Lesbian Leads NDP in NB Election

By Bill McKinnon
Allison Brewer is the first openly gay leader of a political party in North America. The second? André Boisclair, leader of the Parti Québécois. And the third? Maybe you, for Allison is a remarkable power of example for us all.

Recently the CBC reported that this "rookie politician is leading a party without a seat, running an election campaign for the first time in her life and trying to advance her party's political agenda across the province while proving herself to voters in her own riding..."

Nevertheless, Allison has an incredible background of courage, tenacity and accomplishment in communications and community development.

Here are some of the facts about Allison. She is a social activist who became a politician. She now leads New Brunswick's New Democrats in the upcoming September 18 provincial election and is running for a seat in the Legislature in the new riding Fredericton-Lincoln.

Prior to entering politics, Allison was a leading activist for access to abortion and gay rights.

She was the founder and long time director of the Morgentaler abortion clinic in Fredericton.

According to cbc.ca, "In 1998, she took on and won a battle with Fredericton Mayor Brad Woodside over the City's refusal to proclaim Gay Pride Weekend."

Allison played a key role in Nunavut activism, organizing gay events in Iqaluit and lobbying for passage of the Nunavut Human Rights Act. Allison told Wayves that the Nunavut Human Rights Act, especially its references to sexual orientation, is the accomplishment of which she is most proud.

Allison has long been a prominent member of Egale Canada and was one of its two representatives at the United Nations Conference on Women held in Beijing in 1995. At that conference she was briefly detained by Chinese officials for displaying a banner which read "Lesbian rights are human rights."

In 2004 Allison received a Governor General's Award in Commemoration of the Persons Case. The citation for the award reads as follows. "Allison Brewer has worked tirelessly for equal rights for all people, particularly those in the lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgendered communities. From New Brunswick to Nunavut, Ms. Brewer's work in journalism, the labour movement and volunteerism has often focused on human rights and social justice issues. The mother of three children, including a son with Down's Syndrome, she has long advocated for people with disabilities. Founder and former manager of the Morgentaler Clinic

Scammer Strikes Again

By Jim Bain

The phony phone call scam has struck again!

Recently, Wayves reported on a phone scam, wherein people in the community would receive a call from someone claiming to be an acquaintance in distress in Toronto. The caller would claim to have been beaten and robbed, and need money to get home.

It would all be a lie, of course—the supposed victims would usually be happily at home having supper.

The episode in early June involved someone impersonating Wayves' advertising director (this reporter) and calling advertisers in this magazine.

On Wednesday, September 6, this reporter apparently made six emergency phone calls from Toronto. I was beat up, with no money and needed to get home. I didn't sound like myself as I had a broken nose.

Actually, I was safe at home. Five of the people phoned were business clients, one was a personal friend. In all cases, this time, the marks were suspicious enough not to send money. The voice on the phone was reported to become very angry and abusive after being refused. A few advertisers of this paper were even told that their contracts would be cancelled.

If you are called, hang up and dial *57. This will mark the call so that police may trace it later. Make a note of the exact time, as this will enable police to find the call faster. After dialing *57, call the RCMP and make a complaint. Get an officer's name so that you'll know who is handling the case.

In telling people of these events, I found that this scam has been going on for about 10 years in one form or another. I have also read reports from Calgary that tell the same story.

Police have seemed unwilling to do much. Most who have been contacted by the scammers report that sometimes the police have been reluctant to even take a statement. Keep the name of your officer and report it to submissions@wayves.ca so that we can keep pressure up to solve this crime. Maybe if enough complaints are lodged the police might finally act on this case.

Please tell everyone you know about this! The scammers have used many names from our community and we should be on guard about ANY call from Ontario.

KINK Comes East

By Randall Perry

We knew it would happen sooner or later. After making its debut exploring the fringe of the Vancouver fetish community and then spending the next few years puttering around Canada's major middle-country cities, Showcase's first program of lash and leash grows a pair of legs and steps gingerly into Blue-nose country. After viewing a few early episodes of the fifth season, I'm hoping that the program will grow a pair of balls to help those legs pull themselves out of the vanilla mire in which the initial storylines seem to have stuck.

First out of the gate is Sherry, a straight girl looking to spice up her admittedly ho-hum life by exploring domination play with Dan, her willing boyfriend. Sherry's got a bit of the Goth thing going on, with a few pieces of metal in her face, the black clothes and fuck-off platform boots, and copious streaks of blood red colour in her long black hair. She then opens her mouth and her rural brogue comes marching out: this girl is from the sticks and sounds every bit the part. She's instantly likeable and you want her to succeed under Lady J's tutelage, inasmuch as you just know NCIS's über-Goth Abby would kick her ass without dropping her DNA results.

As a bit of an aside, there's a part of me that wishes Lady J would look

Come Out at the Grawood

On October 6, at 9:00 pm, DalOUT, the LGBTQ society at Dalhousie University, is taking over the Grawood for an advance celebration of National Coming Out Day.

Reflections DJ Tim will host this fun-filled evening of dancing and drag performers. There will also be some great door prizes supplied by sponsor Venus Envy, a 50/50 draw, and the members of the DalOUT executive will be auctioning themselves off to be dressed in drag by the buyers.

This night will serve as one of DalOUT's major fundraising initiatives for the year. The society receives no direct funding and relies entirely on donations and fundraising. In spite of this, DalOUT is committed to giving back to the community. $1 of the $3 cover charge will be donated to the Nova Scotia AIDS Coalition.

