Your Alumni Office maintains a filing system containing information on about 10,000 Dalhousians. The value of such a record to the University and to the Alumni Association is obvious. Many individual alumni, too, have found the system of value, in locating old classmates and in many other ways. But the system only reaches its peak efficiency with your co-operation. A post-card or telephone call to advise the office of any change of address or occupation will help us to keep the records in tip-top shape.

ANGUS LEWIS MACDONALD

A GREAT DALHOUSIAN PASSES

It is the sad duty of the Alumni News, in this issue, to record the death of a great Dalhousian and a great Canadian: Angus Lewis Macdonald, LL.B. '21, LL.D. '38.

Premier Macdonald died peacefully in his sleep, in the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax, at 1.50 a.m. Tuesday, April 12, at the age of 64. Although it was known that the Premier had entered hospital on the previous Sunday night for rest and examination, none suspected the end was so near and news of his death came as a shock to all.

During the twenty years and more in which he gave himself so devotedly to public service, Angus L. Macdonald was a busy man, constantly occupied with the manifold duties of his office as Premier and, during the war years, as Canada's Minister of National Defence for Naval Affairs. Yet, throughout, his love for Dalhousie and his interest in her welfare was unflagging. He was one of her outstanding sons, and Dalhousie has good reason to hold his name in grateful memory.

Angus L. Macdonald was born in Dunvegan, Inverness County, and reared in a Highland tradition which he cherished all his life and which his friends remembered and honored in their final gestures of respect. After graduation from Port Hood Academy, he attended St. Francis Xavier and, on attaining his degree of Bachelor of Arts taught at St. Francis Xavier Academy until 1916 when he enlisted as a lieutenant with the 185th Battalion of the Cape Breton Highlanders. Shortly before the Armistice he was severely wounded and, upon recovery, returned to Nova Scotia and entered the Dalhousie Law School.

The young student veteran who came to the Law School at the end of World War I, soon gave evidence of talent and character and those who knew him best then were not surprised in later years when he gained an eminence in public life and a place in the affections of Nova Scotians perhaps not equalled since Joseph Howe.

In 1921 he graduated with highest honors in Law and, three years later, became a lecturer at Dalhousie. After special studies at Columbia University and the Harvard Law School, he received from Harvard in 1929 the degree of Doctor of Juridical Science. He then returned to Dalhousie and became Assistant Dean of the Law School.

He turned to politics first in 1930, offered as a Liberal candidate for the federal seat of Inverness and was defeated. That defeat was anything but a sign of things to come, for, in October, the Liberal party, whose fortunes in Nova Scotia were at a low ebb, determined to reorganize and revitalize. Names of prominent Liberals were put aside and the convention chose "Angus L."—still unknown to most Nova Scotians—as the party leader. It was the beginning of an unbroken series of successes. In the provincial elections of 1933, Angus L. led his party to victory, winning 22 of the 30 seats in the Legislature, and establishing a Liberal administration which has maintained power ever since. And in the years to follow Angus L. was to be premier save for those years during World War II when he served as a Minister in the Federal Cabinet.

Obscure though he may have been at the outset, Angus L. soon became a familiar figure. The fact that everyone invariably referred to him as "Angus L." is indicative of the impact he made on the consciousness and the regard of Nova Scotians. A scholar of proven ability he demonstrated great gifts as an administrator. And in the heat of legislative debate or in the ceremony of state functions he displayed a gift for powerful oratory, again reminiscent of Joseph Howe.

In 1940, the Prime Minister of Canada, seeking Ministers for his Cabinet to meet the staggering demands posed by the war, called on Angus L. to assume ministerial direction of the naval service. The wisdom of that choice is now part of Canada's history. From a tiny force of about 2,000 men and half a dozen ships, the Royal Canadian Navy attained a strength of nearly 100,000 with hundreds of ships. Shore bases were expanded and, at Annapolis Basin, arose H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, the largest naval training base in the Commonwealth. Canadian ships played an ever-increasing part in Atlantic convoys and eventually assumed all of the responsibility for the protection of trade.

On completion of his wartime duty, Angus L. returned to Nova Scotia in 1945 and, to the surprise of no one, was again chosen party leader. In the same year he achieved an outstanding political victory, winning all but two of the Legislature's 30 seats and wiping out the Conservative opposition. The two remaining seats were won by C.C.F. candidates.

In practical achievement, the years which Angus L. spent as Premier of Nova Scotia were fruitful. During those years the province adopted many social benefits, established a system of paved highways, and began an extensive program of rural high schools. But Angus L. was not to live to see the completion of one of his greatest dreams, the Canso causeway now under construction which will link Cape Breton and the Mainland.

He is survived by his wife, the former Agnes Mary Foley; three daughters, Coline Foley (Mrs. Laurens Dorsey), Aileen Veronica, and Oonagh, and one son, Angus Lewis, Jr., (LL.B. '51). Also by one sister, Sister Saint Veronica of Mount St. Bernard, Antigonish; four brothers, Rev. Stanley P. Macdonald, parish priest at Big Pond; Hon. W. A. Macdonald, Calgary, Justice of the Supreme Court of Alberta; Oswin Macdonald, Inverness; and Donald Lewis Macdonald, Port Hood; and one grandson, Laurens Macdonald Dorsey.

At noon on April 15, the Universities of Dalhousie and King's College held a brief memorial service in King's Chapel.

Following the reading of sentences for the dead from the Book of Common Prayer by Dr. J. H. A. Holmes, Dean of Divinity, King's, and the singing of Psalms 120 and 23, Dr. G. E. Wilson, Dean of Arts and Science, Dalhousie, read the lesson and the congregation sang the hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past."

President Kerr then delivered the memorial address, recalling briefly Premier Macdonald's career in public service and the idealism which was so notably a feature of his character. "We have lost a friend, a great leader," said Dr. Kerr. "A prince has fallen this day in Israel." But the great comfort of Christianity, he concluded, is that it offers the conviction of triumph over the last enemy, Death.

The Rt. Rev. R. H. Waterman, Bishop of Nova Scotia, added his brief tribute to Premier Macdonald before leading the congregation in the Apostles' Creed and offering the closing prayers.

The Church, the Nation, and the Province honored Angus L.

Macdonald in death, but by no means the least impressive tribute was that paid by Nova Scotians in general. During the days when his body lay in state in the Red Chamber of old Province House, 85,000 people filed quietly past the bier. On Easter Monday an estimated 100,000 people lined the streets as the gun carriage bearing his casket draped in a flag of Nova Scotia rolled slowly by.

Seldom has a funeral in Nova Scotia, seldom has a funeral in Canada evoked so impressive a demonstration of love and respect.

Not for years has a single issue of the Alumni News carried so many pages of melancholy tidings. A great many Dalhousians have died during the past six months and, as the News goes to press, the University is shocked and saddened by the sudden death of Dr. H. G. Grant, M.D., C.M. '12, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine. A full account of Dr. Grant's career will appear in the Autumn issue.—Ed.

The state funeral assembled at Province House with representative of Her Majesty and of foreign governments attending. The procession included members of the Federal and Provincial Governments, and municipal councils; of the armed services and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police; of universities and veterans' organizations and of the legal profession.

With muffled drums, the combined bands of H.M.C.S. Stadacona and the Royal Canadian Artillery led the funeral to St. Mary's Basilica where the Most Rev. Gerald Berry, D.D., Archbishop of Halifax, celebrated the pontifical mass of requiem. Following the service, the procession marched slowly west on Spring Garden Road to Robie Street where the mourners boarded hundreds of cars and buses for the 14-mile journey to Gate of Heaven Cemetery at Lower Sackville. Through the city streets and along the Bedford Highway, the procession moved at funeral pace. So many people stood quietly along the roadside in a final gesture of respect that to move faster would have been unthinkable.

Near the cemetery, the procession reformed and, in the brilliant spring sunshine, wound its way slowly up the hillside, led by massed pipe bands, to the grave. There the Church conducted the committal service, the firing party sent its volleys ringing through the hills, and trumpeters sounded the Last Post and Reveille. As the casket sank slowly into the grave, the Rev. Stanley Macdonald, the late premier's brother, sprinkled it with a handful of earth from Dunvegan. A piper of the Canadian Black Watch played the traditional Highland lament, "Flowers of the Forest," members of the Canadian Legion, one by one, dropped poppies on the casket. And it was over.

NEW DEANS IN MEDICINE AND DENTISTRY

Appointment of Dr. Chester Bryant Stewart, B.Sc., M.D., C.M., M.P.H., Dr.P.H., F.A.P.H.A., as Dean of Medicine and of Dr. James Douglas McLean, L.D.S., D.D.S., as Dean of Dentistry, Dalhousie University, was announced in April by President A. E. Kerr. Both appointees have been serving as faculty members of Dalhousie. The appointments were made by the Board of Governors, Dr. Kerr said, to fill vacancies which will result from the approaching retirement of Dean H. G. Grant, a member of the Faculty of Medicine since 1932 and of Dr. J. S. Bagnall, a member of the Faculty of Dentistry since 1921. Dr. Stewart and Dr. McLean assume their new duties following the close of the current academic year.

Dr. Stewart, who has been Professor of Epidemiology at Dalhousie, was awarded the degree of Doctor of Public Health, last year, by Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. He is believed to be the only medical authority in Canada with that distinction. He was also granted a Fellowship in the American Public Health Association, and a specialist certificate in Public Health by the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada.

A native of Norboro, P. E. I., Dr. Stewart received his early education on the Island, was gold medalist at Prince of Wales College, and entered Dalhousie, on a George H. Campbell Memorial Scholarship and a Prince of Wales College Scholarship, in 1932. He won several prizes in each year of his medical course and, on graduation in 1938, was awarded the University Medal for highest standing in his class. In addition to the regular work of his course, Dr. Stewart undertook studies in medical research and, in 1936, received the degree of Bachelor of Science.

Following his graduation, Dr. Stewart became a member of the National Research Council's Associate Committee on Medical Research, working under the direction of the late Sir Frederick Banting. In 1939 he was a member of the first Committee on Aviation Medical Research which initiated the first research in this field of Medicine in Canada. During the war years he served with the Royal Canadian Air Force, in the rank of Wing Commander, as commanding officer of medical research units responsible for studies of the medical problems of high altitude flying. He has been described as one of the international authorities on decompression sickness and has had some twenty publications in this field and about 25 additional publications in other fields of Medicine and Public Health.

