Dear Sir:

Introducing myself.

Born?

Yes. 1863

Where?

Upper Musquodbit, Halifax
County, Nova Scotia.

Parents?

Two. Thomas Graham grandson of Rev Hugh Graham, Presbyterian minister from Waddington, Scotland, and Jessie McKenzie, daughter of Ian McKenzie of Golspie, (near Tornoch, Scotland)
teacher of a Gaelic school in that benighted land.

3) interested in your Nova Scotia tales, particularly reference to my Meag-mogh friends.

Have you ever been in Antigonish?

Between New Glasgow and that town, at a place called Muirgominish there used to be an encampment of Mic-Macs on a small island.

If you ever find yourself in Halifax call on Joe Whidden, who is ^{Chief} Supreme Justice of the Province. A fine lad.

My 3 year-old boy plans to take his mother and myself to N.S. by car this summer. If you live in the happy land maybe I could look you up. Whidden Gisham

2) lived in various regions of Iowa until 1889. Then came to these U. States.

Was for brief period act. editor Eastern Chronicle, New Glasgow.

Have been newspaper and magazine writer for 5-2 years, 5-1 of which were spent in this city. Publications achieved: Forum, North American Review, Outlook, Collier's, America, Life, Puck, Judge, Interport
(40 years ago) and others.

Most of my writing was on the dull subject of economics, finance, auction-bridge whist.

Which is to say: That if you live in this city, or come here occasionally, you might call me up. Am in 'phone book.
I have been greatly