The Grawood is located on the first floor of the Dalhousie Student Union Building at 6136 University Avenue. For more information visit <http://societies.dsu.ca/DalOUT> or e-mail dalout@dal.ca.

more the part of the experienced dominatrix when in instructional mode, instead of like my mother's friends, but I also know that the teacher sometimes has to dress down when meeting the student at a restaurant or dropping by to make sure the homework is being done. Can you imagine this dom hosting a Tupperware party? She would work the room, roundly smack the taste out of everyone's mouth and not break a sweat.

But I digress.

Sherry aspires to dom greatness and by the end of the season I hope to see spiky boots, tit-pushing corsets, and an A+ on her kinky report card. Oh, yes, and less smirking on Dan's face and a much redder ass.

Next up are Derrick and Dave, a gay couple looking to push their sexual envelope by dipping their toes – and other parts of their anatomy – into the river of BDSM. The two appear to be an exercise in opposites attract, what with Derrick's Peter Paige-esque free spirit and quick wit contrasting with Dave's outwardly academic stoicism. They intend to explore new experiences on their own, without the benefit of involvement with a larger fetish community, with only books and the Internet for inspiration. I know it can be done this way, having spent many years in P.E.I. with little or no access to any sort of local fetish community, but I would be more likely to choose books by authors like John Preston and M. Christian over their choice of Pat Califia.

There seems to be a marked contrast, as well, between what

Letters from Saskatoon

By Eldon Hay

I received this email in January 2006:

Hi there! I was wondering if I could get some advice from you? I live in Saskatoon, but I am from the Moncton area and my family resides there. I need help with my mother. She says that she loves me and that will never change, but she does not approve of me being a lesbian. She has met my partner, (who I am marrying in July) and she says she loves her too. My mother is very religious and will not attend the wedding. This hurts me a lot. She keeps telling me that I am going to burn in hell. I want to do something to help her understand who I am is not wrong, and that I need her. Is there anything you could do or say to her? I have mentioned PFLAG to her before, but she just disregarded it. One other thing to let you know is that my mother is Baptist. Thank you for your time... Maxine.

I responded, thanking her; affirming her as a lesbian, congratulating her on her marriage, gratified that her mother loved her. I suggested she might go herself to the PFLAG chapter in Saskatoon, and there is an affirming gay positive United Church congregation there too. If she wanted further information, get back to me. I sent it; then I sent another one:

Maxine: I'm quite willing to talk with your mother. I'm not optimistic I can change her mind, but I'm willing to give it a whirl... Eldon

Eldon, my mother has given me approval for you to talk to her. If you cannot reach her, leave a message and she will call back. She is very busy. She has her mind set on the religion part, but said she would talk to you. Thank you for doing this for me. It means a lot to me to have you and my mother talk. Please let me know how things go... Maxine

Dear Maxine, I have talked to your mother; she will see me tomorrow afternoon. I had a good visit with her on the phone - she was talking with her pastor on another phone while she talked with me. She is coming to see me with him... Eldon

Eldon, Good luck with the meeting. I hope and pray there will not be a shield up and that my mother will listen. I have never met this pastor she is bringing to meet you. I hope there won't be a debate or such going on. I pray that God will give you the words to help her understand...Maxine

The same evening before the meeting was to take place, I emailed Maxine:

Dear Maxine, I went out for a few moments to pick up Anne, my wife. When I came home there was a message on the answering machine. It was: "This is for Eldon Hay, It's Susan Brown. I won't be able to make that meeting tomorrow - and there won't be any meeting in the future." Maxine, how I wish I could be with you. Over the email, I give you a hug ... Eldon

Next day, I mailed, asking how things were going. Maxine responded:

Hi Eldon! I'm okay! I've just been doing a lot of thinking and researching the New Testament. I don't know how much of that is helping me. I'm sorry for the way my mother reacted. Her pastor talked to someone who told them to stay away from you, because you help gays and lesbians. Then I told mom that was the reason I wanted her to talk to you. I said that I needed her to understand where I am coming from and she said she did. She understood that I am a lesbian and that she loves me, but she won't accept any same-sex marriage. Thank you for trying. I've been having a lot of sleeping problems since this all started with my mother. My brain just keeps on running, so I can't fall asleep. I am hoping I won't have to start taking sleeping pills to help me sleep...Maxine

Several days later, this from Maxine:

Eldon, Hi there. Things have not been too bad. I've come to the realization that my mother will not change. I guess I'm fine with that. Things have been pretty good on the home front here.... Thanks for trying to help me... Maxine

The Capital Closet

Dear Wayves:

It was once rumoured that Fredericton housed the greatest population of gays, bisexuals, lesbians and transsexuals, per capita in New Brunswick. Although the numbers may be slightly exaggerated, the fact remains that there are a lot of people in New Brunswick's capital who are part of the LGBT world.

You may have been to Fredericton and scratched your head wondering why it's not an all-out meat market absolutely swollen with pride. Well, while our universities are shaping the minds of our youth towards liberalism, just blocks away the present Conservative government is, well, being conservative. Enough said.

The gay community seems to be forced into a closet of compromise. Other than in the dark of night outside a bar, its rare to see same-sex couples hand-in-hand. The reason for this is, or so it is thought, that it makes the rest of the population uncomfortable. Rather than being stared at, the majority of the gay community seems to go without. These small acts of attempting to conform to Fredericton's social norms are doing more harm than good. The fear that most people will not hire someone who is homosexual (despite human rights laws) and loud in their community in their advocacy for gay rights, has this small but politically powerful city frozen in time.

The GBLTQ community is not looking to make a statement or to isolate itself from everyone else; it is however patiently asking not to be tolerated, but to belong. Fredericton needs awareness, education, and participation by everyone before the gay community can say with pride that they live and truly belong in this city.

