Dear Mr. Raddall:

Having made an exciting discovery of fine writing such as I haven't made in seven blue moons, I wanted to tell you of my enjoyment of your Post stories. For days I have been one of those trying people who go about saying " You simply must read it".

I'd like to tell you about the bits of Bald Eagle 'iggins that I liked particularly, and the beauty of Blind McNair that appealed to me so greatly, but I shall just say thank you in my very best manner and hie me off to the library to ask where I can find more of the same.

The grand old stories that lie buried in our country side have waited a long time for one with the words and the understanding to give them life.

Sincerely,

(Miss) Alice Loomer