Dr. Stewart joined the Faculty of Medicine of Dalhousie University in 1946, after a year of post-graduate study at Johns Hopkins University on a Rockefeller fellowship, during which time he received the degree of Master of Public Health.

Between 1949 and 1951, Dr. Stewart conducted research in the public health needs of Nova Scotia, as Director of the Health Survey, producing an exhaustive two-volume report on the hospital facilities and public health services of the province. During the same period he was active in the planning and supervision of the Canadian Sickness Survey in the three Maritime Provinces. In 1951 he was granted a year's leave of absence from Dalhousie to accept a post as research associate in Epidemiology at Johns Hopkins University. He is a member of the Advisory Committee on Medical Research of the National Research Council, the Specialty Board in Public Health of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada, the Examining Board of the Medical Council of Canada, and is associated with most of the medical and public health associations of Canada and the United States, holding executive positions in several. Recently, he had the honor of being invited to participate in the deliberations of a committee to review the future program of research and teaching in Epidemiology at Johns Hopkins University. His status in medical research was also recognized in his appointment, in 1948, as chairman of a committee to survey medical research facilities in Canada for the National Research Council, Defence Research Board, and the Department of National Health and Welfare.

Dr. Stewart is married and has two daughters. Mrs. Stewart is the former Kathleen French of Regina.

Dr. McLean, who joined the Faculty of Dentistry at Dalhousie at the beginning of the 1953-54 term, is a native of Regina. Following a pre-dental course at the University of Saskatchewan, he attended the University of Toronto where he received the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery in 1942. He served in England and Northwest Europe with the Canadian Dental Corps and, following the war, devoted time to post-graduate study in the United States. In 1947 he opened a practice in Edmonton and joined the Faculty of Dentistry, University of Alberta, where he was Associate Professor of Prosthetic Dentistry.

Dr. McLean has been active in national and regional dental organizations. Since 1949 he has been chairman of the Canadian Dental Association's Committee on Ethics and a member of the Research Committee of the same organization, and has won high praise for his contribution in this work from well known leaders of the profession. He was a member of the Alberta Dental Association, of the Edmonton and District Dental Society in which he served as director and secretary, and of the Western Canada Dental Society.

When the Dalhousie University authorities began to survey the field for a successor to Dean Bagnall, they sought the assistance of the Council of Education of the Canadian Dental Association, Dr. Kerr said in his announcement, and it was with the assistance and on the enthusiastic recommendation of that organization, which is thoroughly familiar with the profession throughout the whole of Canada, that Dr. McLean was selected.

Dr. McLean is married and has two sons. Mrs. McLean is the former Audrey Mitchell, whose father, now deceased, was born in Merigomish, Nova Scotia.

ALGERNON STANLEY WALKER

DR. A. STANLEY WALKER, DIES

Reverend Algernon Stanley Walker, M.A., B.Litt., LL.D., D.D. president of the University of King's College for the last 16 years and one of the most distinguished preachers in the Maritime Provinces, died suddenly on December 2, 1953, at his residence at the college. He was 63 years of age.

Possessed of a fluent command of English, Dr. Walker was perhaps best known, outside the university, as an after-dinner speaker. His deep learning, as well as his pungent wit, made him constantly in demand for addresses to service clubs and other organizations.

Born in 1890 in Crewe, England, he was the son of the late Thomas Walker of Yorkshire and Emily Harriet Jeffries Walker of Buckinghamshire. He was educated at the Manchester Grammar School, which was renowned for its classical studies. On completion of his elementary education he entered the Mirfield College of the Resurrection for his ecclesiastical studies, meanwhile continuing his academic studies at the University of Leeds. He received his Bachelor of Arts with honors in classics in 1911 and his Master of Arts, from Leeds, in 1912.

He had begun his teaching career at the age of 16, interrupting it to go to college. He started again, after his graduation, at King Edward School in Birmingham and at Abingdon School, Berkshire. Subsequently he was named head of the History Department at Liverpool Collegiate. He returned to Birmingham University, where he took honors in history and received the Gladstone Prize in 1917 and was sent to Exeter College, Oxford, as a Bodington Research Scholar, where he took his degree of Bachelor of Letters. In 1939 Dalhousie University honored him with the award of a Doctor of Laws and in 1941 Queens University awarded him a Doctor of Divinity.

He was ordained a Deacon in 1923 and in 1924, soon after his arrival in Halifax, he was ordained priest by the late Archbishop Worrell in All Saints Cathedral. In 1939 he was made a Canon of All Saints Cathedral.

He had come to America in 1922 as Assistant Professor of History at Wooster College, Wooster, Ohio, and the following year came to Halifax as Professor of History at Dalhousie University. He had remained in Halifax ever since, with the exception of about a year, in 1929, when he went to London for research work for the Social Science Research Council of New York.

In 1924 he first went to King's, again in the history department, where he remained until his appointment as president and vice-chancellor in 1937, a post he retained until his death.

A prolific writer, Dr. Walker was the author of "Canada," a history produced for the Modern States Series, and numerous economic and historical articles for learned societies. He also contributed to "History," to the Financial Post and the Halifax Chronicle-Herald for many years.

SAINT JOHN ALUMNI MEET

Expansion of educational facilities at Dalhousie and recent construction of new buildings on the university campus highlighted an address by Dr. A. E. Kerr before a meeting of the Dalhousie University Alumni of Saint John in January. Speaking at the home of Saint John branch president B. R. Guss, Q.C., 70 Orange Street, Dr. Kerr told of overall growth of the university in recent years.

He urged members of the Saint John organization to encourage young men and women interested in attending Dalhousie University, saying that the most vital contribution which could be made by the Alumni would be toward increased enrollment in the University.

Accompanying Dr. Kerr at the meeting was W. Graham Allen, director of university liaison at Dalhousie. Prior to Dr. Kerr's address, Mr. Allen presented films portraying the university and emphasizing expansion of campus facilities.

In organization elections following the talk, Mr. Guss was re-elected president.

Other officers named were: Vice-presidents, W. D. Miller and Dr. A. Douglas Gibbon; secretary, Miss M. L. Lynch; Assistant secretary, Miss Lucille Calp; treasurer, Dr. D. F. Sutherland; directors, Dr. E. R. Davis, Dr. H. O. Tonning, Miss Grace Baird, Miss Caroline Paige, D. G. M. Anglin, Arthur Fairweather, Mrs. E. R. Davis and Milton Zides.

He was Captain of the First Cadet Battalion of the Seventh Worcestershire Regiment from 1915 to 1918, Captain of the T.F. Abingdon School Officers' Training Corps, Major of the Dalhousie-King's O.T.C. from 1931 to 1939 and honorary chaplain of the Royal Canadian Navy from 1941 to his death. He also was chaplain of an Army Reserve unit from 1929 to 1940.

As an indication of his varied interests, Dr. Walker was an honorary member of the Mining Society of Nova Scotia and of the Engineering Institute of Canada. While still in England, he expressed his belief that every man was entitled to an education, by taking a leading part in assisting men of the laboring class to get an education. After coming to Halifax he continued this interest by devoting time to the Workers' Educational Association.

Last year he was appointed to the National Library Advisory Council, a body organized to assist in the establishment of a National Library in Ottawa.

Dr. Walker was first Master of University Lodge, No. 110, A.F. and A.M., and was Past Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia.

He is survived by his wife, the former Ella Gillespie Leach of Wiltshire, England, three sons, Philip in Toronto, Peter and Paul, at home, one daughter, Joan, (Mrs. A. D. Johnson), Castlegar, B. C., and two granddaughters.

LAW STUDENT WINS RHODES SCHOLARSHIP

A 22-year-old Dalhousie University law student, Arthur L. Foote, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Foote, of Woodfield, Pictou County, has been awarded the 1954 Rhodes Scholarship for Nova Scotia. The scholarship is tenable at the University of Oxford, England.

Mr. Foote, a native of Woodfield, attended school there until Grade 10 when he received an average of 77 per cent in a N.S. Department of Education correspondence course. In his Grade 12 studies at New Glasgow High School he received an average of 86 per cent. Among prizes won at the end of the year were the John T. MacLeod Scholarship, the Matheson Prize in Mathematics and the Goodman Prize.

He entered Dalhousie University in 1948 and graduated with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in 1951. He began studies at Dalhousie Law School in September 1951, and expects to graduate this year. While in Law School, he stood second in his class during his first year and first in the class last year.

Among scholarships and prizes he won were: 1948—Special Entrance Bursary; 1949—Bruce Bursary; 1951-1953—Matheson Bursary; 1949-1950—Sir Frederick Banting I.O.D.E. (New Glasgow) Scholarship; 1953—Olive Moore McEvoy Scholarship, Nova Scotia Barrister's Society Scholarship, Class of 1910 Prize in Constitutional Law and the Carswell Prize.

During Summer vacations he has worked as a roadman with a Dept. of Highways survey crew, a fitter in a car factory, in the lumberwoods, as a night clerk in a hotel, a COTC cadet and an articulated clerk.

Among his extra-curricular activities this year were his position as student director of the Nova Scotia Legislative Research Centre, chairman of the Moot Court Committee, one of the four candidates for Smith Shield competition and a member of the Dalhousie Liberal Club.

While at Oxford, he intends either to read for the Oxford B.A. in the Final Honors School of philosophy-politics-economics or to do advanced study or research in some field of law proper, preferably public law.

FROSH WELCOMED TO DAL "FAMILY"

A. Gordon Archibald, president of Dalhousie University's alumni association, welcomed first year students to the "Dalhousie Family" at an alumni-sponsored party held in the Dal gym.

Prizes were donated by city firms and local alumni and went to winners of games and variety dances. Orval J. Troy, Law '51, chairman of the freshman party committee for the last three years, organized the festivities, and Mrs. Olga Martell was in charge of the refreshments.

Special guests included Honorary Alumni President C. H. Harvey, Nova Scotia Archivist, Mrs. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald, and Student Council President Gordon McConnell.

A CLUSTER OF PRESIDENTS

The Dalhousie Club of New York, last November, staged an unusual event which received extensive notice by press and radio. For a dinner meeting in the Rainbow Grill of the R.C.A. Building, the club brought together as special guests six presidents of Canadian colleges and universities, all of whom are Dalhousians.