Courage Roundup 2006

The 18th Annual Courage AA Roundup, held on August 11-13 at the Universalist Unitarian Church on Inglis St. in Halifax, was another success. Courage is sponsored by gay men and lesbians in AA. It invites anyone who has a drinking problem or is affected by the alcoholism of others. This year's registrants included visitors from California, Florida, Ontario and New Brunswick as well as from HRM and other parts of Nova Scotia.

The weekend included fellowship, speaker meetings and workshop discussions of recovery topics in a relaxed and peaceful setting in south-end Halifax. "Beacon of Hope" was this year's theme. Courage is a small, intimate roundup and always has been. Typically 30 or so people attend; it is small but vital. It is the only gay and lesbian AA round up in Atlantic Canada and the only one of its kind east of Montreal.

There will be another one next year on the first weekend after Natal Day. For more information about the Courage Roundup, phone 902-463-7895, or check out the Courage website at www.rationallunacy.com/courageroundup.

Regular gay AA meetings in Halifax are held every Monday at 8 pm at St Mathews United Church on Barrington Street (enter on north side).

National Award to PFLAG Canada Executive

Submitted by Eldon Hay

It has been recently announced that our PFLAG Canada Executive Director, Cherie MacLeod is the winner of a 2006 Volunteer of the Year Award.

The award comes from Affirm United/S'affirmer ensemble - that group within the United Church of Canada working for full inclusion of gay, lesbian, bisexual, transgender persons in that denomination.

The purpose of the Affirm United Volunteer of the Year award is twofold:

1) to recognize individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the work of the organization, and

2) to recognize individuals who have been prophetic in their witness on behalf of the full acceptance and inclusion of gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender people in the United Church and in Canadian society.

Sally Harris and Wilson MacLennan, co-chairs of the national organization wrote: "The members of Affirm United are aware of the huge cloud of witnesses who are making a difference for God's GLBT people, and to the whole church and society. [We have heard of] your passion and commitment to educating young people about the evils of homophobia, and of your years of service to PFLAG both locally, and now as Executive Director of PFLAG Canada. We are pleased enthusiastically to add our own concurrence that you are a true champion among us."

Members of PFLAG Canada Moncton chapter have long known of Cherie's competence and commitment to the cause; now as Executive Director, many others are being influenced by Cherie's good thinking and leadership.

Three cheers for Cherie!

PFLAG Canada Celebrates Arthur Motyer!

By Janet Hammock

On Canada Day, Premier Bernard Lord announced that Arthur Motyer, an active member of the Sackville NB/Amherst NS Chapter of PFLAG Canada, will receive the Order of New Brunswick.

Marilyn and I are tickled pink and want everyone to know! It was not so long ago that I wrote a review for Wayves of Arthur's first novel dealing with gay life before AIDS, What's Remembered, published when he was 80 years old! Now he is being honoured, not only for his writing, but also for his tremendous contribution to the performing arts and the teaching profession in New Brunswick over many, many years.

Born in 1925 in Bermuda, Arthur John Motyer first came to New Brunswick at the age of sixteen to study at Mount Allison University, earning a B.A. (Honours English) in 1945. The next year, he was awarded a Rhodes Scholarship for further study at

What would you like to see for Pride 2007 in your community?

We received 14 replies, and this is what you told us:

Halifax: 100,000 people

Halifax: More non-bar events.

Halifax: Built on what happened this year: More food tents. More community groups. More fun!

St. John's: I'd like to see the various LGBT organizations in the city actually work together to make a Pride which involves both young and old, and incorporates some new events. To any St. John's Pride organizers reading this: work together, there's enough division among LGBT people already.

Dartmouth: More drag shows! We love them.

Amherst: The Cumberland Pride Support Group is looking forward to 2007 with lots of activities. We also plan to initiate Pride celebrations which will be the first in Cumberland County. Plans are to approach Amherst Town Council to have a Pride flag raising ceremony and so begin Pride week activities. As well, efforts will be made to make people aware of our intention to be a viable, caring group which looks forward to being very visible and contributing to our community.

Halifax: I'd like to see (i) medical issues concerning GLBT people and especially trans people addressed thoroughly and (ii) issues affecting single GLBT people addressed and (iii) issues affecting senior GLBT people addressed.

Halifax: I want an outdoor dance party after the parade! Sorry - but the drag queens were not entertaining (OK, they sucked, let's be honest) so that by the time the bands came out, most of the crowd had left.

Moncton: I like to see more things for families. There are some with children under 19 but there is nothing for them. Pride week should be more than drinking.

Pictou: Encourage the growth of the Commons events. Also try to work with Hotels to offer incentives for Pride participants and visitors. Incentive booklets from many businesses would be good.

Halifax: I would like to see the mayor ride on a float.

Halifax: The only thing I'd like to see different is more seating or viewing of movies shown at Park Lane. "Another Gay Movie" was sold out.

Wolfville: I'd like to see more about gay parents. As one I sometimes feel that I am as much a misfit in the gay world as in the straight one.

Upper Musquodoboit: As a Transsexual I am not convinced that the Pride Parade even helps our situation. While projecting Diversity in a pack it also lumps everything in one neat easy to understand package for those who are homophobic and transphobic. The people who are, simply view everything as a gay issue. It is unfortunate that so many of the transgendered Male to Female community are either too shy to be in the parade or too flamboyant to challenge the generalization that all of them are Gay. While a percentage of the Transgender population does identify with the gay community, I believe the majority either do not or at best are beyond categorization.

KIBITZ AND BITEH

Hi Tom

Rusty's idea of a seance seemed like such a good one at the time - a little Halloween flavoured fun, a slight frisson of fright but nothing more, right? The final result, however, was dramatically different.

