Dr. Meng Qing-nan Ladner Downs P.O. Box 10021 700 West Georgia Street Vancouver, B.C. V7Y 1A8

Dear Qing-nan:

Thank you for your good letter of November 26, 1986, and also for the conversation which we had on the telephone a few days ago. I am happy to be back in close touch with you, and to feel that we can begin to work together on matters of interest for the future.

The Chinese Official about whom we spoke is mentioned on page 11 of the attached and of course there is a nice picture of a special personality on page 14.

The Official informed me that fundamental changes would soon be made in the governing structure of all major Chinese universities, changes that would liberalize the arrangements in which universities govern themselves, and it may be that this is one reason why our friends in Peking are a little anxious at the present time. My impression is that the changes will move the universities in the right direction.

As you know, Shi is now settled down in Geneva and Ting will go to relatives in the New York area at the end of January. Mo is completing three months with Burnet Duckworth in Calgary, after which he will leave for Sydney, Australia. It has been gratifying to learn that all three students feel satisfied with their experience at Dalhousie Law School, and that they will continue to develop links between the scholarly communities in our countries on their return home. I am hopeful that Ting will be able to complete in May or October of 1987.

As far as future plans are concerned, I am waiting to hear from Professor Luo and Professor Wang about several specific projects, including joint publications, which we have proposed. We are anxious to do a book on "International Law from an Asian Perspective", a book in English of Chinese Essays on International Law since 1949, and a book on the Chinese Legal System. We also want to establish a permanent Summer School in Beijing for all of Asia, and we are prepared to send several of the best Dalhousie Professors to Beijing on short and long term visits. We expect to receive Professor Luo at Dalhousie in September and also an LL.M. student from the Law Department. These are just a few of the specifics that we have in mind, and they certainly do not exclude Canadian financial support for the library and other scholarly activities. We continue to like the idea of a circle of foreign friends and associates who could also help financially and in other ways to strengthen the programmes and foreign contacts of Beijing University in general and of the Institute and the Law Department in particular. I understand from Professor Wang that this latter idea is being reconsidered by the authorities.

Professor Borgese will be in Beijing in September, when you will have an opportunity to see her and perhaps be involved with her programme.

My own feeling about your immediate future is that you should get back to Beijing as rapidly as possible in order to re-orientate yourself and to appraise the situation. The fact is that conditions, as well as people and personalities, are changing rapidly in Beijing and in Chinese society generally; the longer you stay away the more difficult it will be for you to assume your proper place in the intellectual community. While you will, of course, make your own decisions, you must also bear in mind that there is an outstanding obligation to seek a post in China where you could put your training to work and contribute actively to the development of juridical ideas in China and between China and the outside world. I know that Professor Wang feels this way also and that he is doing everything that he can to be helpful. The Institute may in fact turn out to be the place for you, despite present uncertainties. Or it may be that the Foreign Affairs College would provide a suitable base of operations. In any event, the important thing is that you -- and we -- find a platform from which you can do the work and make the contributions which you are so admirably equipped to do, and which will most certainly be in the interests of China as well as the outside world itself. My only fear is that if you do not return rather quickly and claim the place that is rightfully yours, you will find that others have occupied the most suitable positions.

In all these matters, dear Qing-nan, please be assured and reassured that you will always have the positive encouragement and active support of your Canadian friends and, I know, of the many personalities in the International Law Community who are connected with Canada and indeed with you yourself. We all feel that you are in an unusually strong position to play a creative leadership role in China and among the world's leading international lawyers, and we wish to do everything we possibly can to assist you in discharging this responsibility.

We are all well here and you will be happy to know that you and Wei and Bo are spoken of frequently and favourably, and that you are indeed much missed at the University and in the City. Although we will be speaking on the telephone before long, I do not wish to close these few lines without conveying our very best good wishes for the holiday season.

With kindest regards, I remain,

Yours sincerely,

P.S. Am I correct in assuming that you have long since sent a copy of your thesis to Professor Wang in Beijing? As a courtesy, as well as a professional matter, he should of course have his personal copy at hand.

Dear Prof. Macdonald,

11

I have not heard from you for a long line. I mis you very much indeed.

My whole family obtained our landed immigrant Latus at the end of October and I immediately called you. Unfortunately, you were in Europe and I did not have a chance to tell you this in person. I explained our situation to Mairi and I am sure she has already told you all about it. I feel badly for not being able to tell you that earlier. On the one hand, because we did not really believe we could make it, and on the other hand, we did not I put you into a an awkward situation when Peking University asked you about our future plan. We hope you can understand.