The six guests were: Dr. Norman A. MacKenzie, U.B.C.; Dr. Sidney E. Smith, Toronto; Dr. Maxwell M. MacOdrum, Carleton College, Ottawa; Dr. Arthur R. Jewitt, Bishop's; Dr. A. E. Kerr, Dalhousie; and Dr. Raymond Gushue, Memorial University of Newfoundland.

A large turnout of Dalhousians listened to the guests, all of whom were brief, and the evening did a great deal to maintain the Dalhousie spirit in Manhattan. One correspondent reports that "the audience sat on the edges of their chairs with interest. You could have heard a pin drop from start to finish."

To assemble such a group of distinguished guests, all of whom are busy men, is an achievement in itself, but the editor of one Canadian newspaper guessed at the method. Under a picture of the group he printed the caption: "Varsity Presidents Gather for Meal."

On January 14, the Dalhousie Club of New York held its annual meeting and elected the following strong slate of officers: President, Howard Glube; Vice Presidents, Dr. Perry M. Sachs and Miss Emelyn L. MacKenzie; Secretary, Mrs. Mildred Lavers Bradley; Treasurer, George S. Atkins. Executive: Mrs. Emma Gillies Corsi, Miss Marjorie Golburgh, J. Ralph MacLean, Dr. Albert Sloane, Douglas S. Thompson, and Miss Blanche J. Urquhart.

SCHOLARSHIPS IN MEMORY OF HUSBAND

New entrance scholarships to Dalhousie University for deserving graduates of the Frank R. Davis Memorial High School, Bridgewater, were announced in Halifax last December, by Dr. A. E. Kerr.

The scholarships are made possible by a gift to the university from Mrs. Frank R. Davis in memory of her late husband, a former Minister of Health, a distinguished graduate of Dalhousie and former member of the staff of Dalhousie Medical School.

Candidates will be nominated by the supervisor and senior high school staff at Bridgewater on the basis of scholastic standing, moral character, unselfishness of purpose, and interest in the common good. First awards will be available to students completing matriculation requirements at Bridgewater next June.

The Frank R. Davis Memorial scholarships commemorate the late Hon. Dr. Frank R. Davis, a prominent physician and surgeon at Bridgewater who, after serving as Mayor of the town, became a member of the Nova Scotia Legislature in the general election of 1933.

He was appointed to the cabinet of the Hon. Angus L. Macdonald as Minister of Public Health in September of the same year and was re-elected in 1937, 1941, and 1945. In 1945, in addition to his portfolio as Minister of Public Health, he was appointed Registrar General and Minister of Municipal Affairs.

In 1930, Dr. Davis was elected a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons. He died on Sept. 17, 1948. Mrs. Davis, the former Elizabeth Balcom of Aylesford, and her husband both received their degrees of M.D., C.M., from Dalhousie in 1911.

In announcing the new scholarships, Dr. Kerr said: "We are most grateful to Mrs. Davis for this generous assistance to the cause of higher education. It is a most fitting way to honor the name of her late husband, who exemplified so well the ideals of professional conduct and public service set by the medical profession of this province."

"These scholarships will help deserving students to receive a university education," said Dr. Kerr, "and I am sure that is exactly what Dr. Davis would have wished."

PROFESSOR C. C. COFFIN IS DEAD

Professor Carl Cowan Coffin, head of the chemistry department at Dalhousie University, died, January 13, in the Halifax Infirmary after an illness of two months. He was in his 51st year.

On the staff of Dalhousie University since 1929, he had latterly served as department head and Harry Shireff Professor of Chemical Research.

Professor Coffin received his education at Dalhousie, where he received his Bachelor of Arts in 1924, and McGill University, where he received his Master of Science and the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in 1929.

He later won National Research Council scholarships and a travelling fellowship under Professor Ernst Cohen at the van't Hoff Laboratories, University of Utrecht, Holland.

He was a lecturer in physical chemistry at Dalhousie University in 1929-30.

In 1935 he was made a fellow of the Royal Society of Canada. He was also a fellow of the Chemical Institute of Canada and he made more than 45 contributions to science journals during his career.

Surviving are his wife Irene; two daughters, Natasha, a student at McGill University; and Janet, at home; his mother, Mrs. R. L. Coffin, of Vancouver; two brothers, Harold, of Everett, Washington, and Robert, of Vancouver; two sisters, Margaret Coffin, Vancouver, and Mrs. Bessie Ferguson of Cloverdale, B. C.

Funeral services were held at Cruikshank's Funeral Home, Robie Street, conducted by Rev. W. C. Anderson, of St. Andrew's United Church, assisted by Dr. A. E. Kerr. Interment was in Camp Hill Cemetery.

RARE EDITIONS FOUND AT DAL.

Three rare editions of Halifax printer Anthony Henry's German version of his "Nova Scotia Calendar" have come to light at the Dalhousie Library.

The calendars, almanacs in book form, are entirely in the German language and cover the years 1794, 1798 and 1801. According to Douglas Lochhead, University Librarian, these examples of early Nova Scotian calendars were discovered in some uncatalogued material which forms part of the University's J. J. Stewart Canadian Collection.

"Der Neuschottlandische Calendar", was first printed in 1787 and appeared every year until Henry's death in 1800. It is believed to be the earliest of the German language publications produced in Canada.

Numbers of this picturesque and historically interesting almanac are very rare. Until the discovery of the three editions at Dalhousie only two copies were known to exist in North American libraries and archives. The 1788 calendar is in the Library of Parliament in Ottawa, and a copy of the 1791 edition is in the Library of Congress in Washington, D. C.

The German born Anthony Henry printed his calendar in German for the benefit of his fellow countrymen who, after 1750, began to settle in Lunenburg County and the Dutch Village area. For him it was a labor of love and his German version was larger in size and more heavily decorated than its English counterpart.

The covers of the 1794 and 1798 calendars are illustrated with handsome woodcuts of views of Halifax Harbour.

The contents includes lists of notable events, social and political; signs of the zodiac, and monthly calendars; court sessions; recipes; verses; lists of Provincial officials; distances to farms between Halifax and Annapolis; and the buoys in Halifax Harbour.

According to Mr. Lochhead it is hoped to microfilm the newly found calendars and to include them in a public display of almanacs at the Dalhousie University Library in June, in time for the forthcoming Canadian Librarians Association Convention.

NEW ENGLAND GROUP'S TRIBUTE

At a meeting of the New England Alumni, the following officers were elected for 1953-54: President, Rev. Gordon Thompson; 1st Vice-President, Dr. Thomas H. MacDonald; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. Arthur Grant; Secretary, Fulton Underhay; Treasurer, Miss Helen S. Rodgerson; Honorary Adviser, Rev. Douglas MacIntosh.

It was moved that a copy of the following tribute to the late Dr. Roy Davis, for so many years a staunch supporter of Dalhousie, be sent to the Alumni News:

At this, the first meeting of the Dalhousie Club of New England since the passing of Dr. Roy Davis, February 26, 1953, it is fitting that we offer affectionate tribute to his memory and record particularly his devoted loyalty and services to Dalhousie and this Club while remembering in passing his distinguished services to education.

Dr. Davis was the founder of this Club, a former president, its Honorary President at the time of his death and at all times its main strength and support. He was, in a very real sense, the representative of Dalhousians in New England. When anyone here or in Nova Scotia thought of Dalhousians in New England as a group, he thought of Dr. Davis.

Dr. Davis was brought up in Colechester County. He graduated from Dalhousie in 1899 and obtained his M.A. in 1900. Later he received degrees from Acadia and Harvard. After some years of teaching in Rhode Island, he joined the faculty at Boston University in 1916 where he was Professor of English in the College of Business Administration until his retirement. The present standards, which are today taken for granted, of concise, clear and simple English in business correspondence are due in large measure to his pioneer work in this field. His intellectual interests were broad and his activities almost to the end would have set a fast pace for a much younger man. Requests for materials from his pen came to him from all over the United States and Canada. Early this year he was busy editing new editions of his textbooks, writing a book as well as various articles and assembling materials for other projects. In addition, he was giving much time and thought to the plan, which he originated, of an International Exchange Lectureship between universities here and in Canada. It is hoped that the first lectures will be held this autumn in Boston and Halifax. His life, character and achievements were much too varied to be accurately epitomized in a few sentences. Perhaps Governor Herter came close to this when, at a press conference on February 26, 1953, he described Dr. Davis as "Boston University's Mr. Chips" and said that he had done "a tremendous piece of work in cementing friendly relations between Canada and the United States."

It is gratifying for us to know that Dr. Davis had been told that the Board of Governors of Dalhousie University had voted in February, 1953 to confer on him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at the Convention on May 12, 1953 in recognition of his services to education and his interest in Dalhousie's welfare.

Words are, at the best, but a meager tribute. The most fitting way in which we can show our respect for Dr. Davis' memory and that which he would have liked best is for each Dalhousian to put forth some extra effort towards making this Club a stronger, larger and more effective group.

VALUE TO SOCIETY OF UNIVERSITIES STRESSED

"It is indispensable to Canada as a young country that she should give proper place to the universities which have so great a part to play in the fashioning of her life according to the highest ideals of the past."

This statement was made by Dr. A. E. Kerr, president of Dalhousie University, in an address before a January meeting of the Saint John Rotary Club.

Speaking on "The historical background of universities and their value to society," Dr. Kerr said: "Universities in our western world must be the handmaidens of progress in science and religion."

Every self-respecting society in the world, he said, had developed the university for the cultivation of the mind. "All modern countries which have developed and substained a worthy way of life reflect the influence of their universities."

He noted in beginning his talk that as a student minister, he had served a number of smaller churches in the Saint John area, from South Bay to Westfield.

Dr. Kerr was introduced by Fred W. Fowler, who was chairman of the meeting.

In the afternoon, Dr. Kerr addressed an assembly of high school students at the Saint John High School.

COMMUNITY PLANNING SESSION

Complex problems confronting urban and rural governments and groups engaged in work of public service were given close scrutiny at Windsor by West Hants civic and industrial officials and representatives of various organizations, at an information session on community planning. After the all-day session, chief magistrates of West Hants, Windsor and Hantsport announced that the program of community planning outlined during the day would be a major item on agendas at following meetings of their town and municipal councils.

