EDITORIAL

Just a few days and the beginning of another year is upon us. Christmas vacation is very near, too, but the average student sees not the vacation but through a haze of textbooks, examination papers, pens, ink and all the accoutrements of the winter tests. When they are all over, and he has found that the 1922 set differed little from those of previous experiences, the atmosphere will clear and all will be ready for a joyous holiday season. The Gazette wishes you success in the examinations and the Compliments of the Season.

A note of sorrow was sounded at Dalhousie last week when the deaths of two Alumni, Hon. H. H. Wickwire and Mr. James H. Trefry, were announced. The truth "a university is known by its Alumni" brings to Dalhousie through these two graduates, no small amount of prestige. Both were well known in this community and their records in their respective fields of endeavor, though widely separated, were such that the present generation may well look to them for guidance in the world of men and affairs. The late Minister of Highways was an outstanding figure in the public life of his native province, and was for some years the member of the Provincial Assembly who had been in his seat for the longest period. Of the late James H. Trefry, one of that profession which gives all but receives little or no material recognition, much might here be said. He was a faithful worker for Dalhousie, particularly along Alumni lines, though he never sought the limelight. And thus two Dalhousians have gone.

Two schedules of statistics are submitted this week. One, an analysis of the students attending colleges on the Maritime Provinces in Arts and Science this term, gives a clear idea of the proportion of the field now covered by Dalhousie as compared with her contemporaries. The other, which reveals the remarkable growth of this university during the past five years, is laden with information to the practical mind. These tables are particularly interesting just at present. The representative committee on University Federation meets in the city early next week, and all college men look forward eagerly to the result of the conference.

It is with pleasure that we announce that Miss Roberta Forbes (Dent. '24) has succeeded in the literary competition and is now entitled to the coveted "D" awarded to those who reach the required standard. Miss Forbes has been for two years a valued member of the Gazette staff; one whose efforts were invariably of value and found space in these columns.

In order that the staff may have a brief respite in which to prepare for the Christmas examinations, this will be the last issue before vacation.

LECTURED ON IMMIGRATION.

The regular Tuesday evening gathering of the S. C. A. of Dalhousie last week was addressed by Professor Wilson, who spoke on the subject of "Immigration". The topic was one in which his hearers were keenly interested and Professor Wilson dealt with it in a skilful manner. After the meeting a short period of discussion ensued. Horacé E. Read presided.

MEDS WON DEBATING CUP

The defeat of the Arts debating team last Wednesday evening gave to the Medical faculty of the university the honours in debating for the year, and in consequence the Sodales Debating Cup donated this term by kind friends of the college rests in their possession till next year.

The subject of the debate was "Resolved that the right of appeal from Canadian courts to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council should be abolished." This is the question which will be the subject of the intercollegiate debate between Acadia and Dalhousie this spring as a consequence much interest centred about the last of the interfaculty series. For Arts, upholding the resolution were Fred Bissett, '23 and Don McInnes, '23, while Sid. Gilchrist and P. A. Creelman, argued for the negative.

That much thought and consideration had been given by the debaters to the subject was evident and the presentation of the four speeches left little to be desired. The rebuttals were especially good and abounded in sound logical reasoning clothed in simple convincing language. Judging by the standard of the debates held this year there is every indication that the intercollegiate team will measure up to those that have represented Dalhousie in the past.

The judges of the debate were Professors R. McG. Dawson, G. E. Wilson and Rev. S. Bonnell. These gentlemen are the members of the Dalhousie Intercollegiate Debating Committee and after the debate expressed themselves well pleased with the prospect for a successful year in this department of the college activities. Their decision was two to one in favour, as intimated above, of Medicine.

The audience was exceptionally large and listened with the keenest interest and best of decorum to the speakers. At the conclusion of the debate Prof. Wilson, as Honorary President of the Sodales Society, presented the cup to the winning team at which time he took the opportunity of congratulating the debaters and predicting a greater enthusiasm in this art.