It was near midnight when Gigi, Rusty, The Anthill, Fisherman's Freud and I took our places around the table; the flickering flame of a single candle reflected in our laughing eyes. Holding hands, breathing deeply, we asked if there was a spirit who wished to speak with us.

Nothing.

Then, without warning, the temperature dropped and I felt something - a hand on my leg. Very funny, Rusty, I thought, but when I looked I saw both his hands still clearly visible on the tabletop. Suddenly I was being groped and teased by multiple unearthly hands with some very earthy desires. I tried to speak but, like a nightmare, I was rendered mute as invisible fingers began probing my...uh, defences. The only sounds I was able to produce were soft moans that, even to my ears, seemed to be provoked by lust rather than spiritual struggles against a diabolical presence. I felt great disgust and pleasure at the same time - kind of like taking a troll home from a bar. I fiercely resisted but my body began to respond; the table began to rise on my side. Helpless, I screamed out, "Yeah baby!" as the demon entered me.

My memory of the next weeks is hazy. What I know is mainly hearsay...or heresy, depending on your point of view. I drifted in limbo - which turned out to be a beige land with fluorescent lighting, no natural fibres and martinis served in Tupperware dribble glasses. My soul was shrieking, Tom.

The signs of my possession went unnoticed at first: Swilling beer while watching American Idol, reading the National Post, buying K-Fed CD's. Subtle things. Then the blackouts began. One day I was watching a Bette Davis movie while munching on nachos (baked, not fried, low fat cheese) and came to hours later with a baloney sandwich in my hand and Fox News blaring from the TV. And the delusions! I saw Paris Hilton working at the make up counter at Wal Mart and moaning, "People hate me because I'm beautiful." I told her, "Honey, that's not why we hate you," and she spat at me!

Sacred things were made obscene, Tom. A wonderful vision of being in bed with a Latin dance troupe who suddenly turned into multiple George Dubyas!! (Did you know he has a birthmark on his ass and a very large..... well, that was probably illusion too.)

For days at a time I seemed fine. I continued going to work but then, I work in retail where a diabolical presence is likely to go unremarked. The words I spoke were not my own, like Vanna White forced to turn letters for a smutty phrase. I told everyone about Mel Gibson's remake of Fiddler On The Roof - in this version the fiddler gets drunk, falls off the roof and blames an international Jewish conspiracy for pushing him. Satanic Tourette's made me tell Gigi that Stephen Harper was vastly underrated.

"How can you say that?" she fumed. "Who else could manage to screw a whole country with soft wood?" I replied, with appropriate lewd gestures. "The devil moves in mysterious ways." Serious measures were needed.

The Anthill read aloud from holy writings: Oscar Wilde, Quentin Crisp, Dan Savage. She filled my room with Barbra singing Don't Rain On My Parade. My hellish visitor howled his rage as I recalled Pride Parades, the rainbow colours, floats with nubile young men, but still he refused to relinquish his hold on me. A drag queen dressed as Cher slapped me and said, "Snap out of it." (Remember Moonstruck?). When Cher belted out If I Could Turn Back Time, my demon, in a passable imitation of Sonny Bono, countered with a slightly off key rendition of I Got You Babe.

We tried smudging and a sweat lodge but the native healers got irritated when I called it a bathhouse. A young Catholic priest came as exorcist but at the end of the ineffective ritual when I voiced admiration of his ass he saw this as a further sign of The Beast's perversion. My friends laughed and said, "No, that's just Crawford."

Finally there arrived a shining golden presence. Ellen DeGeneres. She spoke directly to the demon and convinced him that it was time to "come out" and stop hiding his true nature. It worked! Apparently even the minions of hell are impressed by TV celebrities. (The whole event was filmed and will be part of the new fall series. The demon is now happily employed as a used car salesman.)

My ordeal was over. I gratefully hugged my lesbian saviour. Hesitantly, I told her I had a question. Thinking of all we had been through together, she said, "Of course. Anything, Crawford."

"About you and Anne Heche ...?"
"Back off, Crawford!" was her reply. Guess we all have our own demons to battle.

Love ya!

Queering of Politics?

By Gilles Marchildon

Openly LGBT politicians are no longer novel but politics seem to be getting queerer this year.

Gay and lesbian candidates across Canada are vying to be elected, whether as a member of their Provincial Legislature or in their city's top job of mayor.

In the Atlantic, Allison Brewer is leading New Brunswick's NDP, working to win her own seat in Fredericton-Lincoln but also aiming to attract voters across the province.

In Ottawa, Alex Munter, a former City Councillor and former national coordinator of Canadians for Equal Marriage (CEM), is running against incumbent Bob Chiarelli.

In Winnipeg, former journalist and urban transit activist Kaj Hasselriis is attempting to knock off sitting Mayor Sam Katz.

Ironically, both mayoral candidates have worked on the CEM campaign - just not at the same time.

For her part, Brewer is a former board member of Egale Canada and a long-time activist on LGBT issues.

Munter led CEM efforts prior to the July 2005 passage of federal legislation, after which the coalition wound down. But when the Conservatives were elected this past January, and Stephen Harper vowed to re-open the equal marriage issue, CEM was re-launched and Hasselriis was hired to oversee communications.

Ottawa and Winnipeg have seen many gay and lesbian politicians before. Some have even stepped out of the closet!

Winnipeg elected and re-elected the openly gay Glen Murray as city councillor before doing the same when he ran for Mayor.

Other cities have openly gay or lesbian municipal councillors, such as Toronto's Kyle Rae,

In the nation's capital, where federal Parliament sits, gay and lesbian Members of Parliament (MPs) hardly elicit any attention from media based on their sexual orientation. NDP MPs Libby Davies and Bill Siksay, Réal Ménard from the Bloc Québécois, as well as Liberals Scott Brison and Mario Silva go about their business. Davies and Brison, who represents the Nova Scotia riding of Kings-Hants, probably have the highest profiles outside of Québec.