Chairman John I. McVittie, director, Dalhousie Institute of Public Affairs, said the meeting was "making history" in the sense that it was the first of its kind to be held in Nova Scotia and perhaps in Canada. The idea originated with the Windsor Board of Trade last Summer and took form at a meeting with representatives of Federal and Provincial Governments. It was thought that problems facing urban and municipal governments might be clarified by sharing "facts and experience" at a gathering of this kind. It was sponsored jointly by the Nova Scotia Division of Community Planning Association of Canada and the Dalhousie Institute of Public Affairs.

A number of University Calendars for 1954-1955 are available on request to members of the Alumni. Requests should be directed to the Registrar, Dalhousie University.

DR. C. J. MACKENZIE IS HONORED

(By Napier Moore in the Financial Post)

In Ottawa last Saturday night we attended quite a remarkable dinner. It was tendered by the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada in honor of Dr. C. J. Mackenzie on the occasion of the award to him of the Kelvin Medal. And it was remarkable on two counts. First, it upset the biblical statements that a prophet is not without honor save in his own country. Joining his scientific and engineering colleagues in their tribute were the Prime Minister and seven members of his cabinet. President W. P. Thompson of the University of Saskatchewan journeyed from Saskatoon to propose the toast to the guest of honor. Prof. A. V. Hill, noted English scientist, was there to convey the congratulations of various British institutes. Second, what might so easily have been to the layman an evening of profound but heavy speeches, turned out to be an highly enjoyable affair enlivened by considerable wit. President Thompson got in some cracks worthy of Fred Allen in his prime, and Dr. Mackenzie's preamble to his more serious remarks had a bland but penetrating humor which rocked even the august head table.

Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, is, of course, known to Canadians as president of the Atomic Energy Control Board and former head of the National Research Council. We say "former" because Dr. Mackenzie retired some months ago. But both the Prime Minister and Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe made it quite clear that he isn't severed from service to his country.

The Kelvin Medal, and Dr. Mackenzie is the first Canadian to receive it, was founded in 1914, principally by British and American engineers, and is awarded by a committee of the presidents of the representative British engineering institutes after consideration of recommendations from similar bodies in all parts of the world, and is a recognition of pre-eminence in those fields in which Lord Kelvin's scientific work and research were carried out.

Mr. Howe having recalled that it was he who, as a professor at Dalhousie, had recommended Dr. Mackenzie, then a student of his, for his first honor, that of the degree of Bachelor of Science, Dr. Mackenzie reminded Mr. Howe and his cabinet colleagues that he, Mackenzie, had had some experience of politics, having at a relatively early age been elected an alderman in Saskatoon. He had also been a deputy mayor. And he quoted a recipe for success in public life given him by a rather unlettered but sage observer of life in the West. It was: "You don't need to know very much about anything—and you'll qualify there. But there are two things you do need for public life—a good digestion and lots of words."

(From the Ottawa Journal)

No man of wealth ever dies in Saskatchewan unless he is caught unaware, according to Premier T. C. Douglas of that province. The rich man has always retired to the salubrious climate of British Columbia or to the "dull respectability of Ontario".

The Saskatchewan view-point, illustrated by such anecdotes, was brought to Ottawa by Dr. W. P. Thompson, president of the University of Saskatchewan, speaking at a dinner, last January, in honor of his friend, Dr. C. J. Mackenzie.

Dr. Mackenzie had made a great name for himself when he came to Eastern Canada from Saskatoon. "Perhaps the competition here is not as keen as in the West", said Dr. Thompson.

Several members of the Federal Cabinet had been professors. "I don't know whether we should mention Mr. Gregg (Labor minister) because after all he was only a president of a university."

"It may be news to you that there once was a Conservative Party in Saskatchewan apart from John Diefenbaker."

There had been a "strange interlude" when Dr. Mackenzie was an alderman of Saskatoon, heading the polls at every election. (Dr. Mackenzie said later there had only been one election.)

The annual curling competition in Saskatoon almost always wound up with Dr. Mackenzie and Dr. Thompson skipping opposing rinks in the final "and he always beat me, not because he could throw the rocks any more accurately, but because he would use his brains better to build up a house."

Dr. Thompson had become a dean, in the words of Sidney Smith, "a man who knows too much to be a president and not enough to be a professor". Mrs. Mackenzie, then Miss Gerry Gallon, had been the brightest student in the first class Dr. Thompson taught in Saskatoon.

Dr. Mackenzie observed in opening his speech that the camera lights made him feel as if he were in a prison camp. He remembered when his World War I battalion went to Camp Hughes, now Camp Shilo, and the university men composing it were considered unsoldierly and untidy by the regulars. The colonel had been rapped, and he rapped the sergeant-major who rapped the sanitary sergeant who said he couldn't keep the camp up to scratch with so many professors on his squad.

Dr. Mackenzie had been deputy mayor in Saskatoon with a mayor who did not like speaking—"unbelievable as it may seem"—and when he first went out speaking, a fellow alderman had told him, "all you need in public life is a good digestion and lots of words."

TWICE VICTIM OF POLIO, NOW HAS SCHOLARSHIP

Overcoming a double "bout" with polio, John Campbell, son of Dr. P. S. Campbell, former Deputy Minister of Health, and Mrs. Campbell, 246 Robie Street, has been honored by Dalhousie University's Faculty of Medicine, with one of its most valuable awards, the entrance scholarship.

He was slated to have received this award in September, 1952, but at that time he was lying almost totally paralyzed in an "iron lung" at the Polio Clinic of the Victoria General Hospital.

While this latest distinction is an enviable one, he also has another "distinction" of a less happy nature, being one of three persons in Nova Scotia who have suffered from second attacks of poliomyelitis. Today the 23-year-old Halifax resident has returned to a normal life, walking without any artificial aids, and is pursuing his studies of medicine. In his Christmas examinations he was successful in being awarded two distinctions.

While he walks unimpeded his polio attacks left his hands, arms, and shoulders somewhat weakened. During the Christmas holidays, Mr. Campbell was sent to the New York Institute for Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation by the Nova Scotia "March of Dimes", where he underwent an extensive examination and evaluation.

It was decided there that an operation called a "tendon transplant" would have a very good chance to restore some of the missing hand movements. It is being arranged for him to return at completion of his school year for this very delicate operation by New York specialists. Again the "March of Dimes" is making this possible.

Mr. Campbell was first afflicted with bulbar poliomyelitis, the most serious variety, in 1949, when he was taking pre-medicine studies at Dalhousie. At that time there was residual paralysis in the legs, but he made a fairly rapid recovery from his other disabilities. He returned to his college classes and had just been admitted to the incoming first year medical class when he was stricken with his second polio attack.

This time he was hospitalized for almost a year, during some weeks of which he was kept alive by the "iron lung." In September of last year, however, he had so far recovered that he was able to resume his medical studies. Announcement that he has been awarded the entrance scholarship was made in January by Dr. A. E. Kerr, President of Dalhousie University, and Dr. H. G. Grant, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine. It is an award of $500 and is one of three such made available this year to the Nova Scotia mainland. Others who have also gained this award are Malcolm A. S. MacAulay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander MacAulay, Armdale; Donald S. Beanlands, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Beanlands, 15 Stanley Place; Joseph A. Gagnon, Dupuis Corner, New Brunswick; Robert W. Young, St. John's, Newfoundland, and Hugh J. Brown, Sydney Mines.

DALHOUSIE HONORS MEDICAL MEN

"He has been a kindly and faithful family doctor. Always ready to respond to the call of the sick, he has served his people truly and well day and night, summer and winter. Only those who have practised medicine in the rural areas of Nova Scotia can appreciate the immensity of this service and the sacrifice often entailed."

With these words of praise, Dalhousie University in a special convocation, last October, on the occasion of the centenary of the Medical Society of Nova Scotia and the 27th Annual Refresher Course presented by the Faculty of Medicine conferred the Degree of Doctor of Laws, Honoris Causa, on Dr. Robert Augustus MacLellan of Rawdon, Hants County.

Dr. MacLellan was one of the four men honored by Dalhousie University for their notable contributions to Medicine. Following the invocation of Reverend R. E. Shaw, B.A., President of the General Ministerial Association, Dr. A. E. Kerr, President of Dalhousie University spoke of Dalhousie's classical tradition and its closeness to the medical tradition. The four recipients of honorary degrees were, Dr. Kerr stated, representative of the medical profession at its best.

Dr. H. G. Grant, Dean of the Medical School, presented the candidates for their degrees.

The Director of the Montreal Neurological Institute, Dr. Wilder Graves Penfield, O.M., in recognition of his contributions to medical science and in particular of the advances he has made in Neurology and Neurosurgery was granted the degree of Doctor of Laws. Dr. Penfield was recently awarded the Order of Merit by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth.

The Secretary of the Canadian Medical Association since 1923, Dr. Thomas Clarence Routley also received an honorary Doctor of Laws. Realizing that the scope of Medicine is not national but world wide, Dr. Routley has done a great part in organizing the World Medical Association and was highly honoured recently in being elected Chairman of the First Council of the World Medical Association, said Dean Grant.

One of Halifax's best known doctors Dr. George Henry Murphy, had the honour of the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws bestowed upon him. As a skilled surgeon, as a competent and devoted teacher, as a lover of the classics and as a public spirited citizen Dr. Murphy was honored by Dalhousie University, where he is a Professor Emeritus since he left the Medical Faculty in 1949.

President and former members of the Medical School of Dalhousie University gathered at the Lord Nelson Hotel for a buffet supper and reunion meeting, enlivened by songs, skits and reminiscences. The reunion was held as part of the week's program.

Dr. J. F. Nicholson acted as master of ceremonies for the evening and introduced the senior living graduate of the school, Dr. F. E. Rice, of Sandy Cove, Digby County, a member of the graduating class of 1893, who recalled the facilities available in his student days and the room he shared with a fellow student which cost them, for room and board, about $2.50 a week. He spoke of the vast strides taken by the profession and by the school in the years which have followed.

President A. E. Kerr, Col. K. C. Laurie, chairman of the Board of Governors, and Dean H. G. Grant welcomed the doctors to the reunion, and an all-star quartet of medical men presented a song specially written for the occasion lampooning a number of well-known fellow practitioners.

Hundreds of medical men attended the sessions during the week and heard lectures by outstanding medical authorities. The social program, apart from the Dalhousie Reunion, included special events for the ladies, the centennial ball at the Nova Scotian Hotel, and the John Stewart Memorial Lecture delivered by Dr. Wilder G. Penfield, internationally known neurosurgeon.

