nearly a quarter ton each, could break their legs like matchsticks. One by one, however, Misick and the men pinned them down and roped them to the deck. Sub-Lieutenant Misick's mother was formerly Madge E. Macdonald (B.A. 1909) of Halifax.

Among Dalhousians reported to be a part of a large Canadian Contingent that arrived in Italy (November) were: Captain Arthur Julian Andrew (B.A. 1937), whose wife is the former Joyce Sircom (Special Arts 1935-37) of Halifax; and Captain Gordon Stuart Bauld (Special Arts 1937-38, King's) son of Duncan Stanley Bauld (Arts 1900-02), Sheriff of Halifax County, Halifax, N.S.

Pilot Officer John Osler Starritt (Pre-Med. 1935-37) of Port-au-pique, N.S., in November was commended by His Majesty King George for his valuable services. Pilot Officer Starritt is an instructor at a training school in Alberta.

Squadron Leader Albert Irving Higgins (B.A. 1929) a native of Brookfield, N.S., padre attached to a Canadian night fighter squadron overseas, proudly wears the aircrew battle dress which is ordinarily against regulations for ground personnel. He earned his right to wear it in flying operations against the enemy. "It was entirely accidental, of course", laughed the tall, boyish-looking chaplain. "I often go for a flip with the boys, and this particular afternoon I was up with Bud Greene. He was on a test flight and I was just along for the ride when suddenly the radio telephone told us there was a German reconnaissance plane stooging around and asked us if we wanted to go after it. "He didn't hesitate a minute", chimed the pilot, "I was worried about dragging the padre into a scrap but there was no time to waste if we wanted to get the Jerry, so I asked him how he felt about it. He just said, 'sure'; and away we went". "We chased that Jerry all the way back to Holland, but we never got close enough to do anything about it", said the padre sadly. "The only hitch came when it was time to make out the intelligence report and we had to account for the 'odd body' in the aircraft; so I was put down as 'S/L Higgins, navigator', and that's how I became a duly authenticated member of aircrew engaged in operations against the enemy. The ribbing I had to take in the Mess was something awful, but nobody contests my right to wear battle-dress". (November)

Dr. Gordon Murphy Bruce (M.D., C.M. 1925; B.A. 1936), former New York physician, and a native of Shelburne, N.S., now Lieutenant-Commander with the United States Army Medical Corps, has been cited by his commanding officers for unusual heroism during the landing of the Marines at Augusta Bay on Bougainville in the Solomons, in November.

Major William Morris Jones (Arts 1919-23), a native of Bear River, Digby County, N.S., was reported to be acting as liaison officer with Marshal Tito's Yugoslav Partisans in January. He enlisted as a private in the First Great War, promoted to Sergeant after serving in France; he was wounded and mentioned in dispatches, then invalided to England; promoted and wounded again, he was again invalided to England and granted a commission. He was in the real estate and insurance business in Toronto at the time of the outbreak of the present war. After being turned down in Canada, he worked his way to England on a freighter and became a member of an R.A.F. bomb disposal squad, with rank of pilot officer. Later he transferred to the British Army, obtaining his majority in the Black Watch Regiment. He was dropped by parachute alone into the Partisans' mountain hide-out. A brother, Captain Cecil Edward Jones (Science 1919-21, 22-24) is on active service with the West Nova Scotia Regiment.

Lieutenant Vadim M. Knight, R.C.N.V.R. (LL.B. 1940) of Halifax, arrived in Britain it was announced in February. His previous trip was travelled from Halifax to Murmansk in a Russian submarine. He was drafted to the Russian sub when it was in the port of Halifax over a year ago and stayed with it as a liaison officer during its trip home. He returned to Britain aboard a British destroyer. The sub was under operational orders of the Royal Navy and his job was to guide it through allied waters and prevent it from being attacked by answering British signals, coding and decoding messages. He was the only "foreigner" aboard and only a few of the Russian crew could speak English.