R. Dwight Mitton, B. A. (Mt. A. '19) LL. B. (Dal. '21) was admitted as attorney by the Supreme Court of New Brunswick on Tuesday, November 14.

Local Plant Visited

Engineers Conducted Through Oil Works and Automatic Telephone Exchange

On Saturday, November 18th, the Engineers made a tour of inspection to the Imperial Oil Company's plant at Imperoyal, and on the following Saturday visited the "Lorne" Automatic Telephone Exchange at the corner of North and Agricola Streets.

On arrival at the former place, a policeman demanded all the matches in the party. Some of the boys were loath to part with these very necessary articles, but under the stern eyes of the law finally came across.

After a little delay Mr. B. G. Wood, Asst. Chemist, took charge of the group and conducted them about the plant. Beginning at the lab. in the basement of the General Offices the route led all over the works. Mr. Wood explained things very clearly, beginning at the first of each process and working through to the end. The boys, headed by Prof. Copp, asked numerous questions, all of which were satisfactorily answered.

About 12.30 Bell's Bus stood ready to carry the crowd to Dartmouth, and after claiming their matches, and trying to convince the cop that they had given him, at least, twice the amount they received from him, were presently whisked away to the berth of the good ship "Halifax."

On the 25th, the "Lorne" Exchange had its turn of inspection by the prying eyes of the prospective Engineers. Under the protective care of "Doug" the boys arrived at the Exchange at 10.30 A. M.

Mr. C. L. Frost, the wire chief, divided the party into two groups, placing one group in the care of Mr. T. D. Perry, the switchman on duty, and taking the other himself. Under the guidance of these gentlemen the two parties were shown all the mysteries of an Automatic Telephone Exchange. In the basement, where the lead-covered cables enter the building, the course of the phone wires was taken up and followed through the various instruments, to the last wonderful machine which placed the subscriber in connection with his party. The uncanny accuracy with which the "Selectors" worked, and the ingenious ways in which trouble was indicated and corrected, were revelations to the students. The Automatic Telephone Exchange is a wonderful development of the electrical field.

The Society wishes to thank the officials of the Oil Plant and the Telephone Company for their kindness in making possible a visit to their respective plants, and for the courtesy shown the members while there.

IN MEMORIAM

Hon. H. H. Wickwire, B.A., LL.B.

It is with the deepest sympathy for the members of the bereaved family that the Gazette records the death at his home in Kentville of the Honourable Harry H. Wickwire.

Mr. Wickwire who at the time of his death was fifty four years of age was one of Dalhousie's galaxy of brilliant graduates of the old days. Coming to Dalhousie as a graduate in Arts from Acadia he chose as his profession the Study of Law and after a brilliant record at Dalhousie Law School he received his LL. B. degree in 1896 and immediately became a member of the Bar of Nova Scotia.

That his abilities were early perceived is shown by the fact that two years before he graduated he was elected to represent King's County in the Provincial Assembly. He was then 25 years of age and was the youngest M. P. P. this Province has ever had. Since that time, with the exception of one year, he ably represented his constituency in the Provincial Parliament. In 1918 Mr. Wickwire was appointed a Minister of the Crown and took over the newly formed Department of Highways which he had under his direction until the time of his death.

Mr. Wickwire's passing which was very sudden was caused through heart disease. During the week proceeding he was a visitor in the city on departmental business and returning home Saturday he appeared to be enjoying good health. However, Sunday morning his life was ended as he sat reading.

He leaves to mourn their loss a wife and five children. Of these Alice was a graduate in Arts in 1919; Eleanor and Harry are also ex-students.

J. H. Trefry, B.A. 1895, M.A. 1898

A large circle of Dalhousians will mourn the death of the late James Hartley Trefry. A capable teacher, a true friend and a Christian gentleman, his life and work have been an inspiration to many and all who knew him will feel a deep sense of loss.