The great contributions to the medical world made by Nova Scotia's Dr. John Stewart and Lord Lister were outlined last night by Dr. Penfield before a capacity audience.

A former president of the Medical Society of Nova Scotia, "Stewart was a disciple," Dr. Penfield said. "His contribution to our profession consisted in his advocacy and practice of the new gospel of antiseptics in surgery, which were the teachings of his hero Lister."

"The present day world is waiting for a Lister in the field of cancer, someone to pick up a clue, from new work in another discipline of science," he said.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. H. G. Grant, Dean of Medicine of Dalhousie University, and thanked by Dr. A. E. Blackett, of New Glasgow. Dr. A. E. Kerr, acted as chairman and delivered the opening remarks.

COURSES FOR NURSES

A two-week nursing workshop on ward management and clinical teaching aimed at giving instruction to nurses who have not had specialized training for particular work as supervisors, teachers, or general duty, was held at Dalhousie in November.

A maximum registration of 25 nurses attended the course in the Dalhousie Arts and Administration Building under the direction of the University's School of Nursing.

During the workshop nurses had 80 hours of classes with instruction and discussion of problems related to the ward, especially those in the area of patient care. Emphasis was on the newer developments in ward management and clinical teaching. Sessions were held daily from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

A similar course was held in May of this year.

DALHOUSIE BENEFACTOR DIES

The Hon. William H. Dennis, of Halifax, a former Governor and frequent benefactor of Dalhousie University, died at his Ottawa residence on January 18. Although he had not been in good health for some years, Senator Dennis had gone to the capital to attend sessions of the Upper House.

In a business career which began in 1900, Senator Dennis achieved national recognition as a publisher and as a dynamic force in many business interests. On his appointment to the Senate in 1932, when he was its youngest member, he launched a vigorous effort to develop Canada's tourist industry and was instrumental in the achievement of a national tourist promotion organization.

As publisher of The Halifax Herald—later The Halifax Chronicle-Herald—he was known for the whole-hearted support he contributed, through his newspaper, to many Maritime and national causes.

Senator Dennis, who was in his 65th year, is survived by his wife, the former Hilda Wood, by a son, Graham, Managing Director of The Halifax Herald Ltd., and a daughter, Pauline. One sister, Mrs. Aubrey Cox, Halifax, and three brothers, Arthur S., of Vancouver; Albert, Santa Anna, California; and Aubrey F., Vancouver, Washington, also survive.

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS IS GOVERNOR

Appointment of Sir James Hamet Dunn, Bart., Q.C., to Dalhousie University's Board of Governors, has been approved by the Governor-in-Council, officials of the university announced last night.

A distinguished alumnus, Sir James is internationally known for his work as a financier and industrialist. A native of Bathurst, N. B., he graduated from Dal. with a Bachelor of Law degree in 1898. While at Dalhousie he studied under Dean R. C. Weldon.

He practised law for a number of years in Nova Scotia, Quebec, and the North West Territories before entering upon a career in finance and industry. He founded a firm of investment bankers in London, England, and for service rendered during World War One he received a baronetcy in 1921.

Since 1935 he has been president of the Algoma Steel Corporation and since then has directed large-scale development in steel, coke and iron ore in the Lake Superior region.

Dalhousie conferred him with an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws in 1948 and he has been similarly honored by several other universities. In 1948 he was also elected honorary president of the Dalhousie Alumni Association, succeeding Viscount R. B. Bennett.

DALHOUSIANS HEAR SID SMITH

About 400 Dalhousians gathered in the Nova Scotian Hotel, Halifax, on February 15 for the semi-annual meeting of the Dalhousie Alumni Association and heard a distinguished alumnus, Dr. Sidney E. Smith, President of the University of Toronto, advocate a revival of the effort to bring Maritime universities together into one great institution.

The Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland, he said, could have a university which would bear comparison with Harvard or Yale or Brown.

Dr. Smith's address was the highlight of a dinner meeting which was endorsed by all as the most successful alumni function in Halifax for years.

Premier Angus L. Macdonald, a life-long friend and former colleague, introduced the speaker. A. Gordon Archibald, president of the Alumni Association, was chairman.

It was truly a gala evening. Alumnus Don Warner and his orchestra provided music during the dinner and the turnout was so large that extra tables had to be provided in the mezzanine outside the ballroom.

Miss Florence I. Wall, 1st Vice-President, proposed the toast to Dalhousie, to which President Kerr responded. Following Dr. Smith's address, Tom Coffin voiced the appreciation of all the Dalhousians present.

Guests of honor included the Hon. Alistair Fraser, M.C., Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia; Rt. Hon. J. L. Illsley, Chief Justice; Mayor R. A. Donahoe; Col. K. C. Laurie, Chairman of the Board of Governors; Mrs. Murray Macneill; Miss Barbara Davison, Vice-President of the Student's Council; Dr. A. K. Griffin, representing King's College; Dr. D. C. Harvey, Honorary President of the Alumni Association; and Dr. H. L. Bronson, a former Honorary President.

TORONTO DINNER IS SUCCESS

The annual dinner meeting of the Toronto branch brought together nearly 200 Dalhousians in the King Edward Hotel on March 9.

John Fisher, well-known radio commentator, proposed the toast to Dalhousie to which Dr. George E. Wilson, Dean of Arts and Science, responded. Dr. Sidney Smith, President of the University of Toronto, thanked the speakers. A fair sprinkling of "old timers" attended, as well as graduates of recent years and a warm, happy atmosphere prevailed.

R. M. Brown was elected President, with the following officers: Vice-Presidents, Miss Helen Reynolds and Dr. E. Howse; Treasurer, Vic Seary; Secretary, Miss Frances Doane; Executive, Mrs. Blanchard Wiswell, Miss Barbara McGeoch, Dr. C. B. Crummey, and B. B. Lockwood.

NEW ART GALLERY IN USE

The Art Gallery in Dalhousie's Arts and Administration Building has become an important and popular centre of the building. It was opened in October of last year by the distinguished British critic Eric Newton, with a special show provided by the National Gallery for that occasion.

Since then a number of travelling exhibitions have been held in the gallery but none of these drew so great a turnout of interested visitors as a show held this spring when students, staff members, and wives were invited to exhibit.

The Art Committee have now purchased some Canadian oil paintings and water colors with funds donated by the Class of 1915 and the Women's Division of the Alumni Association and hope that these pictures will be the nucleus of a worth while collection of representative Canadian paintings. The Committee is also purchasing reproductions of old and modern masters which are to be hung in other rooms and halls of the university. A third project, now under way, is the development of a collection of smaller reproductions which may be borrowed from the University Library for hanging in students' rooms.

The new gallery is about fifty feet by twenty feet, has a wall space of 100 feet, and is well lighted with windows along most of one side and by fluorescent fixtures mounted flush with the ceiling.

The room is open during the day and available to students in spare periods for the viewing of the permanent collection or of visiting exhibitions.

GIVE $2,000 TO SPEECH CLINIC

The Halifax Rotary Club last fall presented a cheque for $2,000 to Dalhousie University for use in its speech therapy clinic which since institution has treated 120 cases, all but five of them children.

The presentation by President G. J. Redmond to Dr. H. G. Grant, dean of the university's Faculty of Medicine, was one of the highlights of a "medical" meeting of the club.

Other "medical features" of the meeting included an address on health insurance by Dr. A. D. Kelly, of Toronto, deputy general secretary of the Canadian Medical Association, and attendance at the meeting of doctors from Canada and the United States, in Halifax for the annual refresher course of Dalhousie University and centenary celebrations of the Nova Scotia Medical Society.

The donation of $2,000 by Rotary to the speech therapy clinic, was the second such gift by the club to the institution. The gift was the proceeds of the last Easter Seals sales campaign sponsored by the club.

THE LIGHT OF LEARNING

(From The Halifax Chronicle-Herald, Oct. 29, 1953)

One of the most familiar, as also one of the most striking, sights of the West End of Halifax these Fall evenings is that of the floodlit tower surmounting the new Arts and Administration Building of Dalhousie University. Rising on a slight eminence over one of the principal thoroughfares of the city, its graceful proportions are advantageously emphasized by illumination against the dark background of trees and buildings.

But it is not merely the aesthetic values of a good piece of building floodlit which are suggested by the sight of a university tower by night. For long enough now illumination has appeared to be largely a form of advertising employed exclusively by commercial interests. The somewhat flamboyant neon sign, with its garish reds, greens and blues, has flashed abroad the values and virtues of commodities ranging from pills to real estate, the flashing string of electric bulbs has served to identify the film theatre and the tavern, and the few cases in which such devices have been appropriated to the use of such buildings as churches have been accepted as being in dubious taste, especially in such a conservatively-minded part of the country as this.

Gradually the connection has grown up in the public mind between light, advertising and commercialism, and it is good to see this association receive a check. Floodlighting in particular is now starting to take a prominent place in bringing out architectural beauties which, though easily overlooked during the day, are the more readily perceptible at night because of their contrast to their dark backgrounds. And such advertising by a province, a city or a university of its buildings is free from the taint of being advertising in a commercial sense; rather it is a service to the public in making available a scene which beautifies the neighborhood, and may promote an interest in good architecture.

And there is perhaps something particularly suitable about the symbolism of a floodlit university building. Here, if anywhere in a home of mental and spiritual enlightenment, there should at all times be light. For a university exists to conquer darkness, the darknesses of ignorance and intolerance, and its objective is to spread the light of knowledge, reason and freedom.

Almost forty years ago Sir Edward Grey, standing at the window of the Foreign Office in London and looking out over the twinkling lights of the fateful August evening, observed that the lights were "going out all over Europe." The intervening years have seen the extinction of many such lights as he had in mind, not only in Europe, but throughout the world. But the light of learning and freedom, for which a university stands, is not yet extinguished, and it is as fitting as it is pleasant to see that fact, symbolized in the floodlit university tower with its upward reach.

STAFF CHANGES AT DALHOUSIE

Four staff changes in the Faculty of Arts and Science, became effective with the beginning of the 1953-54 academic year.

The appointments are as follows: Dr. Arnold J. Tingley, Assistant Professor of Mathematics, Dr. Alec Thompson Stewart, Assistant Professor of Physics for one year during the absence of Dr. W. J. Archibald; M. G. Parks Lecturer in English for one year during the absence of Dr. Burns Martin, and Harry F. Aikens Lecturer in French. Three of the four appointees are graduates of Dalhousie.