Hugh Artworth Fraser (B.A. 1925; M.D., C.M. 1929), Squadron Leader, R.C.A.F., son of the Reverend Dr. Alexander Louis Fraser (B.A. 1895; M.A. 1904) of Halifax, has been made a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons, January. Squadron Leader Fraser, after leaving Dalhousie, took three years post graduate work in Surgery at Charity Hospital, Cleveland, Ohio, and before enlisting in the R.C.A.F. in September 1942, practised in Bridgewater, N.S. Now stationed at Dartmouth, he has served at Moncton, N.B., and Goose Bay, Labrador.

Defence Headquarters at Ottawa, January 17th, announced the promotion to the rank of Brigadier of Lieutenant-Colonel Daniel Charles Spry (Arts 1931-33) of Halifax. He is the son of the late Major-General D. W. Spry, and began his military career in 1932 when he was commissioned in the Princess Louise Fusiliers, Halifax. Two years later he transferred to the Royal Canadian Regiment. He was promoted to Captain in 1939 and later appointed Adjutant of the R.C.R. In 1940 he received his Majority, and in September 1941 was appointed General Staff Officer (3rd grade) of a Canadian Division. In 1942 he attended staff college at Camberley, England, and in September of that year was appointed personal assistant to the General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, 1st Canadian Army. Early in 1943 he was promoted Lieutenant-Colonel and General Staff Officer (1st grade).

High tribute to Captain Ian Harris MacIntosh (Commerce 1938-39), killed in action during the Battle of Sicily, was paid December 21st at a moving unveiling ceremony in which his parents, Dr. George Arthur (M.D., C.M. 1905) and Mrs. MacIntosh, presented the young man's personal library to Queen Elizabeth High School, Halifax. A photograph and plaque were also presented to the school. The flags used at the unveiling had belonged to Ian and the "Song of Nova Scotia", played during the ceremony, was composed by his mother and had been a favorite of his.

Robert B. Farrell (Arts 1897-98) born in Halifax, N.S., son of the late Honourable Edward Farrell, M.D., former member of the Nova Scotia Government and President of the Canadian Medical Association, educated at Ampleforth College, Yorkshire, England, and Dalhousie University, has served on the editorial staffs of various Canadian newspapers and contributed to leading periodicals in England, Canada and the United States. For some years he has been an associate editor of the Ottawa Journal. Mr. Farrell served for four years in the first World War, as a paymaster in the Royal Canadian Navy and later as an infantry officer in England and France. He materially assisted in the formation of the Submarine Patrol Service from Labrador to Bermuda in 1915 and in the raising of the 199th Battalion in 1916 by a speaking tour across Canada. For some years after the First Great War he was associated with the Federal Department of Labor in the establishment Service of Canada and in the study of labor and sociological problems. During this time also he settled a number of strikes. Mr. Farrell has been heard regularly over the CBC national network for the past three years. Dr. S. K. Oldfield, '29, Capt., C.D.C., is serving in a Canadian

General Military Hospital, North Africa.

Dr. P. S. Christie, '39, and Mrs. Christie have taken up residence in Halifax. The Doctor has resumed civilian practice after a period of service overseas, having been discharged as medically unfit for military service.

Deaths

In the death of Claude Whetmore Bishop (Pharmacy 1912-13) which occurred at his home October 28th, Liverpool sustained a severe loss. Well and popularly known throughout the Province he was highly respected and prominent in all affairs of the town where for 22 years he owned and operated Bishop's Pharmacy.

The death occurred suddenly in the Halifax Infirmary, September 28th, of George Arnold Burbidge (Arts 1887-88), 73, Dean of the Maritime College of Pharmacy and recognized throughout the Dominion as one of the leading authorities on pharmaceutical practice, after a month's illness. Thus was brought to an end an outstanding career in the pharmacy profession, which began with operation of his own drug stores and continued steadily upward until he became Chairman of the Council of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association and a member of the Faculty of Dalhousie University, as well as the Maritime College of Pharmacy, which is affiliated with Dalhousie. The late Dean Burbidge, who was Professor of Pharmacy and Materia Medica of Dalhousie University, was, in recognition of his outstanding contribution in the field of Pharmacy, made an honorary member of the American Pharmaceutical Association and member of the Federation Internationale Pharmaceutique.

