Dear Sir:

If I remember correctly you were interested in the name POQUETANUCK. I am forwarding, under separate cover, an old copy of the Connecticut State Register and in the section under towns, villages and districts, this name appears. It seems it is a village within the town of Preston. Preston is the next town to Norwich, Connecticut on the east and was once known as East Norwich.

If this is not the right name then you can probably find it among the many interesting village names.

I do not recall if there was anything more you wished to know about the area but if so, I would be very happy to make inquiries.

Yours very truly

Earl R. Lewis, Jr.