Both Ontario and Manitoba have openly gay Cabinet Ministers: Jim Rondeau is Manitoba's Minister of Industry, Economic Development and Mines while George Smitherman is Ontario's Health Minister. Smitherman has a lesbian colleague in the Legislature, Kathleen Wynne.

B.C. had previous gay Cabinet ministers Tim Stevenson and Ted Nebbeling, as well as MLA Lorne Mayencourt. In addition to New Brunswick's Brewer, another provincial party is currently led by an openly gay man, André Boisclair of the Parti Québécois.

There seems to be a slight increase in the number of openly LGBT candidates and elected officials.

The religious right-wing will undoubtedly see this as concrete evidence that the "gay lobby" is executing a diabolical plan to take over the country, one city and one riding at a time.

A more reasonable reading of the facts is simply that much has changed since former federal NDP MP Svend Robinson first 'came out' in 1988, making headlines.

For most voters today, sexual orientation is just one more piece of information about candidates (if they even care).

Transgender Diaries IX

By Denise Holliday

Sharon and I were married while in the military. I had spoken to a civilian family doctor a couple of months prior to the wedding. He did not know me prior to our conversation. He literally begged me not to get married and said I was a Transvestite. I was not certain what I was, but transvestite I was not; of this I was always certain. We were together three months when I explained Denise to my wife who decided to stay with me and so we moved on. 18 months later our first child (boy) arrived and I left the military, settling in Civilian Street. No one ever found out about Denise unless I let them including the mother-in-law. Obviously she was wild, but after learning her daughter knew about it, she sat on the information and we became good friends. It would be another 30 years before I would find out what else she did. I spoke to my mother when I was 21 and she was evasive, stating that dad said it was all in my mind and did not wish to speak of it. It again would be thirty years before she told me they knew I was different before I was three years old. They thought I would grow out of it.

I avoided going home to England over the years and finally visited my parents in 1999. It was to be the mental point of transition in my life and I think my parents sensed this. My father almost accused me of being gay but dropped the subject as quickly as he raised it. I spoke to him by phone two months later. He told me he loved me, it was the first time I remember him ever using those words in reference to me. He died 18 hours later of bowel cancer. His dying words to my four siblings were "Never forget there are five of you." Dad never got to meet Denise and was probably glad of it. Mom met Denise three years later when I returned for another visit. It was a four week stay. Two weeks of hell followed by two weeks of bonding and love. As with my father, it was to be the last time I saw my mother. She had a stroke a few months later and died within a couple of days without waking up. While I was home she struggled to come to terms as quickly as she could with this new person in her life. I still have several personal things she gave me at that time. People often comment on them and I smile as I think of mom. My oldest sister said I look more like Mom than the girls do, strange, but I always knew that. I was even born with a personal body mark exactly the same and located the same as mom.

My children never knew about Denise until 1999. Telling my 11 year old was the hardest and most nerve racking. She cried at first and then I used Jurassic Park to help her understand. This concept she grasped immediately and her focus changed. My oldest two were individually given letters by me and then I waited to get their response. My oldest daughter came to me, crying and saying she was sorry she had never realized I had been in that much pain. My oldest was my son. He just drove away and refused to discuss it. Perhaps I handled that badly, it is a hard call. He left three months later and has not been in touch for three years. We did hear from a friend that spoke to him in Alberta a couple of months ago. My three sisters met me and my oldest was the most supportive. Her family was also really great, especially the smaller, younger ones who accepted Denise without reservation. Meanwhile my brother, (my only sibling who had prior knowledge of my cross-dressing) has refused to meet me.

Some of my greatest supporters would come from my spouse's family, who immediately emailed or wrote individually to let us know that they were with us in thought and love. My spouse's parents died some years ago but her sister, brother and their families and her stepmother were unanimous in their support. Family is truly everything.

Church was something we had been involved in for over 25 years. They unfortunately were and still have been unable to reconcile Denise and Christ. Unable to approach or support us within their limited understanding of "God's Word."

As for me? I no more understand God than I understand myself; I only know we both exist.

Next Month: Something old something new and all things change?

GAYELLOW PAGES (2006-2007)

By Bill McKinnon

Wayves is the best reference for LGBT travel in Atlantic Canada, but check out GAYELLOW PAGES in hard copy, on the net, or on CD. You can read it for free on the net but you might want to buy the book or CD. Mostly you don't need to spend money unless you're taking a trip and want to read it on the plane or while driving (that is, while your partner's driving) to your destination.

The national edition, #28 2006-2007, is now available. Read it on-line at gayellowpages.com or in print. The cover price is $22.95 US, but I got it from www.indigo.ca online for $20.68 Cdn including postage, and delivered in a few days. I checked several Halifax bookstores and none had it in stock but it's cheaper on-line anyway.

Gayellow describes itself as "vital information on the road or at home" and as "the information resource for lesbian, gay, bisexual & transgendered community since 1973." These claims seem to be true. It's got information on everything of special interest to LGBTs, including bars, restaurants, accommodations, bookstores, shopping, organizations, etc. If you need it, Gayellow's got it.

Down to Earth no nonsense honesty!

A Little History of the International Court System

In 1965 a female impersonator in California, named Jose Sarria, was named Queen of the San Francisco Tavern Guild's annual charity ball. In his acceptance speech Jose looked at the crowd of Bay Area gay bar owners, thanked them for the honour but stated that he was already a queen so they could not make him one. At that point Jose borrowed from a piece of San Francisco history and named himself Empress. Joshua Norton was a wealthy businessman in the San Francisco area in the mid 1800s who lost his mind when he lost his fortune and named himself Emperor of the United States and protector of Mexico. Jose proclaimed himself Joshua Norton's loving widow. No stranger to the spotlight, Jose took the idea and ran with it, forming the Imperial Court De San Francisco.