After an illness of 20 months in St. Lawrence Sanatorium, Cornwall, N.S., there passed away October 5th, Clyde Windsor Wright (Engineering 1923-24) in his 37th year. He was a marine engineer in the employ of the Imperial Oil Company for the past ten years.

Rev. Allan Massie Hill (B.A. 1896), 67, Chairman of the Board of Missions of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, died in hospital in Montreal, October 9th, after a month's illness. He was minister of the First Presbyterian Church in Verdun and author of a number of books. He served in churches in Digby, N.S., Saint John, N.B., Yarmouth N.S., and Verdun. In collaboration with Judge Savary of Annapolis Royal, N.S., he carried out research work on the arrival of the United Empire Loyalists in Nova Scotia.

In 1915 he organized the first Boy Scout Troop in Western Nova Scotia and was a Scout Commissioner for a number of years. He was active in the Masonic Order and was a member of the Board of Directors of the Montreal Federated Charities.

News of the death at his home in New Glasgow, October 6th, of Rev. Hugh Robert Grant, D.D., (Arts 1877-80), widely known temperance leader and general secretary of the Nova Scotia Social Service Council, was learned with regret by many friends throughout the Province. He had been in failing health for some time, but was only seriously ill for a few weeks. He was a member of one of Pictou county's oldest and best known families. His father was at one time a member of the legislature.

There passed away in New Westminster, B.C., Judge Frederick William Howay (LL.B. 1890) October 4th. For seventy-three of the seventy-six years of his life, he lived the history of his province, and it was the pride of his eyes as well as his lust of life. He would cross a continent or an ocean for document or detail on the story of British Columbia. Judge Howay, in 1942, achieved the Presidency of the Royal Society of Canada. In 1931 he was President of the Canadian Historical Society. He was, at his death, Chairman of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada.

HISTORY IN THE DALHOUSIE GAZETTE

On January 28th of this year, the Dalhousie Gazette celebrated its seventy-fifth anniversary by a special edition, reproducing the first page of the first number in the centre of its first page, and devoting half its space to summary descriptive articles or excerpts of subsequent numbers. As a result many students and alumni, who had not realized that this oldest student publication in Canada had reached such a venerable age, have become interested in the earlier numbers and have discovered that the complete file of this periodical provides them with an intimate record of college life in the second half of the last century and recalls some of the most significant educational movements in Nova Scotian history. Incidentally, it records the conditions under which Dalhousians have worked in each and all of their different homes; and the migrations from the first site on the Grand Parade to the site on Carleton Street, and finally to Studley.

The Dalhousie College Gazette was commenced as a private venture by a graduate and two undergraduates of Dalhousie: John J. Cameron, B.A., A.P. Seeton and W. E. Roscoe. It first appeared on January 25, 1869, and ran for six numbers to April 5th. In the autumn of 1869 it was taken over by the student body "to represent their views, to advocate their interests, and strive, in all things to cultivate that love and intensify that sympathy that should exist between Alumni."

The Founders of the Gazette had set a high ideal before them: "the cultivation of a literary taste among ourselves, and the establishment of an organ in which free expression can be given not only to our own sentiments, but to those of others who may interest themselves in our progress and prosperity"; but they must also have foreseen the great utility of their work for the historian of Dalhousie, since they chose as their first motto Forsan et haec olim meminisse juvabit, which in our vernacular reads Perchance in days to come it will delight us to remember these things also. It is true that in Volume II, no. 7, March 7 1870, the editors of that day substituted Ora et Labora for the old motto; but in doing so they repudiated the idea that the older one had lost its meaning in the following notice: "We have changed our motto because we felt that the university one should head our paper. Still we can hopefully say to each fellow student Forsan et haec olim meminisse juvabit, at the same time strongly urging him orare et laborare. In any event, they have made it possible for alumni to relive their college days with delight; and for historians to recreate the life and living conditions of seventy-five generations of Dalhousians.

In this short article one can merely introduce the readers of the ALUMNI NEWS to this storehouse of information and give a few illustrations of the uses that can be made of it, in the hope that other alumni will satisfy their curiosity and follow the vicissitudes of college life and societies throughout the period.