Mr. Aikens attended school in his native town of Stellarton, entering Dalhousie in 1941. He received the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1945, after which he pursued graduate studies in the Department of Romance Languages at Yale, receiving the degree of Master of Arts in 1947.

Dr. Tingley, whose appointment increases the number of teachers in the Mathematics department, is a native of Aulac, N. B., who lived for some years in Amherst. He attended schools in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, graduating in Arts from Mount Allison University, following the war, in which he served in the Canadian Army. He then undertook post-graduate work at the University of Minnesota where he received the degrees of Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy. During the past year he was a member of the Mathematics department of the University of Nebraska. One of his papers was recently accepted for publication in the "Proceedings of the American Mathematical Society."

Dr. Alec Thompson Stewart was born in Saskatchewan and went to school in Windsor, N. S., and Dartmouth. He won a number of scholarships and prizes at Dalhousie, graduating with distinction in 1946 as a Bachelor of Science. He received the degree of Master of Science from Dalhousie in 1949, after which, as winner of an I.O.D.E. Post-Graduate Scholarship, he studied at Trinity College, Cambridge, receiving the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. In 1952 he obtained an appointment with Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. at Chalk River and has been given a year's leave of absence from that organization to fill the vacancy at Dalhousie.

Mr. Parks, a native of Petite Riviere, obtained his school training there and, after military service in Canada and overseas in World War II, entered Dalhousie in 1946. He received the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1950 and that of Master of Arts in 1951. During his career as a student, he was awarded the Evangeline Chapter I.O.D.E. Scholarship in English, the Archibald MacMechan Chapter I.O.D.E. Scholarship in English, and a Dr. A. Stanley Mackenzie Teaching Fellowship in the Faculty of Graduate Studies.

In 1951 Mr. Parks was admitted to the School of Graduate Studies in English at the University of Toronto where he has been working towards his doctorate while holding a teaching fellowship. Although his teaching appointment had been renewed for the current session, the English department at Toronto released Mr. Parks so that he could take over Dr. Martin's classes which are in the field in which he has specialized. He expects to return to his teaching and research at Toronto next year.

TO "HERBIE"

By Gertrude Mills, B.A. '24, LL.B. '26

If I had known that the letter I wrote to Dr. Stewart last August was going to be the last one he would ever read, I'd have written all about him, instead of about myself. But maybe he wouldn't have wanted it that way.

When his daughter, here in Toronto, telephoned me that Sunday morning and told me he was dead . . . I cried. It wasn't because I was sorry for him, of course. He'd been ill, and for two years had been so unbearably lonely without his wife . . . and death had come to him gently . . . kindly. But I cried selfishly, because I felt that I had lost a friend.

Now . . . Dr. Stewart was gone. I couldn't write to him any more, nor go to see him when he came to Toronto. And there were so many questions I still wanted to ask him . . .

I felt very sad.

The news of his death came over the radio . . . and I knew that at home in Halifax the next day the newspapers would be filled with tributes to his greatness, from those in high positions . . .

And the next Sunday at 2 o'clock, there would be the beginning of realization in thousands of Maritime homes that Dr. Stewart would never be on the radio again. Everyone who had listened to him through the years had lost a friend, and no one would ever be able to take his place. There just wasn't anyone anywhere who could analyze and explain so clearly what was going on in the world.

It was because I missed him so much when I moved to Toronto that finally, on impulse, I wrote to him about it, told him I hadn't realized how much his broadcasts meant to me until I couldn't hear them any more. I also told him . . . after thirty years . . . how much I'd enjoyed the classes I took from him at Dalhousie . . .

Not dreaming that he would remember me. I liked the subjects he taught, but was never a star student at college . . . nor had I made a success of my later life . . .

But Dr. Stewart remembered. He answered my letter, inviting me warmly to write again, to let him know my problems. He offered his help if I needed it. He thanked me for writing, and ended his letter with, "In the evening of life, it refreshes one to turn back in thought occasionally to its high noon, if one can recall, amid many mistakes, some work of value. This you have helped me to do."

He seemed just as pleased to hear from me as if I'd been someone important.

It was the same thirty years ago, in his classes. I felt so much at ease there, as he made us feel that each one of us, no matter what our mental capacity, was of equal value in his eyes.

We always called him "Herbie" behind his back—everyone did. But only "Stan" MacKenzie, the president, and "Murray" Macneill, the registrar, besides "Herbie", were honored in this way.

I wonder if he knew that everyone called him "Herbie", and understood that this meant we liked him. I do hope he knew.

He was a wonderful teacher, and I still remember how his classes excited me. More than anything, I wanted to know how to think logically and objectively, and at last I had the chance to learn. It was a great privilege to study under Dr. Stewart.

And it was fun too, because one never knew just what to expect next. How many of his old students must remember him sitting at his desk, with his thumbs in his famous green vest, making, with a ponderous air, such statements as . . . "The most unsatisfactory thing imaginable is an uncompleted sneeze."

Of course, there wasn't much opportunity for nonsense on his radio programs. Time was too precious, and world problems too grave.

But so often, through the hectic years, we were afraid and bewildered, and Dr. Stewart comforted us. He sorted out the facts for us, and while he faced these facts, he always seemed to have faith that right would win out in the end. He kept his thousands of listeners steadied and optimistic when so many people in the world could feel nothing but despair.

Since he was recognized as by far the best news commentator on the air, it is sad to remember that the rest of Canada only heard him occasionally, not regularly, as he was heard in Nova Scotia until the end of his life. According to one radio producer, the C.B.C. was a little afraid of a man who had such a tremendous influence on his listeners. How stupid of the C.B.C. not to recognize the full worth of this influence, which they feared.

During the last two years of his life, he visited Toronto several times, and I had the privilege of seeing him, of talking with him.

He was always eager to know if he could help me in any way. What was I reading . . . were my religious affiliations satisfactory . . . did I have problems of any kind that I'd like to talk over with him?

It seemed like old times, sitting there, asking him questions, only he was much thinner, and he didn't wear a green vest . . . but the voice and phrasing were the same, and his conversation was just as satisfying. Now and then he apologized, said, "I know I am too fond of talking", but I could never get enough of his kind of talk.

Once I asked why so many of the "best" people in Canada were radical in their thinking. "I'm not afraid of bad people", I told him, "but I'm terrified of the good people . . . the educated idealists, with emotional ideas."

He answered me carefully. It was, he believed, probably a matter of intellectual conceit. Most of the progress made in the world down through the centuries had been due to intellectuals, willing to fight and often die for their ideas—ideas that differed greatly from those of the common man. Today, many intellectuals are convinced that the common man must always be wrong, and since in Canada, the majority of the people are “middle of the road” politically, the intellectual tends to go radical in his thinking.

I'd asked this question before. Dr. Stewart was the only one who ever gave me an answer that I could understand.

Of course, he didn't want anyone to agree with him blindly—and he always treated a difference of opinion with respect. We disagree about the reason for going to church. He said, “We should go to church to worship”, while I said, “I'm not sure God wants to be worshipped. I go to church to hear the sermon.”

Which brings me to the sermon that Dr. Stewart preached last June, in Toronto, at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church.

I went to hear his sermon. I'd never heard him preach before, and I did not know then that he would never preach again.

He looked small and frail up there in the big pulpit.

His subject was “The Problem of the Middle Aged”. He read from the Bible the verse saying . . . “And the young men shall see visions—and the old men shall dream dreams.”

And he pointed out that no mention had been made of the middle-aged, who evidently neither saw visions nor dreamed dreams, but were very often bitter about life. He gave examples showing how down through the years the defeatism of middle aged men had caused many tragic mistakes in the world. Dr. Stewart called upon the middle-aged to pull themselves out of their pessimism, to do away with their defeatist attitude . . . as un-Christian. He said that Christ's religion is one of optimism and hope, not of gloom and despair.

It was a good sermon, the kind of “steadying” sermon I might have known he would preach . . . only he spoke very quietly, as though he were a little tired.

Going out, I shook hands with him at the door, and we had a short talk. He explained that he'd been ill, and unable to wear his proper shoes, which didn't matter too much, as his gown hid his feet. He chuckled . . . and confided . . . “No doubt I'm the only Presbyterian who ever preached a sermon in running shoes.”

I don't know how many old Dalhousians were there that night, but I thought I saw some familiar faces . . . definitely recognized Mr. Justice Keiller MacKay, looking, as usual, like a cherubim.

The next and last time I saw Dr. Stewart was just before he returned to Halifax. It was a hot summer evening, and a group of us sat around him outdoors, in his daughter's garden. We drank lime-juice and discussed "gnostics". It was a wonderful evening, but I didn't get all my questions asked. I told him I was saving some questions for another time.

Only there wasn't to be another time.

I've heard it suggested that Dr. Stewart, despite all the recognition he received, had a feeling that he should have accomplished even more with his life, was dissatisfied with himself. This might be so . . . I wouldn't know . . . but I should think that most men who live mainly to serve others must die wishing that they had accomplished more.

I think too that he must often have been lonely, and I can understand why he did not always appear to be at ease with his fellow man socially. His own intellectual world was so different from the social world around him, it may sometimes have been difficult for him to adjust himself. And so few could enter his world with him completely. Most of us could only go a very little way.

A few weeks ago, I read part of his unpublished autobiography, a privilege that made me feel greatly honored. The story was complete, and in proper sequence, but it wasn't quite ready for publication. He had intended going over it again.

As I sat there reading, I was deeply moved. And instead of just seeing the words on the paper, I was hearing his voice, clearly . . . that Irish voice, so unlike any other. He seemed to be there in the room with me . . . talking . . . the way he loved to talk.

I hope that the autobiography will be published some day and that everyone who has benefited by his influence through the years will read it, and feel in touch with him again, as I did.

It would please him to be remembered, and to have his own story about his life read and appreciated, by his old students and members of his radio audience.

"Herbie" was very human.

THEY'RE NOT IMMUNE EITHER

Contrary to a widely held belief, people living in stable communities, removed from the tensions of 20th Century living, are not immune to mental ailments according to the leading article in the December issue of Scientific American. The article, "The Mental Health of the Hutterites", is by Dr. Joseph W. Eaton of Wayne University, Detroit, and Dr. Robert J. Weil, of the Department of Psychiatry, Dalhousie.

