Dear Mr. Raddall:-

I am a teacher in Riverview High School, and among my subjects is Literature for Grade 10, which of course includes "The Golden Caravan".

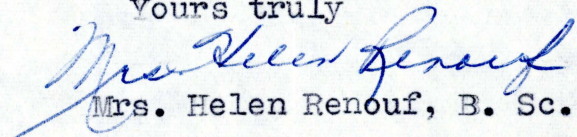

My classes were really intrigued with the story entitled "The Amulet", and they have raised the question: "Is this a true story?"

Because of the excellence of this short story and the convincing way in which we are led to believe it is true, we think it must be true, but I promised the pupils I would write and ask you if it were indeed based on fact.

Can you help me "save face" and give me a more definite answer, or must it forever remain the mystery it now is?

Thank you.

Yours truly

Mrs. Helen Renouf, B. Sc.