When old Dalhousie was built on the site now occupied by the City Hall, it was in the centre of both business and residential life; but it had not been in existence long before finding that military and social activities on the Grand Parade proved very distracting to student meditation. In 1844, the Novascotian reported: "This is a spot of no inconsiderable attraction from 10 till 11 o'clock in the morning. The military evolutions and martial music that are there performed draw crowds of the unemployed portion of the community together. About the stone pavement and portico of the South Front of Dalhousie College may be seen a brilliant display of parasols, beneath which are some as pretty faces and as graceful forms as are to be found in any city of the world." Such were the distractions in the McCulloch regime.

Again in 1856, the year when Dalhousie Collegiate School in co-operation with Gorham College was trying to revive again as a college, the Principal of the joint institution, Mr. Hugo Reid, complained to Hon. William Young, Chairman of the Board of Governors of Dalhousie, of these distractions. "The military might be there all day, exercising in every sort of evolution without causing the slightest interruption to the studies pursued in the College. But the band performances are a cause of serious disturbance."

When Dalhousie was finally revived in 1863 and, by the addition of a Medical Faculty, was expanding into a university, other distractions replaced those of earlier years. The Gazette of November 29, 1873, records that, on account of the noises from the street below the College, the class in Logic has been transferred from the Library to another room; and it adds, "Too bad that the classes should thus be hindered in their work." Apparently these noises were made by the ordinary traffic in that area; but the greatest nuisance of all came from ragamuffins on the Parade, as the following extract from the Gazette of December 14, 1872, clearly shows:

Ever since Dalhousie came into existence its students have been annoyed by the ragamuffins that congregate on the Parade. All day long the Parade swarms with young scamps who have no regard for the shins or heads of passers by. Before the snow comes their young lordships are pleased to amuse themselves at "Hurly" or "Hockey" or whatever they may please to call it. It is absolutely unsafe sometimes for any one to venture to cross the Parade. Stones and sticks are flying through the air, and if the ball with which these "City Arabs" are playing happens to fall near ones feet a rush is made at it from all sides, so that it is a miracle if one escapes without a crack on the shins. But when nature puts on her mantle of white, their numbers increase rapidly and they then attack us with snowballs. I have seen a small-sized Freshie beset by as many as forty filthy, disgusting specimens of humanity whose very appearance was enough to scare him. Whenever there is snow enough to make a snowball it goes to the benefit of Dalhousie. Last winter we took the law into our own hands and administered a wholesome dose to some two or three of the young imps by threatening to dissect them. One of them, unfortunately, being subject to Epilepsy, took a fit, and his parents were impudent enough to bring an action against three students for assault and battery. The "pater" tried to make them shell out but was promptly requested to go to the d--l, and on his failing to appear the prisoners were discharged. The "fit" had a salutary effect however, for not once during the latter part of the session was a snowball thrown at any student. We are ready for more lynching if it be necessary. Where are our valiant Peelers? Never on hand when they are wanted. We hope that the city authorities will take some step towards removing this nuisance.

If these were the external conditions of study in old Dalhousie, the following description of the interior, condensed from a brilliant editorial in the Gazette of December 13, 1873, gives a still more gloomy picture of the hardships with which the first students had to contend on the Grand Parade.

Dalhousie College contains Four Flats and a Garret. The first Floor is divided between a Turtle-Grove Brewery, a Hardware Establishment, and a Carboline-Gas Company. . . The second floor is tenanted by our worthy Janitor. John Wilson is a type of the building he takes charge of, occupying the following important positions: (1) Janitor and Overseer of the College, (2) Milkman, (3) Letter-carrier, (4) Husband and Father.

On this floor are two rooms above the Carboline-Gas Company's office: one the meeting-room of Professors, the other of students. They are not saloons. The latter has been facetiously termed a Reading Room. This is because, though well supplied with papers, it is so dark that except at the windows, reading is generally out of the question. It was given for the special accommodation of students. As over 100 young men attend the University, and the apartment in question will hold 30 when well crammed—all standing—it will be seen how admirably it answers the purpose.