To stay in Canada is my personal decision due to various reasons. But one thing is clear to me that the change of my status will not change my determination of promoting the things friendship and competration between Canada and China, which I believe is the general purpose of bringing Chinese students to Canada.

I am very grateful to you for all your suppost, help and advise during my stay in Halfax. I could not successfully complete my programmes without your hard work. Believe me. I will not forget it. At that time, you were my advisor, supervisor and friend. Today, when I am starting a board new life, I wish I can still receive advise from my old friends Besides, if you have anything requiring my essistance I will be very pleased to do it.

My thesis has been published by Wijhoff. It is also your book. I enclose a copy of this book as the memory of our five years together in Halifax.

This wei and Bo are very well and they miss Mairi and you very much too. We sometimes reviewed all our pochures in Halifax and "Hi Ding-ding" is still the name Bo calls you.

You may have all reasons not to write us, but we all wish you a happy Christmas and a Happy New Year. We still miss you all and hope to see you again as what we did in Halifax.

Life is not easy. Sometimes one has to make a decision for himself. I if my decision makes you unhappy. Sorry.

Sincerely yours,

Oing- nan Meng

Dear Professor Macdonald and Mairi:

It is not significant to write when I know nothing about Vancouver. I prefer to find a good time to write to introduce my detailed situation and share my thoughts with you. Because both of you are two of the best friends I respect and love, that is why I wtite you now --- four weeks after coming here.

Generally speaking everything is fine.

The place recommended by Meng was not taken by our law firm. Now I share an apartment with two Canadians. The building I live is called Georgian Tower. It only takes 10 minutes on foot from my apartment to the law firm and also takes same time to get to stores. It is a good place, but the only problem is that it is too crowded to share by three persons. So I am going to find a new place. I actually may already have found one.

I have started to work. I deal with the cases which emphasize the Company Law. Now I am changing the Memorandum, Articles and Shareholders' Agreement concerning Chinese-Canadian Joint Ventures, and translating them into Chinese. I read, think and write the whole day, from morning 9 o'clock till evening 11 o'clock. Work is hard. Recently I was so busy that I became ill. But work can not be stopped, because the case is required to close by early February.

It is always difficult for doing something in the beginning and there is always difficuties in life. Old ones are overcome and new ones are coming again, no matter how smart one is. But the only thing I always keep is confidence. Now the life is still hard to me. But I do not mind and enjoy my work and life as much as possible. I believe that I will overcome the difficuties and that I am getting better and better. It is not easy to get a chance to study abroad, in particular working in a law firm, which is the dream of may Chineses. I should take every minute learning and understanding some facts from this country. I hope in the future I can make contribution to China, and to the friendship and exchanging between China and Canada.

I plan to do my thesis in February. Though I am working in the law firm and have not started to improve it yet, I know that the most important for me is my thesis and LL.M. degree from Dalhousie Law School. Without this degree I stand to lose many things in my further life. It is sure that I will not go back to China without getting this dgree. If the time is not enough, I will give up any opportunity including working for the law firm and concentrate on my thesis only, no matter how many difficuties I will meet, such as one of the biggest problem --- financial problem, which I may meet again --- in a period after practicing if I have not finished my thesis in certain time.

Vancouver is a nice city. It is warm and beautiful. Since am here I have been to the supermarket, the park, the skating ring, restaurants, taken skytrain and cable car (for getting to the top of the mountain), and joined some parties. I have already some friends. Some of them are students from U.B.C.. Some of them are persons from the law firms. Some of them are persons from Chinese consulate. They give me a lot of help and friendship.

One of the most important and interesting things to me is Asian Studies Centre in U.B.C., where they collected thousand and thousand of Chinese books written by people from Tai Wan, Hong Kong and Mainland China. Some of them discuss Chinese economics, politics, legal system and policies. Some of them give a conclusion to Chinese history, in particular Chinese Cultural Revolutin. Some of them introduce Western experiences and Soviet Union's experiences on governing and managing the countries and give a comparative study between West and East. Among those books, some of them are valuable and difficult to find elsewhere. Everyday before I go to bed, I read some of them for half an hour. Those books will help me to know more about China and the world.

Maybe I will go to Ottawa and Toronto in February with Mr. Anthony M. M. Remedions for doing buiness. Unfortunate, I can not visit Halifax. I really miss Halifax, miss my friends there, especially you. I can not forget the past days when I stayed with you. Nice talk, face to face, inyour house and Professor Macdonald's office. Everytime when I met you I sensed concern and warmth from you, which made me feel confident. How big help you give me! You treat me asw your daughter. Under your help I have made progrss on my career and life. I will remember you and your help forever.