I have known Mr. Trefry since 1897 when he was appointed principal of Morris St. School. He was a strict but just disciplinarian. He always had the respect and admiration of all his students and the warm affection of those of us who knew him well. As a teacher he was accurate and thorough in his methods. I remember that he instituted the practice of debating at Morris St. School and the history of Canada began to be a living issue for us boys as we sought to justify or condemn the expulsion of the Acadians. I have never known a teacher of history who brought the past and present together so vividly.

Mr. Trefry was a keen sportsman. Curling and moose hunting were his chief hobbies, but he began to play golf a few years ago. His work with the Cadets was a labour of love. He felt that he could thus play a real part in the great struggle and it was no small part, for the work of the ex-cadets from Halifax Academy was truly magnificent.

One of Mr. Trefry's principal interests was the Dalhousie Alumni Association. He held every office in the Association and for many years he served on the executive. I think that all who have been identified with the Association in recent years will agree with me when I say that he was the most devoted and conscientious worker in that group that kept the Association alive during the seven lean years. The present position of Dalhousie is in no small degree due to the patient and loyal work of men like James H. Trefry.

Mr. Trefry's greatest contribution is the influence of an upright and generous character upon the lives of many hundreds of pupils and upon a wide circle of freinds. JOHN E. READ.

Who was the party who helped himself to Dr. Cameron's woodpile? That is the question agitating the minds of all grate-owners at the present moment. Dr. Cameron, who had a choice collection of faggots segregated at the bottom of the fire escape, claims that the said pile disappeared very mysteriously. Being a great admirer of Sherlock Holmes, instead of reporting his loss to the police, he decided to do some sleuthing on his own account. By a simple process of elimination, he was soon on the trail. Only chaps who possessed grates, he reasoned, would desire the kindling. And it hardly seemed probable that some one from a far part of the Hall would be the culprit. Therefore, it was very likely . . . but "Simmy" says he should worry.

All of which goes to show, if there's a nigger in the woodpile, he'll be discovered as soon as the wood is removed.

Since Mr. Stirling's arrival, the boys have taken a great interest in the Gym, a building which has been hitherto only an inartistic ornament. But now it is becoming the popular resort. Baseball, basketball, and boxing classes are drawing the crowds that formerly collected in the basement of the Forrest Building. Already much valuable material has been discovered. Among the boxers of note, is one Clarence Morrison. He certainly pushes a nasty glove, or at least that's what Zinck says, and he ought to know.

The few who do not attend the Gym, are forced to fall back on the theatres for their amusement. "Dumbbells" proved very popular indeed; probably there was no one who missed it. Saturday night's performance was under the patronage of an all-Truro party, with emphasis on the "party". Nothing less than a box would hold them. A theatre box, you know.

Billiards is still going as strong as ever, the scratch tournament being a fine success. The favorites were Bayer, Graham and Hull, the winner of the handicap tournament. There is no doubt but that Eddie Bayer takes the cat's vest, when it comes to a billiard tournament. He was so far up in the air that he couldn't even keep his feet on the clouds. Hull and Graham played off in the finals, Jim winning by a very narrow margin. The game was tight all the way, and a great one to watch. Ever since there has been a billiard table in the Hall, Jim Graham has been acknowledged one of the best players. The victory was a very popular one.

Just now, the Duffers' tournament is nearing a close. The lucky ones to reach the semi-finals were Logan, Darby, DeWolfe and C. Morrison. There is no question about the match being well

DENTAL "RUBBER DAM"

The well known Rubber Dam which everyone become acquainted with upon their first visit to the Dental Infirmary, is by no means of Dutch origin or in any way related to such dams as Rotterdam, Potsdam, or Amsterdam. In fact the word originated not a bit later than 3000 B. C., long before the sound of the big bass drum had been heard on this side of the Atlantic.