The article is a report of a survey undertaken by the authors in Hutterite communities in the Middle West, under a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health.

FIRST GIRL TO WIN AWARD

To Miss Yvette Pendle, B.Sc., Organic Chemistry, Dalhousie University, 1953, goes the dual distinction of becoming the first young woman to win an award in the 53-year history of the Canadian Mining and Metallurgical Institute essay competitions and the only student in the year's entry list to earn a prize on a subject appropriate to the Petroleum and Natural Gas Division of the Institutes' contest.

For her essay, entitled, "The Origin and Accumulation of Oil", she has been awarded a prize of $25.

Born in the Barbadoes, she spent her early childhood commuting with her parents between England and various parts of the British West Indies, Madeira and Portugal. In due course, the constant travelling ended in Nova Scotia in time to allow her to complete her elementary and secondary school education in Halifax.

Yvette then entered Dalhousie where she completed the undergraduate course last spring. Although in 1952 her family moved to Montreal, she stayed on at Dalhousie where she is now taking a graduate course in mineralogy under Dr. N. G. Goodman.

She was presented with her award at a joint meeting of the affiliated student societies of Mining and Engineering in the Maritimes by President A. E. Flynn, Professor of Mining and Engineering at the Nova Scotia Technical College.

TWAIN MEET IN HAWAII

Dean Read recently received the following letter from Harry Irwin, LL.B. '98 and for many years Attorney General of Hawaii.

This letter is written by a 1898 LL.B. graduate of Dalhousie Law School, and that graduate arrived at his 89th birthday on December 21, 1953.

At that time, and I still am, the President of Hawaii County Bar Association and, on that occasion, the said Bar Association tendered to me a dinner, at which all of the members of the said Bar Association were present, except two, who were unavoidably absent, and my fellow members of the Bar extended to me their congratulations.

I forwarded herewith a photograph taken of the members of the Bar Association who attended the meeting, all of whom signed their names at the bottom of the picture in commemoration of the dinner extended to me.

Seated at my right is Senator Abe, the Secretary of the Bar Association, and on my left is Judge Sapienza of the Third Circuit (Hilo) and Judge Hewitt of the First Circuit (Honolulu).

This picture, in my opinion, disposes of the old adage that "East is East, and West is West, and never the twain shall meet". We have in this picture lawyers of many different ancestries. We have lawyers in this group of Anglo-Saxon ancestry, Hawaiian ancestry, Italian ancestry, Portuguese ancestry, Japanese ancestry, and Philippine ancestry.

This is but an example of the situation down here in Hawaii nei, where people of different ancestries live together in peace and harmony. They are all, of course, citizens of the United States of America.

I don't know, of course, how many of the 1898 class are still in the land of the living. I did see a reference some time ago to Sir James Dunn, who was a graduate in that same year. The last time I saw Jimmy Dunn was up in Edmonton in the year 1899, just prior to the time when I enlisted in "Strathcorner House" for duty in the Boer War. I thought perhaps this picture might be of interest to even some of the younger graduates.

PROFESSOR C. H. MERCER DIES

Charles Henry Mercer, M.A., B. Com. (Manch), a member of the Faculty of Arts since 1922, died in Halifax, after a brief illness, on February 18. He is survived by his wife and two sons, Dr. Arthur, of Great Falls, Montana, and Lieutenant Commander Eric Mercer, R.C.N., Ottawa.

Funeral services were held on February 22, conducted by the Rev. W. C. Anderson, B.A. '33, assisted by President Kerr.

Professor Mercer was born in Clitheroe, Lancashire, and was educated at Manchester Grammar School and Manchester University. After three years of study at Heidelberg and Berlin, he came to Canada in 1913 to teach at the University of Toronto. He soon moved west and lectured in Spanish at the University of British Columbia and, in 1922, after a period of study at the University of Madrid, came to Dalhousie.

In his classes, Professor Mercer emphasized oral work and was constantly exploring new aids and techniques, such as gramophones and tape recorders. Enthusiastically interested in the progress of students he encouraged extra-curricular activity in languages through such groups as his Pan-American Club.

Some years ago, Professor Mercer was an outstanding badminton and tennis player and had held provincial and Maritime titles. As he grew older he turned his attention to helping younger players develop their skill.

In pre-war years he had been a strong supporter of the League of Nations and, more recently, had been equally active in the United Nations Society. He gave generously of his time and effort, as well, in support of prison reform and other welfare effort. He was an elder of St. Andrew's United Church.

KOREAN AWARDED SCHOLARSHIP

Last November, a native of Pusan, Korea, 30-year-old Doctor Woon Kyi Paik, arrived in Halifax, where for the next three years he will attend Dalhousie University under a grant of the National Cancer Institute.

A graduate in medicine at Severance Union Medical College at Seoul, Dr. Paik, was for the past six years an instructor at the E.W.H.A. Women's University in Korea. At Dalhousie he will spend the next three years studying for his Master's Degree in cell-physiology, under Dr. J. Gordin Kaplan.

Questioned on his reason for coming so far away from his homeland to complete his course, he commented that he had heard of Dalhousie University from Dr. D. J. Kim, who for the past three years lectured at Dalhousie at the invitation of Dr. C. B. Weld, chairman of the Physiology Department. Dr. Paik said he applied for a scholarship and was accepted.

MEMORIAL ADDRESS IN LAW SCHOOL

At an Assembly of the Students and Faculty of Dalhousie Law School on the occasion of the death of the Honourable Angus Lewis Macdonald, Premier of Nova Scotia,

Dean Horace E. Read spoke as follows:

"We pause in the midst of strenuous endeavor to pay loving tribute to the memory of a great man, preeminent among the graduates of this Law School who have 'won renown in public and professional life, and have exercised high influence upon the course of public affairs in critical periods of the history of our country.' We mourn the death of the Honourable Angus Lewis Macdonald, P.C., Q.C., S.J.D., LL.D., Premier of Nova Scotia.

"'Angus L.' was born of Highland-Scottish ancestry in Dunvegan on the Island of Cape Breton in the year 1890. He was gold medalist when he graduated with a B.A. from St. Francis Xavier University in 1914. After serving with the Nova Scotia Highlanders in France during the First World War where he was severely wounded, he became a student at this Law School. He was awarded the LL.B. degree in 1921. For the next three years he was Assistant Deputy Attorney-General of Nova Scotia and part-time lecturer on Practical Statutes. In 1924 he became a full-time member of the Faculty of Law, teaching Torts, Corporations, Procedure and Evidence. During the academic year 1928-29 he was a post-graduate Fellow at the Law School of Harvard University, which in recognition of the distinguished excellence of his work conferred on him the Doctorate of Juridical Science. In 1930 he left law teaching in response to a call to active political service as leader of the Liberal Party in Nova Scotia. His political career carried him to the high post of Premier of his native Province from 1933 to 1940, when he became the first Minister to head Canada's newly-formed Department of National Defense for Naval Services. In that gravely responsible and critical office his record was one of magnificent achievement. Not only did he direct the up-building of the Navy from six ships and less than two thousand men to over nine hundred ships and a hundred thousand men; he transformed the Navy into a service whose status and spirit are consistent with the nationhood of Canada. And yet the true humility and humanity of the man are reflected in his eloquent words, some in written testimonial, some spoken in Parliament, as he left Ottawa in the closing days of the war in 1945 to become again the Premier of Nova Scotia: 'As a civilian who has been associated with this effort as Minister since the first day of the Ministry's creation, I can look with humble pride on the achievements of these tens of thousands of young Canadians from every walk of life 'who have gone down to the sea in "The Little Ships that Saved the Day."'. . . Bit by bit the strength of the Navy has grown and its responsibilities have increased. Our men have fought on every sea of the world. They have brought honour and glory to this land. They have been actors in a great drama which now . . . (is) drawing steadily, inexorably to its close . . . I venture to say that so long as memory lasts, the recollection of these great days will be with them, and along with the consciousness of duty done, they will carry in their hearts forever the image of a gallant ship and the spell of the great sea.'

"As a law teacher Angus Macdonald exercised his capacity to inspire as well as to instruct. He had not only the facts but the 'phosphorescence of learning.' The admonition of Plutarch that 'The mind is not a vessel to be filled but a fire to be kindled' was an admonition not required for a teacher of his wisdom and ability.

"In his professional and political life he completely fulfilled the two great elements of the Dalhousie Law School's tradition—devotion to legal scholarship and devotion to public service. He was the scholar in the world of affairs. 'God offers to every mind its choice between truth and repose' says Emerson. 'Angus L.' chose not repose but chose instead to seek always for truth, believing with Pascal that 'the whole dignity of man lies in thought.' Speaking in this room on the occasion of the dedication of this building, he declared his legal credo and his hope for the future in the following words: 'I believe . . . that our system of law, shaped and fashioned as it has been by legislatures, by judges, by lawyers—whether lawyers in practice or by those who make their contribution by teaching or by research—I believe this system can find within itself and within the minds of those who have taken service in its ranks the means of preserving all that is best in our ancient ideals while at the same time adapting itself to the needs and stresses of modern society.

" 'It seems to me that we must go beyond the theory of some writers that law and the state are co-extensive, that the state is the law and the whole and only law. Walter Lippman in his book, "The Good Society", says there is a law which is "superior to kings, parliaments, magistrates, majorities and mobs." The conviction that there is a higher law, higher than statutes, ordinances and usages, is to be found among all civilized peoples It imputes to the nature of things universal principles of order to which human caprice can be held accountable. We are not so full of wisdom and so comfortably masters of our fate that we can afford summarily to reject the underlying conception upon which so many sages and saints and heroic leaders have based their hope of a happily ordered existence.'

"We at this school mourn not only the first citizen of this Province and an alumnus who was a great national figure. We have by the invincible hand of death lost a friend who constantly kept our welfare close to his heart and helped to advance the quality of our work in many ways. He expressed a constant awareness of an interest in problems of curriculum development to meet the need of wider professional education, including increased emphasis on legislative and administrative processes and on the ultimate purposes of law. Under his leadership the Province has established the Centre for Legislative Research, and grants financial support for the Nova Scotia Collection of Books on Public Law and the Province of Nova Scotia Chairs in Law; support without which we would have been unable to meet the mounting requirements of legal education.