Enclosed is my card with my address and telephone number. I was going to call you quite often. But I stopped myself. Because I think after leaving Halifax the first thing I give you should be a long letter, written with my heart and expressing my real feelings, rather than few world by telephone. I love and miss you a lot! When we will meet again? I really wish to meet you some where soon. I will keep in touch with you and write you again. If I have time I would like to write you often and a lot.

AIR MAIL

Dear Ms. Wang:

I have been informed by Professor R. Randle Edwards, Director of the Center for Chinese Legal Studies, that you will be a Visiting Scholar beginning January 1, 1987 at Columbia University.

Enclosed is an IAP-66 form in three copies. Being careful not to separate the copies, complete questions #1 through #5 on the back of copy #1 (page 2). Bring the form (all copies) and your passport to the American Consulate nearest your home. The Consular Officer should explain items #6 and #7 to you and process your J-1 Visa request.

When you arrive on the Columbia campus, please telephone my office at 280-3817 to arrange a convenient time to visit me at room 412 Dodge Hall. Please bring your passport, the I-94 form (Departure Record) and the pink copy of the IAP-66 form to this meeting so that I may certify you for fellowship purposes and revalidate the pink copy of your IAP-66 form so that you may use it for travel outside the U.S.A. during your stay.

If you have any questions concerning your visa, please do not hesitate to write to me.

Prof. Ronald St.J. Macdonald, left, of the Faculty of Law at Dalhousie University, is shown with Prof. Wang Tieya, head of International Law at Peking University and one of the key speakers at the 16th annual conference of the Law of the Sea Institute, held at Dalhousle University this week.

Law Department at Peking University cation before a ship enters our waters," and editor of the Chinese Yearbook on he said, "but the treaty is based on an International Law, but the main purpose se equitable principle and that is why we of his trip to Halifax was to accompany signed it, because it was a package two post-graduate law students, the first to study in Canada, beginning this fall at the Dalhousie Law School.

He says that he is disappointed that the United States voted against signing the Law of the Sea Treaty. He points out that there were some things in the treaty which China didn't not agree with either, but felt that it was in the interests of everyone that the treaty be ratified

He is the head of the International "We would like to have prior notifideal."

Despite the U.S. refusal to sign the treaty and the Soviet Union's abstention, Prof. Wang believes the treaty will work, and with continuing discussions such as the one at Dalhousie this week, will improve, the treaty's credibility.

China looks on the treaty as possibly one means of trying to solve the problems of sharing an offshore resource with one or more countries. "We have some problems because there is some question about the ownership of some offshore islands, and we also share some territorial waters with Japan and other countries like Vietnam," he said.

"We need some technology, joint ventures on the coast in that area; I personally believe the door is open for that type of co-operation," he added.

There is already some contact between PetroCanada and Chinese petroleum officials, but the Chinese would like to see more of that type of co-operation developed

Ronald St. John Macdonald, O.C., Q.C.

A Judge of the European Court of Human Rights at Strasbourg, France, and Professor of International Law at Dalhousie University in Halifax, Canada.

A distinguished international lawyer, the author of many professional papers and commentaries, Professor Macdonald was educated in Canada, Britain, the United States, and Switzerland. He has taught at four Canadian Universities and served as dean of law at the University of Toronto and at Dalhousie University.

Professor Macdonald is the founding president of the Canadian Council on International Law, a member of the Council of Management of the British Institute of International Law, an Advisor to the American Law Institute on the Foreign Relations Law of the United States, a member of the Institut de Droit International, and president of the World Academy of Art and Science. In the 1970's he was an active participant as a constitutional expert in the intercommunal talks in Cyprus.

Professor Macdonald was, in 1980, the first western international lawyer since 1949 to lecture at the Law Department in Peking University. In 1982 he served as a UNESCO consultant at seven law departments in Universities of the People's Republic of China. In 1985 he was again invited by UNESCO to serve as a consultant on international legal studies in the People's Republic. Now in 1986 he has been awarded an Honorary Professorship in Peking University.

This unprecedented appointment marks the culmination of six years active participation in the development and strengthening of closer ties between the legal communities in China and Canada. During this time a number of Peking University Law Students have successfully completed graduate degrees in international law at Dalhousie University, and both personal and professional relationships have established a firm basis for increasing cooperation in the future.