To no less a personage than our esteemed friend Percy Howe (who is still responsible for the blackest spots in Dentistry) goes the honor of having coined this word. It would appear that Percy was at the time operating upon no less a personage than Noah Goodyear, an ancestor of the present famous Good-year of Rubber fame. Rumor has it that Goodyear was not tired (as he always is these days), but merely flat (as he often is in these days), therefore he was not full (as he could not be in these days). Dr. Howe had for the third time tried to adjust a molar clamp to a tooth and for the third time had lost it is three fathoms of saliva, when old Goodyear, stretching a point, yelled "Rubber" and Percy whooped "Dam." But it saved the day, Percy grabbed the inspiration, as well as a piece of rubber, punched it, slipped it over the tooth and forever dammed backed the floods—hence the name.—The Mouth Mirror.

Pine Hill Post

The "gang" was much pleased to receive a long letter from John Dunlop this week. He was in a reminiscent mood and seems to think that Exeter is not nearly so good as old Pine Hill. He exhorts all his old friends to write to him and like the Matrimonial Bureau promises faithfully to answer all letters. Another visitor this week is Syd Bonnell. Up to the time of writing rays of light have reached us from his knees. If he stays with us for a couple of weeks we will be able to see if he is getting bald.

"Coming events cast their shadows before". Some of the shadows we see plainly. The shadows of exams. assume many different forms. The first perhaps is uneasiness. The most unobserving person would know that something out of the usual was about to take place. George Smith is now staying in one night a week and Murray Emeneau, fearful of being plucked in elementary Latin, never leaves his room.

The next is gloom. The rollicking spirit of the first month is gone. No new jokes are heard and even Frank Archibald, the irrepressible, has an anxious expression.

Then there is work. The electric light bill in Pine Hill almost doubles in the month of December. Bill McOdrum has a brand new pair of glasses, the optician guaranteeing him a high first in every subject.

Then the shadows of the days beyond the Exams.; Christmas, that best of all seasons. Some of the boys are going to Toronto and some to other places for the holidays, but most are going home.

The boys at Pine Hill all join in wishing their friends a very, very Merry Xmas. and a Happy Yuletide.

MUNRO LECTURE

Masterly Exposition of Aims and Objects of League of Nations.

Professor H. F. Munro, holder of the Eric Dennis Memorial Chair of Government and Political Science in Dalhousie University, delivered on the evening of Nov. 27, at the School for the Blind, an address on "The League of Nations". Dr. A. S. MacKenzie, President of the University, acted as chairman of the meeting, to which he referred as being under the joint auspices of the Canadian Club of Halifax and Dalhousie University.

Professor Munro having referred to the world-wide desire for peace, sketched briefly a description of the national system of governments, of the "family of nations", whose complicated interrelations form the great problem of "international relations". Speaking of the "balance of power"—under which system Louis XIV, Napoleon and Germany threw Europe into turmoil—Professor Munro stated that it offered only two alternatives,—the successful rise of an all-dominant military state, e.g., Rome, or a united war of all other states to haul down the oppressor, e.g., the late war.

Proceeding to speak of the many attempts to find an alternative to the "balance of power",—King Henry's "Great Design", the schemes of Kant and Ste. Pierre, and finally Czar Alexander's "Holy Alliance", the lecturer noted the reasons for their several failures. The last and most serious attempt at inter-national co-operation, the "Holy Alliance", failed because it overlooked the tremendous influences just then arising in Nationalism and Democracy.

The International organization of Red Cross Societies in 1864, marked the first stage in the evolution of the international mind, for whose development we are striving today. But the peoples of the world demand that today another step be taken. Cannot a League of Nations lead a campaign to prevent war, such as the Red Cross leads to banish disease? Many of the world's greatest statesmen and publicists believe this to be both practicable and desirable.

What has been done? A League of Nations was set up by the Treaty of Versailles, to have Geneva as its headquarters. The aims of the League are very definite, very simple,—"to promote international co-operation and to achieve international peace and security".