The third floor occupies the body of the building. Here are taught Science, Philosophy (Natural and Unnatural), Classics, Mathematics, Modern Languages, Literature, &c., &c., &c., With more than a Haligonian generosity, four class-rooms have been set apart for this purpose. . . In one of the apartments, History, Rhetoric, Psychology, Modern Languages, have all been taught in the same day. By stretching a little, things could be arranged so that they would be all taught at the same time in the same room on the same day, and at the end of the hour a new batch of studies might take their place.

The fourth floor contains two class-rooms. These are devoted to Ethics and Medicine. This is one of the wisest arrangements that could be made.

The Garret is monopolized by corpses, skeletons, and Meds. In many respects it is a very interesting place. Once seen, it will not easily be forgotten. From the top of the building, we may mention in passing, is a very fine view: so extensive that tourists assert that on fine evenings, the moon may be seen by the naked eye.

These conditions were remedied when Dalhousie moved to its new site on Carleton Street; but the following letter from a student in the Gazette of December 13, 1869, reveals clearly a great want that has not yet been met and is much in the mind of the Board of Governors of Dalhousie at this moment.

The subject of a boarding house in connection with Dalhousie College is beginning to attract the attention of students. The friends and Governors of the College should take the matter into consideration, as the benefits arising from it would be very important. At present the relation of Professor and Student lasts only during class hours. Many of them are poor, and have to teach during the summer to provide the necessary means for attending College. But they eventually rise to distinction and can have it in their power to do much good for the College in future. Should they not have encouragement from Professors and friends? But while they are scattered as they now are in different parts of the city, it would be impossible for the Professors to know them. Give us a good boarding house, and the students will be under the eye of the Professors, and that friendly feeling will exist, that should be found.

Then the ministers of the different congregations could visit and speak a word of kindness and counsel. Many of the students are young, fresh from the country, and inexperienced; to these our city holds out many sinful allurements, and it is a miracle if they escape, unless they receive that kind attention and fatherly supervision they require.

Not only would students profit, but also the College. Many parents are prevented from sending their children on account of their being no house where they would be under guardianship. Let us, again we say, have a board-house, and we will have a large increase of students who will get acquainted with each other, help each other, and derive the benefits of a real college life.

From the Gazette one can follow the evolution of student societies and self-government. In 1870 it published for the first time the lists of officers of such societies as were then in existence: a president, vice-president and secretary of students, officers of the Debating Society and of the Foot-Ball Club. The first loose organization of the students was the ancestor of the Students' Council, the Debating Society was the ancestor of Sodales and the Foot-Ball Club of the Dalhousie Amateur Athletic Club.

The most venerable society was the Debating Club. In each of the earlier periods of its activity Dalhousie had had a debating club, which ceased to function when the College temporarily closed its doors. In 1864 this club was revived; and was very active not only in debating but in arranging addresses before the students, by prominent citizens of Halifax on various subjects. By 1871, it had become too unwieldy, and was constitutionally dissolved to permit division into two: The Kritosophian Society for third and fourth year students, and the Excelsior for first and second year students. In the following year the office of critic was instituted. For several years these clubs held debates before diminishing audiences, and in 1878 they held one joint meeting. In 1879, a joint meeting was held to discuss the reunion of the two clubs under the name of the Sodales Society. On January 24th the Sodales Society, which is still in existence, held its first meeting. For several years this was the only society which served the social and literary needs of the students.

In the next decade the Gazette campaigned for a Glee Club and a College Song Book, both of which were obtained in the old building. The Glee Club was organized in 1886, in time to take part in a pre-Christmas function, which was held in the college after examinations were finished and before the students separated for the holidays. In March 1887, the Glee Club gave its first public concert and received flattering comments from the newspapers of the day.

Of special interest to all alumni is the fact that an editorial of the Gazette, in March 1871, led to the organization of the Alumni Association in the following May. Moreover, having inspired this organization the Gazette kept a watchful eye over its activities, fought for its representation on the Board of Governors of the College, spared no criticism when it felt that the association was not exerting its influence to the fullest extent. The following extracts from this editorial will show what was expected of the Alumni in its youth.