Their goal was to raise money for charitable organizations and fight for equality for the gay community. Now, 40 years later there are over 70 chapters of the International Court System around the United States, Canada and Mexico (with queries coming from England and Australia). Each chapter or Court holds their coronation annually, as a chance to host other Imperial Courts from around the circuit as they crown their newly elected Emperor and Empress.

With the combined efforts of all National chapters, the International Imperial Court System raises over $1,500,000.00 annually for non-profit organizations.

The Imperial Court of Halifax continues to set precedence each year by raising not only awareness of our existence, but also raising money for those less fortunate than ourselves. It is these selfless acts of kindness and generosity of time and energy that we as a community can be so proud with which to belong.

The Imperial and Sovereign Court of Atlantic Nova Society

The Imperial Sovereign Court of Atlantic Nova Society Inc... Was started in late 1999 by Simon Abbass, Gary Turner, Justin Turner, Linda Publicover and Shawn Lamb. The group got together after Simon Abbass learned that Gary Turner had been part of Court's in other cities in Canada. Mr. Abbass had learned about the Court many years before and wanted to start a chapter in Halifax. After many long hours of conversation, meetings ISCANS was born. We are a non-profit society governed by our Monarch's (the yearly elected Emperor & Empress) and our Members of Parliament.

We crowned our first Emperor & Empress in September 1999 and have since overcome many obstacles and have grown in leaps and bounds, raising approximately $100,000.00 for charity in the past 6 years. We officially became part of The International Alliance of Courts in 2004. The Alliance is group of many courts within Canada, The United States and abroad which was founded in 1965 by Jose Sarria in San Francisco.

This October we will be crowning Their Most Imperial Sovereign Majesties, Emperor & Empress VII of Halifax and all of Nova Scotia at a gala ball at Holiday Inn, Robie St at which the current Reigning Monarch's will step down and the new Monarch's Coronation will be witnessed by our membership and community as well as Monarch's and guests visiting from across Canada and the USA.

Some of the charities supported over the past reigns are Bryony House for battered women, Adsum House, Phoenix House, G/L/B/T Youth Project, Manna for Health Food Bank, AIDS Coalition NS, Black Cultural Society, IWK, Diabetes Assoc, Breast Cancer Assoc and more. Each year the new Monarch's choose their charities to support for that year plus name an Imperial Family to help with raising money throughout the year.

The following are the past Monarch's for ISCANS:

Emperor I Cameron & Empress I Studio X LeNoir, Emperor II Alexander DeKnight & Empress II Miss Vickie DeKnight, Emperor III Ben Dover & Empress III Shayda Black-Turner, Empress IV Boom Boom Lubalicious, Emperor V Gary Turner-Black & Empress V Deva Station and the current Reigning Emperor VI Lee Bent & Regent Empress VI Deva Station.

Our Monarch's are elected by public election each year in which anyone 19 and over may vote. You do not have to be an ISCANS member to cast a ballot and all Candidates must be 21 and over and be a society member for over 1 year. All candidates are interviewed by a panel consisting of past Monarch's, Parliament members and community members and must be approved by majority vote of the panel to seek the office of Emperor or Empress. This is a serious process and not taken lightly due to the hard work and stress of holding the position while having fun at the same time.

Candidates for Emperor and Empress

Cousin Cletus

A vote for Cousin Cletus for Emperor 7 means a fundamental return to the 'Back to Basics' approach to ISCANS fundraising here in Halifax. With over 5 years of dedicated, committed service to ISCANS (both behind the scenes and in the forefront), I am certain that my efforts will be a huge contribution in continuing with ISCANS mandate; to assist those who are in need and to represent ISCANS within our community as an organization that has consistently supported local charities here at home. A vote for Cousin Cletus is a vote for strong leadership, consistent results, and attainable fundraising goals.

Boom Boom Lubalicious

A Vote for Boom Boom is a vote for my belief that all members of the community should be able to help raise awareness, funds and unity no matter of their sexuality, race or color. Through my experience, dedication, hardwork, creativity and proven track record I will do all of this in an approachable, caring way for people and organizations in need.

Natassha N!

"With dedication, elbow grease and a lot of heart anything can happen." The next Empress will have to be a candidate with vision, determination, youth, fresh ideas and a passion for fundraising. Help take ISCANS back to basics and cast your vote for Natassha N! Bring a gang with you - every vote couldn't count more."

By Chef Darren

Can you believe that the summer has already come and gone? This year's growing season in our region is running three weeks to a month behind, so by the time this article reaches you, my loyal dedicated readers, we should be at the peak of the Fall harvest. Bearing that in mind, I will share with you my recipe for Pumpkin & Cranberry Bread Pudding with Warm Caramel Sauce & Candied Ginger Gelato. Mmm...mmm...mmm...Does that sound like Thanksgiving or what? I think bread pudding works best using day old Brioche which I get from Julien's Pastry Shop in the Hydrastone Market, but you can use any day old white bread or even pound cake. Give it a try for your Thanksgiving dinner guest, they will love it guaranteed! If you would like more fall recipes drop me an e-mail.