The League machinery consists of a Council, an Assembly and many Commissions—on, e.g., disarmament, mandates, protection of minorities and scores of other problems. Perhaps of paramount importance is the International Court of Justice—something that the world has long and sorely needed. This promises to be one of the most helpful instruments for peace yet fashioned for mankind.

In conclusion, having dealt with the several more important objections advanced against the establishment of the League, Professor Munro advised "If you know of a better 'ole, go to it!" We are living in an epoch unprecedented. What will happen next no man can foretell. "The tents are struck and the great caravan of humanity is on the march,"—are we marching toward uplands of international peace and amity, represented in my judgment by the League of Nations?"

CORRESPONDENCE

(The Gazette accepts no responsibility for views expressed in this column.)

Correspondents are requested not to exceed three hundred words.)

To The Editor:

A few days ago I happened to pick up a copy of the Gazette, of some date last winter, and my attention was attracted by an article on rinks. The issue to which I allude had, presumably, been published shortly after the fracas with the Arena management, for it referred to the fact that there were in existence, in the city, at that time, other rinks than the Arena. The hope was voiced that by next winter we would have a rink of our own.

We hardly expect to see a thousand-capacity rink erected on the campus when we return from our Christmas vacation, but is there any reason, why there could not be an open air rink at Studley this winter? If we are to have a rink this year, now is the time to consider the problem, now, the time to make our plans. The various athletic clubs of the city are already having hockey workouts. Surely, if thoughts of hockey are afoot it is not too soon to think about a rink—and ice.

A considerable sum of money was expended this year on the athletic field at Studley where two of the best football games of the season were witnessed. Is this field going to be idle all winter? It seems to me—of course, I may be wrong—but it does seem that this would be an ideal place for a rink. The ground is flat and level, and the situation is excellent. At very little expense it should be possible to have a good sheet of ice here.

There may be numerous objections to this plan, but of one thing I feel quite sure; that is, that the field would suffer no injury from it. Last winter the Wanderers had a rink on their field. The field is in as good condition this year as ever, and it is very probable that they will flood it again this season.

Isn't there somebody who will "start something?" Isn't there somebody with some ideas, or some suggestions to make? Let us begin to plan and work NOW, so that the rink—our rink—can be in operation after the vacation.

LECTURE BY PROFESSOR READ.

The Aurora Club, at its regular weekly luncheon, held on Tuesday of last week, was addressed by Professor John E. Read on the League of Nations. As the only alternative suggested to instigate the periodic wars which have devastated the world, Professor Read approached the subject from the standpoint of a father rather than as a business man or historian. The establishment of the League, based on Christian ideals, was, he said, the only means by which the children of the present generation could be protected from the terrible experiences which accompany modern wars.

"THE FOLLIES OF 1922"

Mr. Ziegfeld has nothing on Howard Hamilton when it comes to bringing out, talent, for at Glee Club on Monday night in the Gymnasium, all that was worthy of mention at Pine Hill was exhibited. Mr. Hamilton has had some experience with concert troupes while overseas and was quite competent to handle the "Follies". The opening chorus by the company "Sing, sing, why shouldn't we sing" displayed every diversity of not only voice but costume and was loudly applauded by an appreciative audience, while Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean, highly parodied by a budding young poet from the worthy institution, revealed the vocal ability of two athletes of no mean renown. The pantomime exhibited some of the difficulties encountered by those seeking to win the admiration of the fair sex, evidently those of the oaste have had some experience along those lines for they showed what wonders a stick of Spearmint can perform, as well as many other original means of achieving the end. Howard Hamilton's musical monologue needs no further comment. Those having heard it can vouch of his ability.

The entire company next treated the audience to the song entitled "Sailing on the Henry Ford". The quartet composed of Simpson, McClellan, Britton and Hamilton rendered some of the songs of years ago, as well as a few modern ones.

