Mr. Wesley Finians Stout,
Editor Saturday Evening Post,
Independence Square,
Philadelphia, Pa.

My dear Mr Stout:

I want to thank you and your associates for the exceptionally fine story "Blind McHair" by Thomas Raddall. I think it the best short story I ever read. It is told with such fine restraint, without a single word wasted and with great dramatic power. I think it marks Mr.

Raddall as one of the greatest story writers of the age. I shall watch eagerly for his stories in the Post.

Very Sincerely,
Mary Hester McCoy.

Dear Miss McCoy:

Your letter is one that any author would be glad to have, so we are taking the liberty of sending it on to Mr. Raddall.

With the thanks of the staff for your courtesy in writing, we are

Very truly yours,
