H. Thomas 19-4-50.

Dear Mr. Radcliff,

Thank you for the beautiful time which I had reading your Mistle's Fancy.

I have been in Canada a year, and because I couldn't speak English I did not have a chance to read any English books.

Tom's was my first novel in a new language. (I read shorter stories before).

I finished reading it in three days, (I must use sometimes a vocabulary.) Nobody could speak with me, in these days, when

Your romantic novel gave me a chance to go, using your words to turn Pomorie Nova Scotia and the seas between.

My wife told me, if you could write as many books, as I could read, she never will find an opportunity to spend with me, as she learnt in last days.

She feels sorry, that she can't read enough English as yet, to understand a novel, which was so enjoyable for myself.

I promised her to see the story in the movies, pretty soon.

Sincerely
J. W. Vavruska - M.D.