Quite the event of the evening worthy of mention was supplied by Harry Langwith, when as the "Dancing Vamp" he lassoed the hearts of the Co-eds by tripping the light fantastic with such graceful movements that even the most conceited was brought to earth with a mighty fall to find that she no longer shone brightly before the Terpsichorean Deity.

Many famous personages were placed in the lime light by their excursion across the Red Sea (C), a feat having never taken place since ancient times yet gracefully performed by those quite inexperienced in the art.

The finale by the entire company brought the program to a close, after which, a few college songs were practised. Then the chairs were cleared away and dancing was indulged in until 10 p. m.

For many reasons, this has been the most successful Glee Club meeting for a long time; the "Gym" proved an ideal place for such a meeting, the college spirit seemed to be present; every one did his best to make the program a success; and lastly the new Regime that the Glee Club has introduced seems to meet the needs of a purely Dalhousie social evening. The boys of Pine Hill are to be congratulated on the loyal support given to their undertaking and when the other groups are given an opportunity to display the ability possessed by them we hope the members will rally to support their own cause as did Pine Hill. "R".

NOTE—Owing to lack of space it was found necessary to hold over this account of Glee Club proceedings which would have appeared last week.—Ed.

ADDRESSED GYROS.

Professor H. L. Stewart was heard at the Gyo Club luncheon on Wednesday last, when he delivered an address on the League of Nations. Dr. Stewart handled this difficult topic in his usual able manner. His characterization of the League as "a small but valuable world parliament" being particularly apt.

Bates Elected Dal Hockey Captain

LEON FLUCK
 Will be with the Tiger hockey team again this year.

Popular Med Will Lead Tigers. Training Plans Made

"Fabie" Bates was unanimously elected Captain of Dalhousie hockey team at the meeting of the hockey executive, held on Thursday, Nov. 29.

"Fabie" is well known throughout the province as a stellar allround athlete. Returning to St. Francis Xavier after the war, he made both the football and hockey varsity teams that year. In 1920 he was Captain of the Blue and White's football team, and in 1921 of their hockey team. He graduated from St. F. X. in '21, and came to Dal to study medicine. Last year he made an excellent record as halfback on the Tiger Varsity Rugby Team, and, playing at center, helped the hockey team win the City League Championship. He is Secretary of the Dalhousie Medical Society.

Plans for the coming hockey season were also considered at the meeting. Mr. Stirling, Dal Athletic Director, has taken the candidates for the team in hand and will devote an hour each evening to putting them into the pink of condition. He will also accompany the team on the Christmas training trip.

Whether this year's training center will be New Glasgow, Truro, or Amherst was not decided, but Manager Charlie Beazley is in communication with various officials in each of these towns, and will be able to make a definite announcement in a few days.

DAL. GIRLS' BASKETBALL.

The prospect for Dal. Girls' basketball this year looks promising, as there are a number of last year's team still here, and several of the Freshettes play exceedingly well.

The inter-Collegiate League this year, includes Mount Allison, Acadia and Dal. King's has unfortunately dropped out.

The cup won by the Dal. Girls, last year, will be played for by Acadia and Dal. alone. A schedule has been proposed but not definitely decided on. The dates are to be announced later.

WHY USE THE GYMNASIUM?

Systematic physical training is the surest tonic for body and mind, and while this may be an accepted theory, some are reluctant to put it into practice. Your books and classes may be so fascinating that in your desire for intellectual development, the physique is neglected. The result may be a breakdown in health.

Dr. Gym. can assist you to obtain a healthy condition. Properly conducted gymnasium classes will do it for you. Mass exercises will appeal to you because they offer the best facilities for a symmetrical development. They provide such a variety of movements that all the muscles get an equal development without any tendency to an ungainly figure. The exercises can be adapted to meet the requirements of every one, from the weak individual to the trained athlete. They do not involve the use of any special apparatus. The execution of mass exercises does not involve the risk of sprains or accidents that one is exposed to in many of the more strenuous games.