Pumpkin & Cranberry Bread Pudding with Warm Caramel Sauce & Candied Ginger Gelato

Ingredients

- 4 egg yolks
- 2 whole eggs
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 1 cup whole milk
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 cup pumpkin puree (canned is fine)
- 2 tbsp pumpkin pie spice
- 2 cups cleaned cranberries (or 1 cup dried)
- 1 lb day old brioche, white bread or pound cake, diced small

Method

1. Combine eggs, yolks, cream, milk, brown sugar, pumpkin and spices with a whisk. 2. Pour the mixture over the bread, mix thoroughly, cover and let soak overnight in the refrigerator. (Note: If using dried cranberries add 1/2 cup more milk, stir them in the mixture and allow them to plump during the soaking period.) 3. The next day, spray a 9"x 3" cake spring form pan and line the bottom with parchment or wax paper. 4. If using fresh cranberries, fold them into the mixture at this point and pour the mixture into the lined pan. 5. Place the cake pan into a 3" high baking dish and fill it with boiling water 3/4 of the way up the sides of the cake pan (this is called water bath). 6. Place the pans in a preheated 325F oven and bake for approximately 1 hour or until a knife inserted into the center of the pudding comes out clean. (Note: the pudding needs to be set up, but still moist.) 7. When cooked, remove the cake pan from the water bath run a knife around the edge and place it on a cooling rack. Let set for 1/2 hour before removing the spring ring sides.

Serving Suggestions

I serve a wedge of the pudding, still warm, with a warm caramel sauce (store bought and microwave heated is fine) with a scoop of candied ginger gelato from Botticelli's at Bishop's Landing on top.

Mother Nature Sponsors Saint John Pride

By: D. S. Mack MacKenzie

The Fabulous Mother Nature (who has to be a sister) was the most appreciated of the many sponsors at this year's Pride Week for the sunny Greater Saint John community, August 6-12, 2006. This was the most ambitious (and rain-free) Pride Week ever for the Southern New Brunswick region and was

Deputy Mayor (Michelle Hooton) and elected officials from Grand Bay-Westfield (Mayor Grace Losier and Deputy Mayor Brenda Murphy). Councillors Peter McGuire and Jay Young Chang from Saint John and Paul Barry and Beth Thompson from Rothesay and Quispamsis also came out to show their support and eat some rainbow cake. Club Montréal unveiled their exciting new location on King St. during Pride Week with a record crowd on Saturday night while the official Pride Dance at the Hilton Hotel still drew a throng of nearly two hundred that same evening. Mid-week events included the free screening of Transamerica at UNBSJ's Oland Hall Theatre, sponsored by the UNBSJ Q-Collective. Mahogany Manor Bed and Breakfast hosted a capacity crowd in their colourful garden for 'Music Night' featuring the talented stylings of Joyce Boone and Brian Deambrose, the Aussie-Scots, and the Shaggy Dogs - with a full moon as the backdrop. Many new faces participated in the Monday evening slow pitch game at the Rockwood Park Allison Grounds. It was alleged that the girls beat the boys but apparently there were only three boys, aged four, forty and a dog named Dixie who would not report his age. Many quenched their spiritual thirst on day one organised by Port City Rainbow Pride Inc. and their allies: PFLAG Canada (Saint John and Sussex Chapters), Mahogany Manor B&B, Club Montréal, Fundy Safe Spaces and the UNBSJ Q-Collective. Many firsts were observed for this (fourth) annual LGBTQ week of fun, including more family-oriented events such as softball and bowling, the largest pride flag to fly outside City Hall for the week (4 1/2 by 9 feet), an eclectic music night, a fundraiser for the local food bank, record support from elected officials and businesses, a dinner cruise up the St. John and Kennebecasis Rivers, a record number of rainbow decorations along the parade route, a cheeky but fun River's Edge Campground float and the first time Marie Antoinette ever participated in the Pride Parade. Participation from elected officials in the area included Saint John Liberal MP (Paul Zed),

A student led conference to connect community and academic feminists working toward women's equality at Saint Mary's University Halifax, Nova Scotia. Recent decades have seen feminists making significant strides in encompassing diverse experiences and voices. The aim of this conference is to address a specific consideration: region. How are women's challenges and projects in the Atlantic region different, and where do they intersect with the experiences of our feminist allies across Canada? And perhaps more urgently, how do our own Atlantic experiences, challenges and successes differ from and mirror each other? How can we make alliances and strengthen the Atlantic feminist community? In giving voice to our experiences, and hearing the experiences of those who are engaged in the grassroots and academic feminist communities, we will be provided the opportunity to make connections, establish partnerships, integrate our work, and ultimately strengthen our Atlantic feminist networks. The deadline for registration forms and payment of conference fees is September 11st, 2006. For more information, contact atlanticwavesconference@yahoo.ca

Coffee House: Every Friday, 12-2 (LBGT Office, 6th Floor UC, 6002) Every Friday we invite anyone and everyone to come to LBGT and enjoy a cup of Coffee or Tea (regular or herbal) with us (members, non-members, etc). Ariba's Night! Ariba's is a bar in the same building as Quintana's De La Plaza, in Churchill Square. We get together and attend this venue on a regular basis, due to its closeness to MUN and the fact that these are "Student Saver Nights" (drinks are cheaper and there are free nachos with every drink!). Before going to the venue, people are asked to meet at LBGT-MUN at 4:30pm to head over (and to grab seats before everyone else - teehee). Cont'd from Brewer on p. 3 in Fredericton, New Brunswick, Ms. Brewer strongly defends a woman's right to choose. In her role as Vice-President of the Qullit Nunavut Status of Women Council, Ms. Brewer worked to promote the equality rights of women and girls in Nunavut. Recently, she led the campaign in support of the Nunavut Human Rights Act; legislation that includes protection against discrimination based on sexual orientation. Ms. Brewer continues her work through her involvement as a founding member of Iqaluit Pride and Friends of Pride, and her support for legal recognition of same-sex marriage.