There is a feeling of brotherhood between all fellow-collegiates which clings to them everywhere. They love to renew their old acquaintance and recall scenes of the past, to sing the old songs of years ago and rehearse stories which can interest none but themselves. In order the better to enjoy such intercourse there is usually in connection with every University or College an Alumni Association which, by meetings and interchange of thought and feeling, preserves fresh the memories of student life; and, in every way, by word and deed endeavours to forward the best interests of the Institution which created its members. Those whom such a society would convene are both scholars and practical men of the world: they know the opinions of the public, they understand the position of education, and are thus fitted to place them on proper relations by showing what the youth of the land should study, and also pointing out the claims which Halls of learning have upon the country's wealth.

We would by its agency assemble the wisdom, business knowledge and, as genius reaped its merited reward, the wealth of our graduates; we would evoke schemes for enlarging our revenues, increasing the number of students and giving every encouragement to the deserving among both Professors and Undergrads; we would more and more connect the interests of the University with the thoughts of Alumni; our name would be known more widely, and the field of our labors enlarge with the passing years.

Enough has been said to show the value of the Gazette as a source book of Dalhousie student life and opinion. One cannot read these early numbers without being impressed by the seriousness and ability with which the editors approached their own problems as well as public questions of the day. In discussing educational problems in general, such as the need of good high schools throughout the province, or of university consolidation, they attracted the attention of contemporary newspaper editors, who felt that they could not ignore Dalhousie student opinion. That it was student opinion which appeared in the Gazette, there is no doubt; for in welcoming the Tyro of the Canadian Literary Institute, Woodstock, Ontario, as the second college journal in Canada, the editors of the Gazette pointed out that three fourths of the Tyro were written by professors, whereas the Gazette, then in its fifth year, had "never yet published an article from any other pen than that of a student or graduate."

ATTENTION DALHOUSIAN OVERSEAS

To any Dalhousian who happens to be in Belfast:

Herewith the following invitation from Lorne T. Pentz (Dal. 1914-1915) Engineering (Dal. 1919-1920):—

“Although not in the Services myself I have had the opportunity of greeting a few Dalhousians who have found their way to Northern Ireland since the war started. I will be very pleased if you can make it known that my business address is “Imperial House” 7 Donegall Square East, Belfast, Northern Ireland, (telephone number Belfast 24913). It would give me great pleasure to have the opportunity of extending hospitality to any Dalhousians who might be passing through Northern Ireland”.

To any Dalhousian who happens to be in Glasgow, Scotland:

Herewith the following invitation from Katherine Starr Vickery (Dal. Arts '26):—

“There are so many Canadians on the streets of Glasgow these days, and I look anxiously at every one I pass hoping to see a kent face. Not so far have I been successful.

So I would like to let you know that I am in Glasgow, and if I could do anything for a fellow-Dalhousian who might be passing through the city, I should be most happy to do so.

My post is that of Sister Tutor to the nurses of the Royal Cancer Hospital and the Glasgow Eye Infirmary. I lecture in both hospitals and it is a fairly big job. However, I am free every Sunday, and should be only too glad if anyone from home would phone or call at the address below—

The Radium Institute and Royal Cancer Hospital,
138 Hill St., (Near Charing Cross),
Glasgow.
Phone Douglas 0286.

As this issue was going to press, public announcement was made of Viscount Bennett's munificent gift to Dalhousie. Further particulars must await our next issue.

This is now the third issue of the NEWS in its present form. Suspended when war broke out in '39 and revived again last year, it has been widely welcomed.

The two previous issues are paid for. This April number, larger than its predecessors, will cost around $550.00. We have on hand about $200 without counting the special Life Membership Fund—and the bill must be met.

Will you therefore promptly send in your membership fee of Three dollars (more if you can) to Miss Helen Balcom, Alumni Office, Dalhousie University, Halifax? Acknowledgment will be made in the next issue of the NEWS.

Why not do it NOW?

THE EXECUTIVE

This issue was prepared by the following committee: George Farquhar, Dr. D. C. Harvey, Dr. F. R. Hayes, Dr. J. S. Martell and Dr. H. L. Seammell, together with the invaluable assistance of Miss Balcom of the Alumni Office.