The gym. class schedule appearing in this issue, provides two classes each week for any student wishing to take physical training under competent leadership.

Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing.

On account of the numerous groups wishing tuition in boxing, wrestling and fencing the instruction period will be thirty minutes.

Basketball.

The first and second teams, as well as several class teams, have commenced practice in preparation for the inter-faculty and city leagues.

The Ladies have commenced their class series.

Hockey.

The hockey players have started training in proper style and are using the gymnasium for their daily grind, with a little road work for good measure.

Badminton and Volleyball.

On Tuesday and Friday evenings the gym. is a busy place, when a large number of the professors and students turn out to play Badminton and volleyball.

Gymnastics and Athletics.

Athletes can improve their form during the winter by indoor practice and thus save valuable time and energy in preparation for the outdoor season. A class in advanced gymnastics will be organized if desired.

TRICOLOR WINS CANADIAN FOOTBALL TITLE

Queen's University Rugby Team are Canadian champions. In a great struggle at Kingston, Saturday, they defeated the Edmonton Eskimos 13 to 1. The Prairie boys had the better of the first half which ended one to nothing in their favor. After that Queen's seemed to find themselves, and there was no holding them from then on.

The Freshettes defeated The Sophettes in a closely contested game, the first of the Interclass Basketball, by a score of 13 to 11.

Senior Arts girls defeated the basketball team from the Forrest Building, score 15 to 13, after overtime play.

The sofa sagged in the centre,
The shades were pulled just so,
The family had retired,
The parlor light burned low.
There came a sound from the sofa
As the clock was striking two,
And the freshette slammed her textbook

With a thankful—“Well, I'm through.”

“How did you manage to get home so early last night?”

“Oh, I had tough luck. I leaned against her doorbell.”

support them.

Prof.—“What would you say, Miss M., if the Turks came over and wanted to make Pictou County inhabitants Mohammedans?”

Miss M.—“Sir, I think that the Turks might have a bad influence on the country.”

QUID?

O, little bit of ribbon
Entwined with 'lastic round;
What cause have youths to question
In what duty thou art found?

Thou art not a flapper's trade mark,
Despite the world's cold frown;
Thou art merely a necessity
To keep socks from rolling down.

Football Dinner

The annual football banquet was held in the St. Julien Room at the Halifax Hotel, Saturday evening. Members of both the first and second teams were present as well as a number of guests. President Murray Brittain of the D. A. A. C., whose particular delight it is to preside at affairs of this nature, occupied the chair, and it may be said that he did not even miss an offside remark. His sparkling wit and Scotch stories were the features of the evening. Manager C. R. Baxter, Ass. Mgr., G. R. Forbes, Captain F. L. “Dinty” Moore, Leonard Fraser, D. “Red” Sutherland, “Ted” Coster and Chas. Beazley were among those who made short speeches. Much was heard of the splendid spirit shown by the team during the season and a multitude of expressions in appreciation of the efforts of the captain and manager. The host, as usual, provided an excellent feast and at an early hour the happy students departed for the Strand Theatre where an impromptu theatre party was staged. The 1922 football dinner closed the season in a fitting manner.

NOTICE !

The last of the series of lectures in preparation for the Toronto Convention of the S. C. A. will be held in the Munro Room, Thursday, from 12 noon to 1 p. m. Prof. Munro will speak on “Internationalism”.

EXTENSION LECTURES.

Announcement has been made of a course in extension lectures by Dalhousie to be carried on during the winter. Practically all the professors in the university are included on the list and the topics chosen cover a very wide field. Professor B. C. Hunt is the secretary of the Committee on Extension.

MEDICAL STUDENTS

PLEASE NOTE.

She—“Did you do well in your anatomy quiz?”

He—“Not so much. I said there were 17 vertebra in the spinal column, but I find these new ballroom styles have uncovered a couple more.”