"It will be for the historians of the future to expound the work that Angus L. Macdonald did in the world. Many well deserved and glowing tributes have been paid him by the citizens of Canada both of high and low estate. They speak, and truly, of his courage, his wit and eloquence and of his absolute integrity. Those of us who had the good fortune to know him well loved him for his simplicity, honesty, whimsical spirit and warm human sympathy. He had the true key of access to all hearts, his sincere love for his fellow-men. In John Buchan's words 'He was a pillar of all that is stable and honourable and of good report in a distracted world.' In Carlyle's phrase about Scott, no sounder piece of manhood was fashioned in our generation, for he had in him both warmth and light. And now, weary unto death in the unstinted outpouring of his strength in the service of his fellows, he has passed to eternal rest."

On motion of Dean Read, seconded by John Patrick Nowlan, President of the Law Students' Society:

"Be it resolved that the students and faculty of Dalhousie Law School assembled together in the Library on the morning of Saturday the seventeenth day of April 1954 do express their sympathy and sorrow to Mrs. Macdonald and all other member of the family on the occasion of the death of the late Honourable Angus Lewis Macdonald;

"And be it further resolved that a copy of these proceedings be transmitted to Mrs. Macdonald."

And it was so unanimously resolved, in token whereof all stood in prayerful and reverent silence in memoriam.

PLAN ALUMNI FEDERATION

Efforts are under way in London to form a Canadian Graduates Association in which alumni groups of Dalhousie, Toronto, McGill, and other Canadian universities would have a place. The individual group would still pursue its own objectives, but the larger group, it is felt, would be beneficial to all. It is considered that the larger group might have sufficient resources to maintain some sort of permanent club premises. The project is still in the exploratory stage but a number of Dalhousians in London have signified their approval.

A highly successful three-day institute on "Nursing Aspects in the Care of the Child", sponsored by the School of Nursing in March, drew an attendance of 137 nurses from the four Atlantic Provinces.

HOME NEWS FROM ABROAD

When Mr. A. E. Kerr, president of Dalhousie University, Halifax, Nova Scotia, visited Brechin Castle in July he paid tribute to Mr. John MacLeod, a Brechin man, who is caretaker of the medical college at Dalhousie.

He writes articles on his memories of the school for the Nova Scotia Medical Journal, said Mr. Kerr, and recently he was asked to take the part of the schoolmaster in "Brigadoon" put on by the opera association. He practically stole the show.

We sought to find out in Halifax more about this remarkable Brechiner.

Mr. MacLeod, who has sung Brechin's praises so persistently that hundreds of "Dalhousie" students visiting this country have included the city in their tour, was something of a rolling stone before he settled down to his university job.

He travelled with Barnum & Bailey's circus, covering practically the whole of North America from coast to coast four times, including Canada and Mexico.

The first world war put an end to his wanderings. He worked in Halifax, Nova Scotia, on essential war work and in 1918 joined the Dalhousie Construction Co.

Many of its board of management were governors of Dalhousie University, and in 1920 he joined the maintenance staff of the university.

Since that time Dalhousie has grown tremendously, and its professional school ranks high in the academic world.

Professor of anatomy in the medical school was Dr. John Cameron, a native of Laurencekirk, now in retirement in Bournemouth.

Mr. MacLeod recalls Mr. Robert McLellan, headmaster of Damacre School, and Rector Murray, of the High School.

Mention of the latter reminds him of an occasion when he and a chum played truant to see a negro band parade the streets to advertise a production in the City Hall of "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

The drummer, peching on the steep streets, asked him to walk in front of him supporting the drum.

"Thus, I paraded with them," he says, "relinquishing my post only while passing my home in case I should be seen. My chum carried on for me. Both were invited to the show on condition they sold programmes."

When they turned up at school next day they found the shocked scholars talking about their exploit. One pupil had even drawn a cartoon depicting the incident, which fell into the hands of the teacher.

So they went to the rector and made a full confession of their truancy. He commended them for their honesty, but sentenced them to six "palmies" with the strap. "But the punishment was unusually mild," he confesses.

Until May this year Mr. MacLeod, now in his 60's had taken no active interest in dramatics. He was invited at a late hour to take part in "Brigadoon."

"With only three weeks to prepare I felt I had undertaken too much," he says, "but with the generous help of the producers and cast I was able to fill the part with some measure of satisfaction. It was a real pleasure to do so."—The People's Journal, Angus and East Coast.

BUSY YEAR FOR OTTAWA BRANCH

The Ottawa Branch of the Alumni Association has had another active year. The program opened with a smoker at the University club which was very well attended. During the evening, Dr. R. A. MacKay presented his interpretation of the Dalhousie Scholarship Fund Plan which the Branch is studying as a means of helping the University.

The second event was a social evening, dance and bridge, held at H.M.C.S. Carleton, the naval reserve division, Dow's Lake. This, too, proved highly successful with about 100 members present.

The final event for the year will be the big annual party of the branch, scheduled for June 3 at Landsdowne Park.

Branch officers for 1953-54 are: Hon. President, Dr. G. D. Finlayson; President, F. E. Goudge; 1st Vice-President, Ray McClelland; 2nd Vice-President, Miss E. Campbell; Secretary, Sydney Gillies; Treasurer, Solomon Samuels; Executive Committee, Dr. John Morton, Mrs. Eugene Forsey, Mrs. A. T. Sunderland, Charles Gavsie, Dan Wallace.

MEDICAL JOURNAL REVIVED

"The Dalhousie Medical Journal" which had a brief period of success between 1936 to 1939, only to be abandoned with the outbreak of war, has been revived under the sponsorship of the Dalhousie Medical Students' Society.

The first issue of the new series lists three principal objectives: (1) to encourage the Dalhousie undergraduates in scientific writing; (2) to encourage the habit of reading medical material other than the specified textbooks; (3) to increase the interest of the practicing physicians in research at Dalhousie by publishing accounts of projects going forward.

Honorary Editor during the year was Irving H. Koven, who has been active in promoting the journal's revival. Others on the staff are: Henry J. Presutti, Editor in Chief; W. C. Elliott, P. B. Jardine, and D. T. Janigan, Associate Editors; Jack L. Fairweather, Managing Editor; A. I. Lesser, Circulation Manager; M. Aronoff, Advertising Manager; W. S. Huestis, D. Saffron, and P. B. Black, Editorial Assistants.

Faculty Advertisers are Professors C. B. Stewart, J. G. Aldous, and R. L. Saunders.

TRIBUTE PAID TO DALHOUSIE DOCTOR

Dr. J. I. O'Connell (M.D., C.M. '05) of Curling, Newfoundland, was honored, on the completion of 27 years of service in February by residents of Curling and the Bay of Islands. Speakers referred to him as "a Christian gentleman of patience and humility" and "an exemplary example of that diminishing class of men revered and honored as the all-round 'country doctor.'"

The affair was held in the U.C. Hall, Curling, and was attended by many residents of the area including the clergy, representatives of the Canadian Legion, and representatives of government departments.

The ceremony was climaxed by the reading of an illuminated address by 81-year-old John Barrett of Curling and the presentation of a purse by Mrs. E. Rose, who was the first child in the Bay of Islands to be brought into the world by Dr. O'Connell.

Speaker after speaker told of the devoted service which the doctor had given to the community in the face of extreme hardships. With the seas of Humber Arm standing between him and over half of his charges, extraordinary difficulties and hazards were constantly met and overcome.

Legionnaire Fred Matthews spoke of the doctor's fine record as a captain in World War I when he was mentioned in despatches by Field Marshall Haig for his gallantry and conspicuous conduct.

In reply, Dr. O'Connell told his friends how deeply touched he was by their gesture and spoke warmly of the co-operation he had received, especially from the clergy all of whom he counted among his closest friends.

N.R.C. FELLOWSHIP AWARDED TO DALHOUSIAN

Word has just been received that C. K. Hoyt, a former graduate of Dalhousie University, has been awarded a National Research Council of Canada University Post-Doctorate Fellowship to be held in the Physics Department, Dalhousie University. This Fellowship has an annual stipend of $3500 and is normally tenable for two years.

Mr. Hoyt was born in North Sydney. After attending high school there, he enlisted with the Royal Canadian Air Force and saw service during the last war. At the end of the war he entered Dalhousie University and after a brilliant undergraduate record Mr. Hoyt was awarded the Governor General's Gold Medal on graduation in 1949. After completing the requirements for a Master's degree in Physics, he entered the Department of Physics of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he expects to receive the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in September, 1954.

This appointment of a Post-Graduate Research Fellow will strengthen the Department of Physics as the appointee will devote most of his time to research in Acoustics, a field in which this Department is specializing.

GRADUATE STUDENTS WIN MANY AWARDS

National Research Studentships of value $1,100 have been awarded to the following students who are presently enrolled in the Faculty of Graduate Studies of Dalhousie:

A. L. Carter, B.Sc., son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Carter of Dartmouth. Mr. Carter received the B.Sc. degree with Honours in Physics from Dalhousie in 1952, and was admitted to a course leading to the M.Sc. degree in Physics, which he expects to receive at the May Convocation. During his course Mr. Carter was the holder of a James Gordon MacGregor Memorial Assistantship in Physics and also a National Research Council Bursary. For the past year Mr. Carter has been engaged in research on radiocarbon dating under the direction of Dr. J. E. Blanchard. Mr. Carter will continue his studies toward the Ph.D. at McGill University.

M. J. Fraser, B.Sc., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Fraser of Halifax. Mr. Fraser received the B.Sc. degree from Dalhousie with Honours in Chemistry in 1952. He was then admitted to the Faculty of Graduate Studies for a course leading to the degree of M.Sc. in Physiology which he expects to complete this spring. During the session 1953-54 Mr. Fraser has been the holder of an N. R. C. Bursary, and has been engaged in research in cellular physiology under the direction of Dr. J. G. Kaplan.

R. E. Green, B.Sc., son of the late Mr. H. Green and Mrs. Green of St. John's, Newfoundland. After a brilliant record at Memorial University, Mr. Green came to Dalhousie and was awarded the degree of B.Sc. in 1952. He then registered in the Faculty of Graduate Studies for a course leading to the master's degree in Physics. While a student in this Faculty he was awarded a National Research Council Bursary and also a James Gordon MacGregor Memorial Fellowship. During the past year Mr. Green has been working on "The Angular Correlation of Annihilation Radiation" under the direction of Dr. A. T. Stewart.