Rev. Eldon Hay, the Sackville, New Brunswick PFLAG leader and human rights activist, says of Allison: "I recognize her as a New Brunswick gay/lesbian rights pioneer and champion. When I was awarded the NB Human Rights award in 1997, the presentation was made in Sackville. Imagine my delight and surprise when Allison attended with either one or two of her children. She had driven over from Fredericton for the occasion. At a rally in Fredericton, marking a time when a gay UNB student had been accosted and attacked, Allison spoke clearly and forcefully. She was a tower of strength, courage and hope to all who heard her."

Moncton activist and past Egale director Greg Daborn recalls: "The story of how Allison Brewer affected my life is very similar to the story of how Eldon Hay affected it. When these two pioneers started on their public quest for GLBT equality rights, I was a young adolescent in the early 80's struggling with being the known school fag. It seemed to me that it was almost time to throw in the towel and give up hope until one night I started hearing of how these two people were standing up for me. For years I followed their work. Just hearing about what they were doing in the media gave me that little bit of strength I needed to carry on. It's only been in the last couple of years that I've got to meet Allison and Eldon in person and work with them side by side as we move forward. I know that Allison's presence at the events I've worked on has been a great help. I would like to thank her for being there for me back in the 80's. Her and Eldon's presence at the time probably saved my life and for that I am forever grateful."

Allison Brewer is clearly an amazing woman.

Facts in this article come from a variety of sources including some wording from the websites of Wikipedia, New Brunswick NDP and the CBC, and from a conversation with Allison Brewer.

There seems to be a marked contrast, as well, between what these two guys already know and what they attempt to explore. The former: the first episode contains a truly ow-inducing scene of Dave waxing Derrick's ass, then applying a whack with a ping-pong paddle, for good measure, after the deed is done. The latter: the third episode finds our boys role-playing at "lay for an A," with Dave as the teacher (not much of a stretch for him since he's a university prof) and Derrick as the grade-deficient student. It could be that they felt uncomfortable playing in front of the camera, but the whole scene felt like something out of a very bad porno, and Derrick's lacklustre attempt at licking Dave's boots had me smacking the television screen, shouting,

"Put some effort into it, for chris-sake! You're gonna get flunked!"

That being said, class, this is a learning environment. Practice, practice, practice. Next time, change roles: perhaps Dave might go to church and find a glory-hole drilled into the confessional, then finish up by getting rammed inside the pipe organ. Now that would be glorious.

The episodes on the DVDs I received devoted much of their time to Sherry's and Derrick and Dave's stories. There are glimpses of three other tales in the mix, which I hope will be fleshed out as the season continues. Our first glimpse of Eliese is a startling one: naked, save for some red slashes of body paint, a crown of thorns and some dirt and autumn leaves in her hair, she describes herself as "a narcissist, maybe, or maybe not" as she prepares to be strung up on a St. Andrew's Cross for a photo shoot. She definitely has an Elvira cum Bettie Page thing going on, and there's an enthusiasm which comes across well in the few minutes we see her in the first episode. What prom queen doesn't want to be tied to a rope swing in the garden and ravished by the camera?

Jeanne and Kate, a married lesbian couple, live and work at their own leather gear business out of their home in rural Nova Scotia. They have been together for over a decade and, having lived in the established leather communities in Florida and New York, are well-versed in the minutiae of kinky life. Their story opens with a trip to an adult shop in Halifax, one of a handful of shops in the city which sells their hand-made harnesses, restraints, collars, and their incredible and famous chrome-handled floggers. I didn't know there was such a thing as a Vegan strap-on harness until I saw one they had created. "It's not leather, not an animal by-product," says Kate. "It's a petroleum by-product, which is even worse!" adds Jeanne, jokingly.

Last, but certainly not least, is Ryan, who is described in the press kit as a "somewhat shy by nature" masochist. I've known Ryan for some time, having first met him a few years back at a Mr. Atlantic Canada Leather function. I thought he had black electrical tape over his nipples; I soon found out from the self-confessed pain slut that they were actually tattoos. I've never known him to be shy.

Ryan's first episode segment is an interaction with Jeanne and Kate, as Ryan prepares to compete in the 2006 MAC Leather competition. The leather ladies are making him some custom gear for the competition, discussing matters of contest protocol and giving him some well-heeded advice. The second episode, which as I write this I admit I have yet to see, follows Ryan's progress through the competition (I was the chief judge, by the way). His third episode segment explores his relationship with his mother and his preparations for his birthday party, where there will undoubtedly be some spanking.

KINK is all about story and director Eddie O. knows how to tell a good one. During the past four seasons the series has successfully presented people who by any measure can be construed as average while at the same time cracking and lifting the outer veneer to expose what's truly unique, lying below the surface.

The first two stories are well-developed right out of the gate and while the latter three stories appear to lack development at the beginning of the season I believe everyone will be on the same playing field by the end of episode thirteen. While the viewing was definitely not a snore-fest there were moments when I wished the pacing were kicked up a tad, given that KINK is only a half-hour program (note to the producers: can season six be bumped to an hour?) spread across a mere thirteen weeks. This program is not like most of the reality dreck that passes itself off these days as compelling storytelling.

I hope to see spiky boots, tit-pushing corsets, and an A+ on her kinky report card. Oh, yes, and less smirking on Dan's face and a much redder ass.

As well, I expect the actual kink factor will eventually be ratcheted up. We don't want all those other fetish people - you know, the ones from away - to think Nova Scotia kinksters are all about kitchen parties and Peggy's Cove, do we?

Of course, if a typical Friday night consists of getting spanked with Don Messer's fiddle and then taking a lighthouse up the ass, then we have nothing to worry about.
